Arnall Faces Uphill Battle In Ga.

Gubernatorial Offices Seized By Talmadge

Firecracker Throws Capitol Into Uproar

ATLANTA, Jan. 16 (AP) — Ellis Arnall's contest for the Georgia governorship tonight appeared certain of being prolonged at least until Monday, although the rival claimant, Herman Talmadge, held possession of the gubernatorial chambers at the Capitol and the executive mansion in fashionable Ansley Park.

Sources close of Lieutenant Governor-elect M. E. Thompson said Thompson would take the oath of office at 11 a. m. Monday, thus qualifying to succeed Arnall under the latter's resignation filed with Georgia's Secretary of State last weekend.

The resignation was to become effective "immediately on qualification of the Lieutenant Governor."

As the dual state administrations neared the close of their second business day, the Capitol was thrown briefly into turmoil by the explosion of a firecracker high up in the rotunda above the spot where Arnall established his temporary "office" this morning.

Apparently tossed from an upper floor, the firecracker burst with a terrific report that reverberated through the dome and sent Capitol workers scurrying into the corridors.

No One Injured

Arnall had just left his desk. No one was injured. An odor of burned powder lingered for some time on the upper floors, but there was no indication who had thrown the firecracker.

Shortly after this incident the Talmadge-appointed adjutant general, Marvin Griffin, issued an order that state guardsmen should not bring rifles into the Capitol.

"I will bust the stock on every gun brought into the Statehouse," Griffin declared.

Arnall's move into the rotunda today followed early morning seizure of the executive chambers by Talmadge and his adherents.

Arnall described the tactics there and at the mansion where he later was denied entrance by state patrolmen as "the perfect Panzer movement" which gave control to "storm troops." Talmadge declined comment on this reference to his backers.

When the General Assembly convened in mid-morning, the Senate gave further support to Talmadge's legislative election by confirming three of his top appointees. At the same time Talmadge House forces beat down a proposal for an Assembly recess until the State Supreme Court rules on who is governor.

Arnall, who has served a four-year term, reiterated his contention that the Legislature was without authority to elect Talmadge as his successor.

Arnall Sets Up "Office"

"If he's the kind of man I think he is he won't yield to this farce," Arnall said of Thompson.

Talmadge indicated today he might not accept any adverse court ruling on the Arnall-sponsored suit filed yesterday to settle their squabble. The 33-year-old Talmadge said only the Legislature could award the office to which his father, Eugene Talmadge, was elected last November but died a month later.

He said in a formal statement that legislative actions are "not subject to review by the courts" but declined to say specifically what he would do. "Let's cross that bridge when we come to it," he commented.

Arnall operated alone at the Capitol from what he called an "office" in the rotunda, 30 yards from the chambers he shared yesterday when Talmadge took partial control. He sat at the information desk there, talking freely with newsmen.

"This completes, it seems to me, the capture of the state government as far as physical properties are concerned," he said. "It has been done by gradual infiltration, so

FRENCH PRESIDENT — Socialist Vincent Auriol, elected first president of the Fourth Republic at Versailles Palace yesterday, was escorted to Paris with all the fanfare of prewar France.

Auriol Probably Will Name Blum French Premier

Socialist Heads Fourth Republic

PARIS, Jan. 16 (AP)—Socialist Vincent Auriol was elected first president of the new-born Fourth Republic at Versailles Palace today by an almost exclusively Communist and Socialist vote. He was escorted to Paris with all the fanfare of prewar France, watched in silence by thousands along the Champs Elysees.

The 62-year-old "peacemaker" of French politics was elected with 452 ballots, 10 more than the required absolute majority of the 883 votes cast by the combined houses of Parliament. The margin was provided by 10 Socialist and Communist delegates who arrived in Paris from French West Africa only a few hours before.

Entered Politics On Bicycle

Aides of the short, bespectacled Auriol, who rode into French politics on a bicycle in 1914, predicted that a Cabinet would be set up "within the next three days." He scheduled conferences with Communist Leaders Jacques Duclos and Maurice Thorez for tomorrow morning.

His first task is to nominate a premier to form a cabinet, and the aides said his choice will probably be his close friend, the veteran Socialist Leon Blum, who submitted his resignation to Auriol as president-premier of the interim government.

Blum's prestige reached new heights today because of his London talks resulting in a decision to negotiate a new Anglo-French alliance, and one highly-placed Socialist declared:

"At such a moment Blum cannot refuse to accept the premiership."

The election of Auriol demonstrated the power of the French left when it manages to unite.

Three Other Candidates

London Truck Drivers To Resume Work Today

LONDON, Jan. 16 (AP)—Leaders of Britain's unauthorized truck strike called off the walkout amid indications of a major victory for their followers today, ending on its 11th day the country's most serious domestic crisis since labor came to power.

The first of the warehousemen and other sympathizers who had swelled the total strike to more than 50,000 here and in other major cities were expected to start back to work tomorrow. Leaders of the 15,000 striking drivers said they would be back at their wheels tomorrow.

Attack Opened On Reciprocal Trade Policy

Move To Block It Made In Congress

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16 (AP)—The first move in the dominantly-Republican Congress against the Democratic administration's tariff-cutting powers — a cornerstone of its foreign policy — was started today by Rep. Jenkins (R Ohio).

He filed a resolution calling upon President Truman to postpone a scheduled 18-nation conference at Geneva in March to conclude reciprocal trade pacts.

In a tartly-worded statement, he contended the administration had "speeded up" its reciprocal trade program since the Republican election victories in November in order to conclude them "before Congress can act in the matter."

Preliminary Showdown Looms

Chairman Knutson (R-Minn), of the Ways and Means Committee, on which Jenkins sits, already has declared reciprocal trade matters will be given a high priority on the committee's busy schedule. Jenkins' resolution may set the stage for a preliminary showdown.

If passed by the House, it would request the President to delay any further adjustment of duties under the Reciprocal Trade Agreement Act pending a "scientific study" by the United States Tariff Commission and a report to Congress.

Rep. Reed (R-NY), also a member of the Ways and Means Committee, told a reporter he is working on a bill for outright repeal of the Reciprocal Trade Act. The act permits the administration to cut tariffs as much as 50 per cent in return for concessions from other countries.

He expects others to be introduced which would call for congressional confirmation of past and future reciprocal agreements — a move privately but vigorously bucked by the State Department.

Further Agreements Opposed

The 28 Republican House members from Pennsylvania went on record Tuesday against further reciprocal trade agreements until power for their confirmation has been returned to Congress.

Chairman Vandenberg (R-Mich), of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said in a speech at Cleveland Saturday that "I believe we shall continue the device of reciprocal trade agreements, in one form or another."

Jenkins declared that "all trade agreements previously entered into have, without exception, reduced duties on commodities imported into the United States. With this record, it is safe to assume that those in charge of this program, if permitted to do so, would establish a complete free trade system."

Yugoslavia Asks Slice Of Austria

LONDON, Jan. 16 — (AP) Yugoslavia submitted demands today to the Big Four deputy foreign ministers for 1,000 square miles of Austrian territory, including Klagenfurt and Villach which rank eighth and ninth on population among the cities of Austria.

The deputies, who will draw up recommendations for the treaties with Germany and Austria to be submitted to the Foreign Ministers Council in Moscow in March, agreed to invite Austria to make suggestions on the treaty which will reestablish that country as an independent nation.

It was a foregone conclusion that Austria would oppose strenuously the Yugoslav request presented in a memorandum. The Austrians claim that the region, which is predominantly agricultural, is vital to the future of their country.

On the matter of the German treaty the Russians won approval of a complicated process which places Poland first on the list of states which will make recommendations on peace terms to be imposed on Germany.

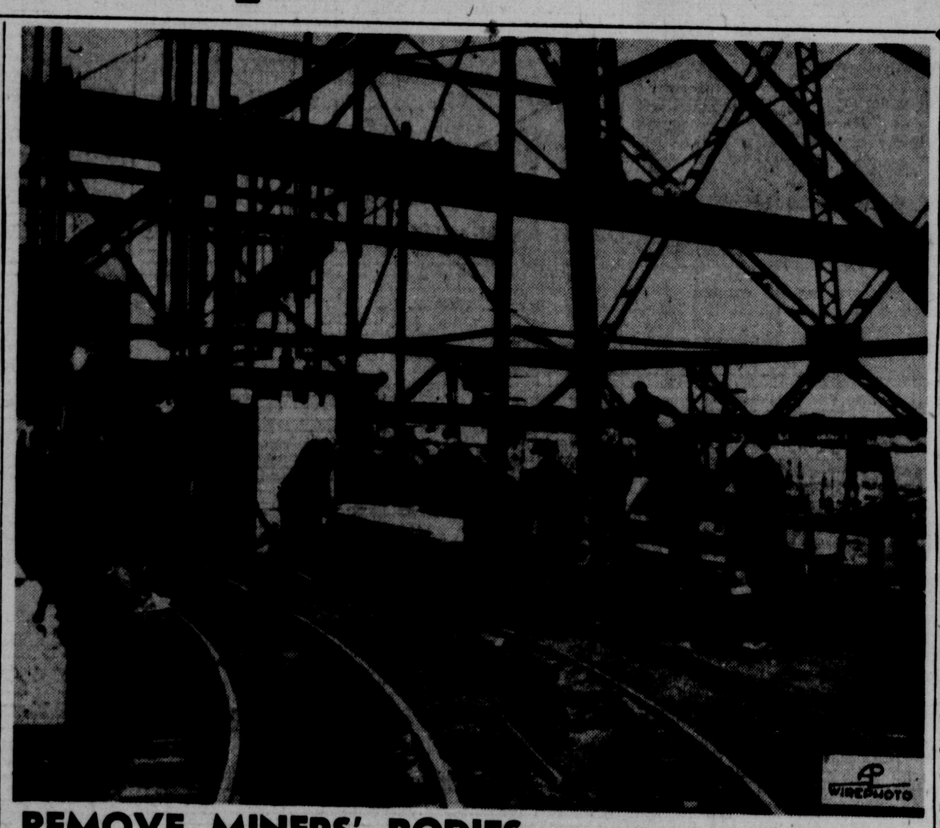
Soviet Deputy Feodor T. Gousev refused to agree to an Australian proposal to give the smaller Allied nations the right to sit at the conference with full negotiating powers. It appeared they will be able to present their views, but not to participate in the conference either as negotiators or listeners.

Sen. Brewster Promises Airline Crash Inquiry

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16 — (AP) — A Senate investigation of recent airline crashes and accidents was promised today by Sen. Brewster (R-Me).

He was designated chairman of a special Interstate Commerce Committee.

In addition to probing all recent air disasters, White said the subgroup would recommend remedial legislation to Congress dealing with all phases of air safety.



REMOVE MINERS' BODIES—Rescue workers are shown preparing to send timber down the shaft of the Top Ross vein of Nottingham colliery of the Glen Alden Coal Company anthracite mine at Plymouth, Pa., yesterday to aid in removing the bodies of 15 miners killed in an explosion Wednesday.

Mine Inspectors Fail To Discover Cause Of Blast

Worst Anthracite Disaster Since '19

PLYMOUTH, Pa., Jan. 16 (AP)—Federal and state inspectors today dug through the rubble of the Nottingham colliery of the Glen Alden Coal Company, where 15 men met death in the worst anthracite mine disaster since 1919, but were unable to discover cause of the blast.

A spokesman for the company reported that "the condition of the mine is such that we are unable to determine what set off the explosion."

The blast, which hospitalized two in addition to killing 15, occurred shortly before 6 p. m. yesterday just after the night shift reported to work.

Rescue workers, braving the constant danger of cave-ins, found four of the 19 men in the 850-foot deep gallery alive after three hours of frantic digging and later uncovered the bodies of the dead. Two escaped injury.

Ten of the dead were from Plymouth. They were Peter Minkiewicz, Joseph Craynik, Chester Ostrowski, Carl Zlotek, John Zielinski, Felix Zonobroski, Daniel Lewis, Edward Parker, John Wilde and Stanley Mytych.

The other dead were Charles Cylwik and Louis Cupinski, both of Wilkes-Barre, and James Smith, Luke Usofera and William Bockus, all of Plymouth Township.

Thirteen women were widowed and 31 children made fatherless by the blast, worst in the anthracite fields since June 5, 1919, when 92 died in a dynamite explosion in the city of Wilkes-Barre.

Vet's Offer To Sub For Willie Francis In Chair Is Refused

The 18-year-old negro, who escaped death last May through a mechanical malfunction of the chair, says that "if anybody's gonna sit, I'll sit." And his attorney, Bertrand DeBlanc, says "of course" the offer is "illegal."

DeBlanc said he had received a telegram from the wife of ex-Army Capt. John F. Kenny, Washington, D. C., saying the veteran would take Willie's place the next time.

The telegram said Kenny was "probably permanently disabled x x x and unable to obtain any consideration from the Veterans' Administration."

Excise Tax Bill Is Given Priority

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16. (AP)—A bill to continue high wartime excise taxes at the present rate indefinitely was introduced in the House today and Republican tax managers moved to push it through quickly.

The bill was offered by Rep. Grant (R-Ind). President Truman had requested such legislation.

The decision of Republican tax managers in the House to get behind it represented a change of stand on their part. They explained that it is necessary to pass the bill if income taxes are to be cut.

Chairman Knutson (R-Minn), of the Ways and Means Committee, told newsmen it will be given priority over everything else and may be approved by the committee at its first meeting tomorrow.

Clayton, Acheson Accused Of Using Posts For Gain

Marshall Is Urged To Fire "Playboys"

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16 (AP)—Two undersecretaries of state, Will Clayton and Dean Acheson, were accused today by Rep. Shafer, (R-Mich) of making big profits in private business "by reason of their high places."

Shafer demanded in a House speech that Gen. George C. Marshall, as the new Secretary of State, fire "communists, 'one-worlders' and multi-millionaire playboy diplomats who have been using American funds indirectly to increase their family fortunes."

It was Shafer's argument that Clayton gets profits from a cotton brokerage business and advocates such things as the $3,750,000,000 loan to Britain so that foreign countries can buy American cotton.

As for Acheson, Shafer said he "has learned well how to feather his own nest while serving in a public post." The Congressman relayed reports that Acheson's law firm stands to get a big fee if a loan to Poland goes through.

Accused Have No Comment

There was no immediate comment from Clayton or Acheson.

Shafer's was the hottest blast yet turned on the Democratic administration from the new, Republican-controlled Congress. Shafer got off only part of it in the House chamber. He put the rest in the record of congressional business.

He cited the "New Leader" magazine, which he called a respected anti-Soviet and pro-liberal publication, as authority for a statement that Acheson is a member of a Washington law firm, one of whose members is trying to get a $500,000,000 loan for Poland from the United States government. The fee, he quoted the publication as saying, "is supposed to be $1,000,000."

The firm was identified as Covington, Burling and Rublee. Shafer said the member "reputed" to be negotiating the loan is Donald Hiss, formerly economic adviser to Acheson in the state department.

Clayton Loan "Propagandist"

Clayton and his family, Shafer said, own 40 per cent of the stock of Anderson, Clayton and Company, the "largest cotton firm in the world."

He said the same company "depends for its very livelihood on foreign dealings—and to a large extent, on the decisions made by Will Clayton."

Clayton and his family, the Congressman said, got $5,500,000 of the firm's profits for the year ended last July 31.

As undersecretary of state in charge of economic affairs, Shafer said, Clayton is "always in favor of foreign loans" and was "principal negotiator" of the loan to Britain. He said Clayton is an "active propagandist" for loans to China, France, the Netherlands and Italy.

Edward S. Jones Dies

SCRANTON, Pa., Jan. 16 (AP)—Edward S. Jones, 70, prominent capitalist and philanthropist, died today following an illness of several days. Jones owned considerable coal lands in West Virginia and built the Kanawha and West Virginia Railroad which ran from Charleston in that state to the coal fields.

War Mobilization Report Sought By Senate Probers

Roosevelt Refused To Turn Over Data To Truman When Latter Was Senator

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16 (AP) — Chairman Brewster (R-Me) told reporters today that the special Senate War Investigating Committee planned to ask President Truman for a secret "war mobilization" report which the late President Roosevelt "refused Mr. Truman when he was a senator."

President Truman formerly headed the war inquiry group.

Brewster said that the "secret report" was one prepared by Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., former Secretary of State, and outlined detailed war mobilization plans which Brewster said "were not followed."

Brewster recalled that when Mr. Truman was head of the committee it found the war effort had "been delayed from a year to 18 months" by failure to follow the mobilization plan.

"Sen. Truman requested it of President Roosevelt and he was refused," Brewster said, adding that he did not know whether Mr. Truman as President would take a different view than he had as Senator.

The issue of whether the Senate War Investigating Committee shall be continued is now before the Senate and is to be decided tomorrow.

Brewster said that if the group is continued it would call for all facts on the "special secret funds" given to the late President Roosevelt for war purposes.

Brewster said he was told these amounted to $648,000,000.

Sen. Ferguson (R-Mich) declared in the Senate Wednesday that some of these funds had been used for other than war purposes.

Brewster said the "secret mobilization report" was prepared before this country's entry into war, when Stettinius was serving as a presidential advisor in defense matters. Stettinius, steel executive, later served as a Secretary of State.

Brewster said he had reason to believe that the Stettinius report contained many recommendations for mobilization that previously had been made by Louis Johnson, former assistant secretary of war; Bernard Baruch, presidential advisor, and the late Newton Baker, onetime Secretary of War.

"We know that certain recommendations were not followed for many, many months," Brewster said.

Compromise Would Create New Secretary Of National Defense, Separate Air Force

ARMED SERVICES MERGER IN BRIEF

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16 (AP) — The new administration plan for unifying the Army and Navy provides for:

A separate Air Force, on an equal footing with the Army and Navy.

A new "Secretary of National Defense" in the Cabinet. He will have overall charge of the three services, with authority to establish common policies and programs.

Separate departments of the Army, Navy and Air Force administered as individual units. Each would be headed by a secretary having direct access to the President. These secretaries also may be Cabinet members.

The Navy keeps its Marine Corps and its own aviation, including land planes and bases, but must co-ordinate its air operations with the separate Air Force.

Each of the three services will have its own military chief (corresponding to the Army's present chief of staff and the Navy's chief of naval operations). No provision is made for an overall military chief. These three, plus the President's chief of staff when he has one, will comprise the joint chiefs of staff.

Each Service Would Have Its Own Chief

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16 (AP) — A compromise plan designed to unify the armed services while retaining their separate administration and military leadership was announced tonight by President Truman with the blessing of both the Army and Navy.

It would create a separate air force and place a new Secretary of National Defense in overall charge of it, the Army and Navy. Each of the three services would have secretaries, too, who may be Cabinet members.

The expected unification would be achieved by vesting the Secretary of National Defense with authority to lay down common policies and programs for the three arms. But each department would be administered as a unit.

Moreover each service would have its own military chief, with no overall military commander as proposed in previous merger plans.

The Navy would keep its Marine Corps and its land-based aviation, both fighting and transport. Other concessions to the Navy also are contained in the plan.

Truman Endorses Plan

The White House announcement was made after receipt of a joint letter from Secretary of War Patterson and Secretary of the Navy Forrestal. They offered to support legislation setting up a Council of National Defense.

Under the plan, which Mr. Truman said would have his hearty support, the armed forces would be organized under a Secretary of National Defense, "so as to place the Army, the Navy (to include the Marine Corps and naval aviation), and the Air Force, each under a military chief, under the departments of the Army, the Navy, and the Air Force respectively."

Each would be under a secretary, and under the overall direction of the Secretary of National Defense, "shall be administered as an individual unit."

Under the agreement the secretary of any of the three departments would be able, at any time, to present to the President any report or recommendation relating to his department which he may desire, provided he first informed the Secretary of National Defense.

News Conference Scheduled

The two service secretaries, who long have differed over the Army's advocacy of a merger, submitted to Mr. Truman a proposed executive order calling for the unification.

Presidential Secretary Charles G. Ross said a group of Army and Navy leaders will hold a news conference at the White House tomorrow at 10:00 a. m. (EST) to explain details.

Announcement of the agreement was made after Patterson spent nearly two hours at the White House talking with President Truman and the President's legal counsel, Clark M. Clifford.

The President, in a letter to Patterson and Forrestal, expressed pleasure at their "full and complete agreement" and said it offered "a thoroughly practicable and workable plan of unification and I heartily approve it."

The secretaries, in their letter, agreed to support legislation incorporating the following points:

1. The establishment of a Council of National Defense, a National Security Resources Board and a central intelligence agency (which already exists).

2. Organization of the armed forces under a Secretary of National Defense.

War Council Is Provided

3. Creation of a war council consisting of the Secretary of National Defense, as chairman and with power of decision; the Secretaries of the Army, Navy and the Air Force, and the military heads of the three services. The War Council would concern itself with "matters of broad policy relating to the armed forces."

Navy Clamps Down On Dairen Visitors

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16 (AP)—The Navy said today it has ordered its ship commanders to take no more American businessmen or newspapermen to the Russian-controlled Chinese port of Dairen unless they are cleared by the State Department or another "responsible" agency.

The order was first reported in a news dispatch from Shanghai, which described it as a flat ban upon such travel.

A State Department spokesman, Michael J. McDermott, when asked about it today, said that "the order exists." He gave no details, except to say that it had not been requested by the State Department.

Later the Navy issued this statement:

"The Navy Department has issued instructions concerning the carrying of passengers on Navy ships in the Western Pacific to insure that passengers have been properly sponsored and cleared by the responsible government agencies."

A Navy spokesman told reporters the order does not constitute a ban on civilian travel to Dairen or other ports.

The reason for the order was not stated officially. It was recalled that on December 22 a naval vessel on courier service for the State Department was ordered out of Dairen by Russian authorities after it had overstayed its authorized period there.

Plane Industry Asks Portal Pay Suit Ban

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16 (AP)—An industry spokesman testified in Congress today that pending portal pay suits could "literally wipe out" the nation's aircraft companies.

E. E. Wilson, chairman of the board of the Aircraft Industries Association, told a Senate Judiciary Subcommittee that plane firms "must inevitably succumb" unless Congress acts promptly to "relieve the threat of disaster" posed by portal claims.

Fearful of an "economic tailspin," proponents of legislation to knock out back pay claims already exceeding more than $4,000,000,000 also urged the subcommittee to make it broad enough to block other possible "windfalls" to workers.

Impoverished Mother Would Sell One Of Eyes "To Highest Bidder"

EDINBORO, Pa., Jan. 16 (AP)—An impoverished 51-year-old mother of 12 children hopefully offered today to sell one of her eyes "to the highest bidder" so she could give her youngsters "proper food and a good home."

To complete the bargain, said grey-haired Mrs. Marie Didion, she would give the "buyer" her other eye at her death, "in return for future security."

She explained she is concerned over her younger children, four of whom are between seven and 15. The others are grown, but since they also have large families they are unable to assist her.

Mrs. Didion's husband, William, a carpenter, suffers from asthma and bronchitis and cannot work steadily. She said her only other income is an allotment from a son in the Navy. Following a recent operation, she has been unable to work herself.

"There is nothing else for me to do," she said determinedly. "I want to keep my children with me. I want them to amount to something, to have good, normal lives.

"I want my girls to go on with their studies. One girl wants to be a nurse and another a newspaper reporter. I can't even give them the kind of clothing they need.

"I would like to sell my eye to someone who would give us a small farm somewhere, with perhaps cows and some farm machinery so we could earn our own living."

High-Cost-Of-Living Balloon Pulled Closer To Earth; Supplies Increase

[By The Associated Press]

Increasing supplies of food and other essential commodities, backed by mounting consumer resistance, dragged the high-cost-of-living balloon closer to earth yesterday.

Lower prices for wheat, cotton, oats, cattle, butter, eggs, and poultry accented a downtrend for food prices under way for more than a month.

Isolated declines for industrial raw materials also developed, including silver, hides and wools.

In New Hampshire, the Public Service Company announced a reduction in electric rates despite rising costs. The same state announced a drop in retail and wholesale cream prices.

New York City A. & P. food stores reduced butter one cent a pound. The wholesale market dropped two to 2¼ cents a pound, piling up losses for the last three weeks to around 20 cents and for this week alone eight to nine cents.

The Chicago wholesale market also declined.

In the Chicago grain future market, wheat closed five-eighths to 1½ cents down. Oats lost one-half to one cent.

Chairman Vandenberg (R-Mich), of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said in a speech at Cleveland Saturday that "I believe we shall continue the device of reciprocal trade agreements, in one form or another."

Jenkins declared that "all trade agreements previously entered into have, without exception, reduced duties on commodities imported into the United States. With this record, it is safe to assume that those in charge of this program, if permitted to do so, would establish a complete free trade system."

Yugoslavia Asks Slice Of Austria

LONDON, Jan. 16 — (AP) Yugoslavia submitted demands today to the Big Four deputy foreign ministers for 1,000 square miles of Austrian territory, including Klagenfurt and Villach which rank eighth and ninth on population among the cities of Austria.

The deputies, who will draw up recommendations for the treaties with Germany and Austria to be submitted to the Foreign Ministers Council in Moscow in March, agreed to invite Austria to make suggestions on the treaty which will re-establish that country as an independent nation.

It was a foregone conclusion that Austria would oppose strenuously the Yugoslav request presented in a memorandum. The Austrians claim that the region, which is predominantly agricultural, is vital to the future of their country.

On the matter of the German treaty the Russians won approval of a complicated process which places Poland first on the list of states which will make recommendations on peace terms to be imposed on Germany.

Soviet Deputy Feodor T. Gousev refused to agree to an Australian proposal to give the smaller Allied nations the right to sit at the conference with full negotiating powers. It appeared they will be able to present their views, but not to participate in the conference either as negotiators or listeners.

Sen. Brewster Promises Airline Crash Inquiry

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16 — (AP) — A Senate investigation of recent airline crashes and accidents was promised today by Sen. Brewster (R-Me).

He was designated chairman of a special Interstate Commerce Committee.

In addition to probing all recent air disasters, White said the subgroup would recommend remedial legislation to Congress dealing with all phases of air safety.

REMOVE MINERS' BODIES—Rescue workers are shown preparing to send timber down the shaft of the Top Ross vein of Nottingham colliery of the Glen Alden Coal Company anthracite mine at Plymouth, Pa., yesterday to aid in removing the bodies of 15 miners killed in an explosion Wednesday.

Mine Inspectors Fail To Discover Cause Of Blast

Worst Anthracite Disaster Since '19

PLYMOUTH, Pa., Jan. 16 (AP)—Federal and state inspectors today dug through the rubble of the Nottingham colliery of the Glen Alden Coal Company, where 15 men met death in the worst anthracite mine disaster since 1919, but were unable to discover cause of the blast.

A spokesman for the company reported that "the condition of the mine is such that we are unable to determine what set off the explosion."

The blast, which hospitalized two in addition to killing 15, occurred shortly before 6 p. m. yesterday just after the night shift reported to work.

Rescue workers, braving the constant danger of cave-ins, found four of the 19 men in the 850-foot deep gallery alive after three hours of frantic digging and later uncovered the bodies of the dead. Two escaped injury.

Ten of the dead were from Plymouth. They were Peter Minkiewicz, Joseph Craynik, Chester Ostrowski, Carl Zlotek, John Zielinski, Felix Zonobroski, Daniel Lewis, Edward Parker, John Wilde and Stanley Mytych.

The other dead were Charles Cylwik and Louis Cupinski, both of Wilkes-Barre, and James Smith, Luke Usofera and William Bockus, all of Plymouth Township.

Thirteen women were widowed and 31 children made fatherless by the blast, worst in the anthracite fields since June 5, 1919, when 92 died in a dynamite explosion in the city of Wilkes-Barre.

Vet's Offer To Sub For Willie Francis In Chair Is Refused

LAFAYETTE, La., Jan. 16—(AP)—Willie Francis has declined the offer of a substitute for his second trip to the electric chair.

The 18-year-old negro, who escaped death last May through a mechanical malfunction of the chair, says that "if anybody's gonna sit, I'll sit." And his attorney, Bertrand DeBlanc, says "of course" the offer is "illegal."

DeBlanc said he had received a telegram from the wife of ex-Army Capt. John F. Kenny, Washington, D. C., saying the veteran would take Willie's place the next time.

The telegram said Kenny was "probably permanently disabled x x x and unable to obtain any consideration from the Veterans' Administration."

Excise Tax Bill Is Given Priority

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16. (AP)—A bill to continue high wartime excise taxes at the present rate indefinitely was introduced in the House today and Republican tax managers moved to push it through quickly.

The bill was offered by Rep. Grant (R-Ind). President Truman had requested such legislation.

The decision of Republican tax managers in the House to get behind it represented a change of stand on their part. They explained that it is necessary to pass the bill if income taxes are to be cut.

Chairman Knutson (R-Minn), of the Ways and Means Committee, told newsmen it will be given priority over everything else and may be approved by the committee at its first meeting tomorrow.

Clayton, Acheson Accused Of Using Posts For Gain

Marshall Is Urged To Fire "Playboys"

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16 (AP)—Two undersecretaries of state, Will Clayton and Dean Acheson, were accused today by Rep. Shafer, (R-Mich) of making big profits in private business "by reason of their high places."

Shafer demanded in a House speech that Gen. George C. Marshall, as the new Secretary of State, fire "communists, 'one-worlders' and multi-millionaire playboy diplomats who have been using American funds indirectly to increase their family fortunes."

It was Shafer's argument that Clayton gets profits from a cotton brokerage business and advocates such things as the $3,750,000,000 loan to Britain so that foreign countries can buy American cotton.

As for Acheson, Shafer said he "has learned well how to feather his own nest while serving in a public post." The Congressman relayed reports that Acheson's law firm stands to get a big fee if a loan to Poland goes through.

Accused Have No Comment

There was no immediate comment from Clayton or Acheson.

Shafer's was the hottest blast yet turned on the Democratic administration from the new, Republican-controlled Congress. Shafer got off only part of it in the House chamber. He put the rest in the record of congressional business.

He cited the "New Leader" magazine, which he called a respected anti-Soviet and pro-liberal publication, as authority for a statement that Acheson is a member of a Washington law firm, one of whose members is trying to get a $500,000,000 loan for Poland from the United States government. The fee, he quoted the publication as saying, "is supposed to be $1,000,000."

The firm was identified as Covington, Burling and Rublee. Shafer said the member "reputed" to be negotiating the loan is Donald Hiss, formerly economic adviser to Acheson in the state department.

Clayton Loan "Propagandist"

Clayton and his family, Shafer said, own 40 per cent of the stock of Anderson, Clayton and Company, the "largest cotton firm in the world."

He said the same company "depends for its very livelihood on foreign dealings—and to a large extent, on the decisions made by Will Clayton."

Clayton and his family, the Congressman said, got $5,500,000 of the firm's profits for the year ended last July 31.

As undersecretary of state in charge of economic affairs, Shafer said, Clayton is "always in favor of foreign loans" and was "principal negotiator" of the loan to Britain. He said Clayton is an "active propagandist" for loans to China, France, the Netherlands and Italy.

Edward S. Jones Dies

SCRANTON, Pa., Jan. 16 (AP)—Edward S. Jones, 70, prominent capitalist and philanthropist, died today following an illness of several days. Jones owned considerable coal lands in West Virginia and built the Kanawha and West Virginia Railroad which ran from Charleston in that state to the coal fields.

Compromise Would Create New Secretary Of National Defense, Separate Air Force

ARMED SERVICES MERGER IN BRIEF

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16 (AP) — The new administration plan for unifying the Army and Navy provides for:

A separate Air Force, on an equal footing with the Army and Navy.

A new "Secretary of National Defense" in the Cabinet. He will have overall charge of the three services, with authority to establish common policies and programs.

Separate departments of the Army, Navy and Air Force administered as individual units. Each would be headed by a secretary having direct access to the President. These secretaries also may be Cabinet members.

The Navy keeps its Marine Corps and its own aviation, including land planes and bases, but must co-ordinate its air operations with the separate Air Force.

Each of the three services will have its own military chief (corresponding to the Army's present chief of staff and the Navy's chief of naval operations). No provision is made for an overall military chief. These three, plus the President's chief of staff when he has one, will comprise the joint chiefs of staff.

Each Service Would Have Its Own Chief

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16 (AP) — A compromise plan designed to unify the armed services while retaining their separate administration and military leadership was announced tonight by President Truman with the blessing of both the Army and Navy.

It would create a separate air force and place a new Secretary of National Defense in overall charge of it, the Army and Navy. Each of the three services would have secretaries, too, who may be Cabinet members.

The expected unification would be achieved by vesting the Secretary of National Defense with authority to lay down common policies and programs for the three arms. But each department would be administered as a unit.

Moreover each service would have its own military chief, with no overall military commander as proposed in previous merger plans.

The Navy would keep its Marine Corps and its land-based aviation, both fighting and transport. Other concessions to the Navy also are contained in the plan.

Truman Endorses Plan

The White House announcement was made after receipt of a joint letter from Secretary of War Patterson and Secretary of the Navy Forrestal. They offered to support legislation setting up a Council of National Defense.

Under the plan, which Mr. Truman said would have his hearty support, the armed forces would be organized under a Secretary of National Defense, "so as to place the Army, the Navy (to include the Marine Corps and naval aviation), and the Air Force, each under a military chief, under the departments of the Army, the Navy, and the Air Force respectively."

Each would be under a secretary, and under the overall direction of the Secretary of National Defense, "shall be administered as an individual unit."

Under the agreement the secretary of any of the three departments would be able, at any time, to present to the President any report or recommendation relating to his department which he may desire, provided he first informed the Secretary of National Defense.

News Conference Scheduled

The two service secretaries, who long have differed over the Army's advocacy of a merger, submitted to Mr. Truman a proposed executive order calling for the unification.

Presidential Secretary Charles G. Ross said a group of Army and Navy leaders will hold a news conference at the White House tomorrow at 10:00 a. m. (EST) to explain details.

Announcement of the agreement was made after Patterson spent nearly two hours at the White House talking with President Truman and the President's legal counsel, Clark M. Clifford.

The President, in a letter to Patterson and Forrestal, expressed pleasure at their "full and complete agreement" and said it offered "a thoroughly practicable and workable plan of unification and I heartily approve it."

The secretaries, in their letter, agreed to support legislation incorporating the following points:

1. The establishment of a Council of National Defense, a National Security Resources Board and a central intelligence agency (which already exists).

2. Organization of the armed forces under a Secretary of National Defense.

War Council Is Provided

3. Creation of a war council consisting of the Secretary of National Defense, as chairman and with power of decision; the Secretaries of the Army, Navy and the Air Force, and the military heads of the three services. The War Council would concern itself with "matters of broad policy relating to the armed forces."

Navy Clamps Down On Dairen Visitors

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16 (AP)—The Navy said today it has ordered its ship commanders to take no more American businessmen or newspapermen to the Russian-controlled Chinese port of Dairen unless they are cleared by the State Department or another "responsible" agency.

The order was first reported in a news dispatch from Shanghai, which described it as a flat ban upon such travel.

A State Department spokesman, Michael J. McDermott, when asked about it today, said that "the order exists." He gave no details, except to say that it had not been requested by the State Department.

Later the Navy issued this statement:

"The Navy Department has issued instructions concerning the carrying of passengers on Navy ships in the Western Pacific to insure that passengers have been properly sponsored and cleared by the responsible government agencies."

A Navy spokesman told reporters the order does not constitute a ban on civilian travel to Dairen or other ports.

The reason for the order was not stated officially. It was recalled that on December 22 a naval vessel on courier service for the State Department was ordered out of Dairen by Russian authorities after it had overstayed its authorized period there.

Plane Industry Asks Portal Pay Suit Ban

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16 (AP)—An industry spokesman testified in Congress today that pending portal pay suits could "literally wipe out" the nation's aircraft companies.

E. E. Wilson, chairman of the board of the Aircraft Industries Association, told a Senate Judiciary Subcommittee that plane firms "must inevitably succumb" unless Congress acts promptly to "relieve the threat of disaster" posed by portal claims.

Fearful of an "economic tailspin," proponents of legislation to knock out back pay claims already exceeding more than $4,000,000,000 also urged the subcommittee to make it broad enough to block other possible "windfalls" to workers.

War Mobilization Report Sought By Senate Probers

Roosevelt Refused To Turn Over Data To Truman When Latter Was Senator

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16 (AP) — Chairman Brewster (R-Me) told reporters today that the special Senate War Investigating Committee planned to ask President Truman for a secret "war mobilization" report which the late President Roosevelt "refused Mr. Truman when he was a senator."

President Truman formerly headed the war inquiry group.

Brewster said that the "secret report" was one prepared by Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., former Secretary of State, and outlined detailed war mobilization plans which Brewster said "were not followed."

Brewster recalled that when Mr. Truman was head of the committee it found the war effort had "been delayed from a year to 18 months" by failure to follow the mobilization plan.

"Sen. Truman requested it of President Roosevelt and he was refused," Brewster said, adding that he did not know whether Mr. Truman as President would take a different view than he had as Senator.

The issue of whether the Senate War Investigating Committee shall be continued is now before the Senate and is to be decided tomorrow.

Brewster said that if the group is continued it would call for all facts on the "special secret funds" given to the late President Roosevelt for war purposes.

Brewster said he was told these amounted to $648,000,000.

Sen. Ferguson (R-Mich) declared in the Senate Wednesday that some of these funds had been used for other than war purposes.

Brewster said the "secret mobilization report" was prepared before this country's entry into war, when Stettinius was serving as a presidential advisor in defense matters. Stettinius, steel executive, later served as a Secretary of State.

Brewster said he had reason to believe that the Stettinius report contained many recommendations for mobilization that previously had been made by Louis Johnson, former assistant secretary of war; Bernard Baruch, presidential advisor, and the late Newton Baker, onetime Secretary of War.

"We know that certain recommendations were not followed for many, many months," Brewster said.

Impoverished Mother Would Sell One Of Eyes "To Highest Bidder"

EDINBORO, Pa., Jan. 16 (AP)—An impoverished 51-year-old mother of 12 children hopefully offered today to sell one of her eyes "to the highest bidder" so she could give her youngsters "proper food and a good home."

To complete the bargain, said grey-haired Mrs. Marie Didion, she would give the "buyer" her other eye at her death, "in return for future security."

She explained she is concerned over her younger children, four of whom are between seven and 15. The others are grown, but since they also have large families they are unable to assist her.

Mrs. Didion's husband, William, a carpenter, suffers from asthma and bronchitis and cannot work steadily. She said her only other income is an allotment from a son in the Navy. Following a recent operation, she has been unable to work herself.

"There is nothing else for me to do," she said determinedly. "I want to keep my children with me. I want them to amount to something, to have good, normal lives.

"I want my girls to go on with their studies. One girl wants to be a nurse and another a newspaper reporter. I can't even give them the kind of clothing they need.

"I would like to sell my eye to someone who would give us a small farm somewhere, with perhaps cows and some farm machinery so we could earn our own living."

High-Cost-Of-Living Balloon Pulled Closer To Earth; Supplies Increase

[By The Associated Press]

Increasing supplies of food and other essential commodities, backed by mounting consumer resistance, dragged the high-cost-of-living balloon closer to earth yesterday.

Lower prices for wheat, cotton, oats, cattle, butter, eggs, and poultry accented a downtrend for food prices under way for more than a month.

Isolated declines for industrial raw materials also developed, including silver, hides and wools.

In New Hampshire, the Public Service Company announced a reduction in electric rates despite rising costs. The same state announced a drop in retail and wholesale cream prices.

New York City A. & P. food stores reduced butter one cent a pound. The wholesale market dropped two to 2¼ cents a pound, piling up losses for the last three weeks to around 20 cents and for this week alone eight to nine cents.

The Chicago wholesale market also declined.

In the Chicago grain future market, wheat closed five-eighths to 1⅛ cents down. Oats lost one-half to one cent.

Raw cotton for spot delivery dipped $1.25 a bale at New Orleans.

Senate Election Vote Recount Will Start Next Week

Three-Man Group To Go To Annapolis

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16 (AP)—Sen. Hickenlooper (R-Iowa) said today a Senate Rules Subcommittee will start next week on a recount of votes in the contested Maryland senatorial election.

After a conference with attorneys for Sen. Herbert R. O'Conor (D-Md) and David John Markey, his unsuccessful Republican opponent in the November campaign, Hickenlooper told newsmen the three-man group will go to Annapolis to supervise start of the recount.

The Iowan, chairman of the subcommittee designated by Rules Chairman Brooks (R-Ill) to study three senatorial election contests, also announced the hiring of C. Golden Kratz, a Nebraska attorney, to supervise the recount. Kratz is being discharged from the Army, Hickenlooper said, with the rank of lieutenant colonel.

Walsh Attends Meeting

Kratz formerly served on the Nebraska State Board of Control, which supervises public institutions. Kratz, who attended today's conference, is an attorney.

Others at the subcommittee meeting, held behind closed doors, were Sens. Bricker (R-Ohio) and Myers (D-Pa), both members, and William C. Walsh, Cumberland (Md.) attorney and former Maryland Attorney General, who is representing O'Conor, and George C. Do[illegible], Baltimore attorney acting for Markey.

Louis C. Wyman, who was counsel to the Senate Campaign Investigating Committee in the last Congress, also attended.

Hickenlooper said that Wyman, although he is now writing a final report for that committee and is taking another position, "will sort of loan himself to us for the next two weeks."

Wyman was in charge of the previous investigation by the campaign investigating committee, which expired at the end of the [illegible].

Staff Of 14 Persons

Hickenlooper said a staff of about [illegible]s will go to Annapolis with [illegible] committee to check ballots in Anne Arundel county, one of five in which Markey alleged were the largest number of errors and irregularities.

The recount will begin either at 1 p. m. (EST) on Monday or at 10 a. m. on Tuesday, Hickenlooper said, the exact time to be fixed later. It will depend upon which day is more convenient to the subcommittee members, he added.

Markey contends, in the petition in which he asked for a full inquiry by the Senate, that O'Conor's margin of 2,232 votes found in the state tabulation was the result of irregularities. A fair count, he declared, would have given him the Senate seat by from 10,000 to 15,000 votes.

Board Gives New Projects Red Light

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 16 (AP)—The Board of Public Works today turned on a red light for bids on new construction projects on the State Planning Commission program.

Faced with many odds and ends left over from the Herbert R. O'Conor administration and the desire of many state agencies to ask bids on projects already approved, the board decided projects uncontracted for would have to wait.

Gov. Lane, presiding over his first Board of Public Works meeting of the new administration, said that building projects should not be undertaken now unless they were of an emergency nature.

He said he would like to see a report of the work already under contract, its cost and new suggestions.

He added the entire program should be submitted to the Legislature and a new method of financing projects worked out.

that at the moment storm troops are in control."

His reference was to patrolmen and some National Guard officers standing nearby.

War Department Studies Situation

The War Department in Washington took cognizance of the tangled situation since Georgia's governor is commander-in-chief of the National Guard. A spokesman said the War and Justice Departments are consulting "on the whole matter."

Talmadge claims the guard is under his adjutant general, Marvin Griffin, whom Arnall fired yesterday through appointment of R. W. Collins as successor.

Arnall's appearance at the Capitol was the start of his dramatic day. He pounded on the outer door several times before it was opened by Benton Odum, Talmadge's secretary, who denied entry to "the office of Mr. Talmadge who is now the legal governor of the State of Georgia."

Arnall had a brief verbal exchange with Odum before moving to the rotunda, commenting that "it is quite obvious that Mr. Talmadge is afraid to see me face to face."

Arnall later went to the executive mansion, from which he moved last week, where he said he would have lunch with friends.

His path to a side door was [illegible]ocked by Sgt. Frank Jones, com[illegible]nder of a four-man detail, who [illegible] him "I hate to think what [illegible]uld happen" if he insisted on [illegible]ering.

Arnall later shook hands with the patrolmen and retired, minutes before Mrs. Herman Talmadge and her two children entered by the same door. "It looks that way," she said when asked if she was "moving in for good."

Weather In Nearby States

WEST VIRGINIA and WESTERN PENNSYLVANIA—Partly cloudy and colder today. Tomorrow fair and somewhat warmer.

FIGHTS VERDICT—Appealing for commutation of a 25-year sentence imposed on her husband by an Army court-martial, Mrs. Robert Schneeweis, Milwaukee, shows her two children a picture of their father. A former lieutenant, Schneeweis was charged with killing four German civilians. In her petition, Mrs. Schneeweis pointed out that "Nazi-killing propaganda" had probably caused her husband to act as he did. The children are Carole, 3, and Robert, 17 months.

Nude, Butchered Body Of Woman Is Identified; Horror Room Is Hunted

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 16 (AP)—The nude, butchered body of a woman found in a vacant lot yesterday, was identified by the Federal Bureau of Investigation tonight as that of Elizabeth Short, 22, whose birthplace was listed as Hyde Park, Mass.

The FBI announced the identity had been established through fingerprints obtained when the girl had applied for a clerk's job in the post exchange at Camp Cooke, Calif., January 30, 1943. The Los Angeles Times said she was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cleo Short, Medford, Mass.

The girl was taken into custody at Santa Barbara September 23, 1943, for alleged violation of juvenile court laws, after which she was released to the probation department the FBI announced.

Coroner's autopsy physicians said the girl died of hemorrhage, shock and concussion of the brain. They decided that other mutilation of the body, which was bisected at the abdomen and contained multiple gashes and bruises, occurred after death.

Shocked by the brutal killing, City Councilman Lloyd G. Davis said he would offer a resolution tomorrow for the posting of a $10,000 reward for capture and conviction of the killer.

Meantime police investigators hunted a horror room in connection with their search for the sadistic slayer.

"We think that somewhere, in some shack, the fiend who killed this girl tied her up, tortured and finally strangled her," Detective Lt. Harry Hansen said.

The detective said absence of much blood at the scene made it obvious the slaying took place elsewhere.

The corpse, cut in two at the waist, was dumped into the lot, presumably from an automobile, sometime early yesterday.

"This is the most brutal example of a sex crime I have ever seen," said Detective Lt. P. W. Freestone.

23-Year-Old Girl Stops Hiccoughing After Operation

NEW YORK, Jan. 16 (AP)—Anna Mayer's 60 days of hiccoughing ended today.

Anna, 23-year-old Queens girl, stopped hiccoughing a short time after an army doctor performed an operation on the phrenic nerve.

Dr. Lester Samuels, surgeon at the Veterans' Administration hospital at Alexandria, La., who came here to operate on Miss Mayer after she appealed to President Truman to grant him leave, said he would remain in New York for a few days to attend her.

The hospital reported that Dr. Samuels removed one and a half inches from the right phrenic nerve near the heart, which was found to be inflamed and swollen to twice its normal size.

Civilians Evacuated Under Hanoi Truce

HANOI, Jan. 15 (Delayed) (AP)—A four hour truce was declared in Hanoi today while 7,000 Viet-Namese and Chinese civilians were evacuated from the crowded native quarter which Viet-Namese armed youth have been holding against French siege for almost a month.

Under the truce arranged by the American, British and Chinese consulates, French authorities issued strict cease-fire orders, and thousands of ragged civilians—men, women and children—filed through the exits in the cold Tonkin rain.

Compromise Would

4. Establishment of a joint chiefs of staff, made up of the military heads of the three services and the chief of staff to the President. Subject to authority to the Secretary of National Defense, the joint chiefs of staff would provide for the strategic direction of the military forces of the United States, formulate strategic plans, assign logistics responsibilities to the services and integrate military requirements.

5. Establishment of a full-time joint staff to consist initially of not more than 100 officers to be made up of equal numbers from each of the three services. The joint staff, operating under a director, would carry out directives of the joint chiefs of staff.

6. Vestment of the Secretary of National Defense, as head of the armed forces establishment, with authority, under the President, "to establish common policies and common programs for the integrated operation of the three departments."

got 60. There were an additional seven scattered ballots.

The election climaxed a decided swing by the left toward Communist-Socialist co-operation that has been evident the past week due to the vacillating attitude of the MRP, which persisted in opposing Auriol both in his election Tuesday as president of the assembly and today.

Auriol was slated to be succeeded as assembly president by Radical-Socialist Edouard Herriot, a prewar premier.

Md. Senate Okays Two Bills; House Wrangle Settled

18 New Measures Are Introduced

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 16. (AP)—The State Senate, in its 11th business day of 1947, passed its first two bills today, while the House squared away to get some work done by settling the worrisome and wearisome wrangle over a Baltimore City delegation leader.

The first measures to pass the Senate were minor segments of the Legislative Council's voluminous report—one to exempt honorary members of the state militia from jury duty and the other to provide that negotiable instruments which fall due on holidays be payable on the following days with interest that day.

Both passed unanimously and went to the House.

With no advance warning, the long-drawn out argument over a leader for the 36-member Baltimore delegation ended with announcement by Delegate J. Raymond Buffington, Jr., (D-Balto 3rd) that he was withdrawing.

18 Supported Buffington

Buffington had been backed by 18 members, adherents of the city group led by former Attorney General William C. Curran. Their determination to stand behind Buffington had blocked efforts to elect Delegate Leroy Frederick (D-Balto 6th).

Frederick had the support of James H. Pollack and others who last year backed Gov. Lane in the primary.

Buffington in his withdrawal announcement stated, however, that he was doing so in expectation that Speaker Sybert himself would choose the city delegation leader.

Both House and Senate prepared for a quick getaway tomorrow by adjourning until 11 a. m. It was expected that weekend adjournment would come before noon.

Ten new bills came into the House and eight into the Senate.

A proposal for a referendum in 1948 to eliminate Maryland's constitutional ban on lotteries was submitted by Delegate Kosakowski (D-Balto. 1st).

Kosakowski would give the General Assembly power, by special action in each case, to grant authorizations for lotteries. They might be held by the state, by municipalities, by organizations or by individuals. He said privately the state itself might find itself in need of money some day, money it could not get from taxpayers.

Would Clean Up Sports

Delegate Carrick (D-Balto. 6th), 24-year-old delegate, sponsored a bill to make it a misdemeanor for anyone participating in an athletic contest to accept a bribe. The punishment would be a fine of not more than $5,000, three years in prison, or both.

Among other House bills were four Legislative Council measures which somehow were "lost" when the program was submitted at the start of the session. All are of a technical nature and are part of the Sherbow Commission report.

They would repeal certain parts of the statutes dealing with school salaries and aid to school employes. These are covered in various sections of the Sherbow report.

The Senate received four Baltimore city bills, minor parts of the city program. They deal with taxation of buses and street cars, and with condemnation rights of the redevelopment commission.

Two Navy Fliers Slightly Injured In Plane Crash

NORFOLK, Va., Jan. 16 (AP)—Two Navy airmen escaped with minor injuries when their Curtis Helldiver crashed in a field near North Shore road today. Live rockets were torn from the plane's wings, but did not explode.

The fliers, who were treated for lacerations at the naval station hospital, are Ensign C. C. Kelly, Uniontown, Pa., and J. Kelly, aviation ordnanceman first class, Wheeling, W. Va. They were assigned to the carrier Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Wounded Man Guarded After Slaying Of Bride

BALTIMORE, Jan. 16 — (AP) — As police waited with questions, doctors said today Walter Szukiewicz, 26-year-old Polish - born seaman, probably would recover from a chest wound suffered at the same time his bride of nine months was slain on an East Baltimore street yesterday.

A police detail stood guard over Szukiewicz at Johns Hopkins Hospital, but he has not yet been questioned.

Mrs. Helen Szukiewicz, 22, was shot in the heart as she walked along a street on her way to work as clerk in a railroad yards. She staggered into the doorway of a bakery, witnesses reported, and her husband slumped to the sidewalk after another shot.

Police said witnesses told them Szukiewicz tried to reach a German-make pistol nearby but someone kicked it away.

Harmony Forum Held By Truman, Congress "Big 6"

Partisan Politics Are Side-Stepped

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16 (AP) — President Truman's first meeting with his "Big Six" congressional committee side-stepped partisan politics today, participants reported, and achieved "harmony" on the prospect of cooperation between the White House and the GOP-dominated Congress.

Sen. Vandenberg (R-Mich), president of the Senate, emphasized that it was a harmonious "open forum" carried out in an atmosphere of good will. He indicated that future meetings will continue to be held in a non-partisan vein.

Vandenberg said in reply to a reporter's question that the controversial matter of Mr. Truman's $37,500,000,000 budget proposal did not come under discussion.

Surplus Property Disposal

Specifically, Mr. Truman and his six party-leader consultants delved into the huge and complicated task of clearing away approximately $22,247,000,000 in war surplus properties.

To this end, the President summoned Robert M. Littlejohn, head of the War Assets Administration, to advise the lawmakers on progress toward speeding up surplus disposals. WAA officials said later the committee "expressed approval" of Littlejohn's program.

The Big Six also discussed the question of authorizing the Maritime Commission to continue shipping operations after March 1. Vandenberg said the commission's authority "must be renewed."

Mr. Truman sent word to newsmen after the 50-minute session—which lasted 20 minutes longer than scheduled—that it was "a very satisfactory meeting.

Three Other Republicans

Besides Vandenberg, the group included three other Republicans and two Democrats: Senate Majority Leader White (R-Me), House Speaker Martin (R-Mass), House Majority Leader Halleck (R-Ind), Senate Minority Leader Barkley (D-Ky) and House Minority Leader Rayburn (D-Tex).

"We had a very pleasant talk with the President about the possibility for cooperation with respect to legislative problems as differentiated from political issues," Vandenberg said.

"The discussion was confined very definitely to non-partisan problems."

Mayon Volcano Again In "Violent Eruption"

MANILA, Friday, Jan. 17—(AP)—The steamer Fairland radioed today that Mayon volcano again was in "violent eruption" and hurling lava and rock thousands of feet into the air.

The Fairland, anchored at Legaspi eight miles from the huge valcano, said a giant smoke column extended miles above the peak and gusts of gas and smoke issued from the summit every few seconds.

The steamer's message reported the flying rock and lava "are plainly visible with the naked eye from our berth."

Aggression Not Legalized By U.N. Veto, Austin Says

Use In Such Cases Would Void Charter

CHICAGO, Jan. 16 (AP)—Warren R. Austin declared tonight that use of the veto power in the United Nations Security Council to protect an aggressor nation would nullify the United Nations Charter and that "there is only one certain answer to nullification—war in support of the law and of the union."

Austin, United States representative to the United Nations in an address to the general assembly of the Council of State Governments, said that use of the veto "to protect the aggressor from the consequences of his crime would, in itself, be a violation of the Charter."

"I have heard it said that the veto legalizes aggression by a permanent member, because that member can prevent enforcement action against itself," he said, "of course that is not true.

"Far from legalizing aggression, the use of the veto, either by an aggressor, or by another member to protect the aggressor from the consequences of the crime, would, in itself, be a violation of the Charter. It would be nullification. x x x There is only one certain answer to nullification—war in support of the law and of the union, whether it be the union of our states or the United Nations."

Austin, of Burlington, Vt., stated that an essential element in the development of collective security "will be a system of international control and inspection over armaments and armed forces."

Senate Election Vote Recount Will Start Next Week

Three-Man Group To Go To Annapolis

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16 (AP)—Sen. Hickenlooper (R-Iowa) said today a Senate Rules Subcommittee will start next week on a recount of votes in the contested Maryland senatorial election.

After a conference with attorneys for Sen. Herbert R. O'Conor (D-Md) and David John Markey, his unsuccessful Republican pponent in the November campaign, Hickenlooper told newsmen the three-man group will go to Annapolis to supervise start of the recount.

The Iowan, chairman of the subcommittee designated by Rules Chairman Brooks (R-Ill) to study three senatorial election contests, also announced the hiring of C. Golden Kratz, a Nebraska attorney, to supervise the recount. Kratz is being discharged from the Army, Hickenlooper said, with the rank of lieutenant colonel.

Walsh Attends Meeting

Kratz formerly served on the Nebraska State Board of Control, which supervises public institutions. Kratz, who attended today's conference, is an attorney.

Others at the subcommittee meeting, held behind closed doors, were Sens. Bricker (R-Ohio) and Myers (D-Pa), both members, and William C. Walsh, Cumberland (Md.) attorney and former Maryland Attorney General, who is representing O'Conor, and George C. Dor[illegible], Baltimore attorney acting for Markey.

Louis C. Wyman, who was counsel to the Senate Campaign Investigating Committee in the last Congress, also attended.

Hickenlooper said that Wyman, although he is now writing a final report for that committee and is taking another position, "will sort of loan himself to us for the next two weeks."

Wyman was in charge of the previous investigation by the campaign investigating committee, which expired at the end of the [illegible].

Staff Of 14 Persons

Hickenlooper said a staff of about [illegible] will go to Annapolis with the committee to check ballots in Anne Arundel county, one of five in which Markey alleged were the largest number of errors and irregularities.

The recount will begin either at 1 p. m. (EST) on Monday or at 10 a. m. on Tuesday, Hickenlooper said, the exact time to be fixed later. It will depend upon which day is more convenient to the subcommittee members, he added.

Markey contends, in the petition in which he asked for a full inquiry by the Senate, that O'Conor's margin of 2,232 votes found in the state tabulation was the result of irregularities. A fair count, he declared, would have given him the Senate seat by from 10,000 to 15,000 votes.

Board Gives New Projects Red Light

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 16 (AP)—The Board of Public Works today turned on a red light for bids on new construction projects on the State Planning Commission program.

Faced with many odds and ends left over from the Herbert R. O'Conor administration and the desire of many state agencies to ask bids on projects already approved, the board decided projects uncontracted for would have to wait.

Gov. Lane, presiding over his first Board of Public Works meeting of the new administration, said that building projects should not be undertaken now unless they were of an emergency nature.

He said he would like to see a report of the work already under contract, its cost and new suggestions.

He added the entire program should be submitted to the Legislature and a new method of financing projects worked out.

that at the moment storm troops are in control."

His reference was to patrolmen and some National Guard officers standing nearby.

War Department Studies Situation

The War Department in Washington took cognizance of the tangled situation since Georgia's governor is commander-in-chief of the National Guard. A spokesman said the War and Justice Departments are consulting "on the whole matter."

Talmadge claims the guard is under his adjutant general, Marvin Griffin, whom Arnall fired yesterday through appointment of R. W. Collins as successor.

Arnall's appearance at the Capitol was the start of his dramatic day. He pounded on the outer door several times before it was opened by Benton Odum, Talmadge's secretary, who denied entry to "the office of Mr. Talmadge who is now the legal governor of the State of Georgia."

Arnall had a brief verbal exchange with Odum before moving to the rotunda, commenting that "it is quite obvious that Mr. Talmadge is afraid to see me face to face."

Arnall later went to the executive mansion, from which he moved last week, where he said he would have lunch with friends.

His path to a side door was blocked by Sgt. Frank Jones, commander of a four-man detail, who told him "I hate to think what would happen" if he insisted on entering.

Arnall later shook hands with the patrolmen and retired, minutes before Mrs. Herman Talmadge and her two children entered by the same door. "It looks that way," she said when asked if she was "moving in for good."

Weather In Nearby States

WEST VIRGINIA and WESTERN PENNSYLVANIA—Partly cloudy and colder today. Tomorrow fair and somewhat warmer.

FIGHTS VERDICT—Appealing for commutation of a 25-year sentence imposed on her husband by an Army court-martial, Mrs. Robert Schneeweis, Milwaukee, shows her two children a picture of their father. A former lieutenant, Schneeweis was charged with killing four German civilians. In her petition, Mrs. Schneeweis pointed out that "Nazi-killing propaganda" had probably caused her husband to act as he did. The children are Carole, 3, and Robert, 17 months.

Nude, Butchered Body Of Woman Is Identified; Horror Room Is Hunted

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 16 (AP)—The nude, butchered body of a woman found in a vacant lot yesterday, was identified by the Federal Bureau of Investigation tonight as that of Elizabeth Short, 22, whose birthplace was listed as Hyde Park, Mass.

The FBI announced the identity had been established through fingerprints obtained when the girl had applied for a clerk's job in the post exchange at Camp Cooke, Calif., January 30, 1946. The Los Angeles Times said she was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cleo Short, Medford, Mass.

The girl was taken into custody at Santa Barbara September 23, 1943, for alleged violation of juvenile court laws, after which she was released to the probation department the FBI announced.

Coroner's autopsy physicians said the girl died of hemorrhage, shock and concussion of the brain. They decided that other mutilation of the body, which was bisected at the abdomen and contained multiple gashes and bruises, occurred after death.

Shocked by the brutal killing, City Councilman Lloyd G. Davis said he would offer a resolution tomorrow for the posting of a $10,000 reward for capture and conviction of the killer.

Meantime police investigators hunted a horror room in connection with their search for the sadistic slayer.

"We think that somewhere, in some shack, the fiend who killed this girl tied her up, tortured and finally strangled her," Detective Lt. Harry Hansen said.

The detective said absence of much blood at the scene made it obvious the slaying took place elsewhere.

The corpse, cut in two at the waist, was dumped into the lot, presumably from an automobile, sometime early yesterday.

"This is the most brutal example of a sex crime I have ever seen," said Detective Lt. P. W. Freestone.

23-Year-Old Girl Stops Hiccoughing After Operation

NEW YORK, Jan. 16 (AP)—Anna Mayer's 60 days of hiccoughing ended today.

Anna, 23-year-old Queens girl, stopped hiccoughing a short time after an army doctor performed an operation on the phrenic nerve.

Dr. Lester Samuels, surgeon at the Veterans' Administration hospital at Alexandria, La., who came here to operate on Miss Mayer after she appealed to President Truman to grant him leave, said he would remain in New York for a few days to attend her.

The hospital reported that Dr. Samuels removed one and a half inches from the right phrenic nerve near the heart, which was found to be inflamed and swollen to twice its normal size.

Following the installation appointive officers were named. They are:

Civilians Evacuated Under Hanoi Truce

HANOI, Jan. 15 (Delayed) (AP)—A four hour truce was declared in Hanoi today while 7,000 Viet-Namese and Chinese civilians were evacuated from the crowded native quarter which Viet-Namese armed youth have been holding against French siege for almost a month.

Under the truce arranged by the American, British and Chinese consulates, French authorities issued strict cease-fire orders, and thousands of ragged civilians—men, women and children—filed through the exits in the cold Tonkin rain.

4. Establishment of a joint chiefs of staff, made up of the military heads of the three services and the chief of staff to the President. Subject to authority to the Secretary of National Defense, the joint chiefs of staff would provide for the strategic direction of the military forces of the United States, formulate strategic plans, assign logistics responsibilities to the services and integrate military requirements.

5. Establishment of a full-time joint staff to consist initially of not more than 100 officers to be made up of equal numbers from each of the three services. The joint staff, operating under a director, would carry out directives of the joint chiefs of staff.

6. Vestment of the Secretary of National Defense, as head of the armed forces establishment, with authority, under the President, "to establish common policies and common programs for the integrated operation of the three departments."

got 60. There were an additional seven scattered ballots.

The election climaxed a decided swing by the left toward Communist-Socialist co-operation that has been evident the past week due to the vacillating attitude of the MRP, which persisted in opposing Auriol both in his election Tuesday as president of the assembly and today.

Auriol was slated to be succeeded as assembly president by Radical-Socialist Edouard Herriot, a pre-war premier.

Md. Senate Okays Two Bills; House Wrangle Settled

18 New Measures Are Introduced

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 16. (AP)—The State Senate, in its 11th business day of 1947, passed its first two bills today, while the House squared away to get some work done by settling the worrisome and wearisome wrangle over a Baltimore City delegation leader.

The first measures to pass the Senate were minor segments of the Legislative Council's voluminous report—one to exempt honorary members of the state militia from jury duty and the other to provide that negotiable instruments which fall due on holidays be payable on the following days with interest that day.

Both passed unanimously and went to the House.

With no advance warning, the long-drawn out argument over a leader for the 38-member Baltimore delegation ended with announcement by Delegate J. Raymond Buffington, Jr., (D-Balto 3rd) that he was withdrawing.

18 Supported Buffington

Buffington had been backed by 18 members, adherents of the city group led by former Attorney General William C. Curran. Their determination to stand behind Buffington had blocked efforts to elect Delegate Leroy Frederick (D-Balto 6th).

Frederick had the support of James H. Pollack and others who last year backed Gov. Lane in the primary.

Buffington in his withdrawal announcement stated, however, that he was doing so in expectation that Speaker Sybert himself would choose the city delegation leader.

Both House and Senate prepared for a quick getaway tomorrow by adjourning until 11 a. m. It was expected that weekend adjournment would come before noon.

Ten new bills came into the House and eight into the Senate.

A proposal for a referendum in 1948 to eliminate Maryland's constitutional ban on lotteries was submitted by Delegate Kosakowski (D-Balto. 1st).

Kosakowski would give the General Assembly power, by special action in each case, to grant authorizations for lotteries. They might be held by the state, by municipalities, by organizations or by individuals. He said privately the state itself might find itself in need of money some day, money it could not get from taxpayers.

Would Clean Up Sports

Delegate Carrick (D-Balto. 6th), 24-year-old delegate, sponsored a bill to make it a misdemeanor for anyone participating in an athletic contest to accept a bribe. The punishment would be a fine of not more than $5,000, three years in prison, or both.

Among other House bills were four Legislative Council measures which somehow were "lost" when the program was submitted at the start of the session. All are of a technical nature and are part of the Sherbow Commission report.

They would repeal certain parts of the statutes dealing with school salaries and aid to school employes. These are covered in various sections of the Sherbow report.

The Senate received four Baltimore city bills, minor parts of the city program. They deal with taxation of buses and street cars, and with condemnation rights of the redevelopment commission.

Two Navy Fliers Slightly Injured In Plane Crash

NORFOLK, Va., Jan. 16 (AP)—Two Navy airmen escaped with minor injuries when their Curtis Helldiver crashed in a field near North Shore road today. Live rockets were torn from the plane's wings, but did not explode.

The fliers, who were treated for lacerations at the naval station hospital, are Ensign C. C. Kelly, Uniontown, Pa., and J. Kelly, aviation ordnanceman first class, Wheeling, W. Va. They were assigned to the carrier Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Wounded Man Guarded After Slaying Of Bride

BALTIMORE, Jan. 16 — (AP) — As police waited with questions, doctors said today Walter Szukiewicz, 26-year-old Polish - born seaman, probably would recover from a chest wound suffered at the same time his bride of nine months was slain on an East Baltimore street yesterday.

A police detail stood guard over Szukiewicz at Johns Hopkins Hospital, but he has not yet been questioned.

Mrs. Helen Szukiewicz, 22, was shot in the heart as she walked along a street on her way to work as clerk in a railroad yards. She staggered into the doorway of a bakery, witnesses reported, and her husband slumped to the sidewalk after another shot.

Police said witnesses told them Szukiewicz tried to reach a German-make pistol nearby but someone kicked it away.

Harmony Forum Held By Truman, Congress "Big 6"

Partisan Politics Are Side-Stepped

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16 (AP) — President Truman's first meeting with his "Big Six" congressional committee side-stepped partisan politics today, participants reported, and achieved "harmony" on the prospect of cooperation between the White House and the GOP-dominated Congress.

Sen. Vandenberg (R-Mich), president of the Senate, emphasized that it was a harmonious "open forum" carried out in an atmosphere of good will. He indicated that future meetings will continue to be held in a non-partisan vein.

Vandenberg said in reply to a reporter's question that the controversial matter of Mr. Truman's $37,500,000,000 budget proposal did not come under discussion.

Surplus Property Disposal

Specifically, Mr. Truman and his six party-leader consultants delved into the huge and complicated task of clearing away approximately $22,247,000,000 in war surplus properties.

To this end, the President summoned Robert M. Littlejohn, head of the War Assets Administration, to advise the lawmakers on progress toward speeding up surplus disposals. WAA officials said later the committee "expressed approval" of Littlejohn's program.

Injustice Of Salaries Paid Teachers Should Be Corrected

A drab picture, insofar as it pertains to the schools of Allegany county, has been drawn by Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of schools, and he sees no immediate hope for improvement until salaries to teachers are increased to a point that will halt resignations, and induce those who have seen fit to surrender their teaching positions for more lucrative employment, to return to the work for which they were educated and trained.

Mr. Kopp has termed the present situation "critical," and offers proof of his claim by citing that 92 elementary teachers and 51 high school instructors resigned during the 1945-46 school year. The situation was further emphasized by his declaration that during the present school term he has been forced to give appointments to persons who are not adequately trained to conduct classes or present the subjects they are teaching. At present, he points out, seventy teachers are conducting classes in Allegany county who are not eligible for full certification. But without those seventy persons many classrooms in Allegany county would have had to close.

Unquestionably, the state and county must find ways and means to pay these servants salaries approximately comparable to those they might earn outside of their profession. It is done to attract and retain capable personnel in other fields, and it should be recognized that the importance of personnel is nowhere greater than in our schools.

During the war years, and since, we have been saved the deplorable strikes that have marked demands of teachers in some sections of the nation for increased salaries. In these times, when so many employe relations are dominated by the doctrine of "pay us—or else," it is refreshing to find that Allegany county teachers have seen fit to follow the National Education Association, which fosters a more moderate approach toward correction of an outstanding injustice—meager salaries of teachers.

So, if any group is entitled to get tough about low pay, it is the teachers. Yet the National Education Association, oldest and largest teacher organization, re-affirms its no-strike policy and refuses to adopt a position that would array its teachers-members in an embittered class struggle. Instead, NEA embraces a program of "group action" in which teachers would stand united on salary standards but seek to attain their goal by co-operative organization with school administrators, board of education, tax authorities, parents and civic leaders.

NEA dissents from the labor-union position which, it says, does a disservice to the profession and to the cause of education by "placing classroom teachers and administrators in opposing groups." It holds that the teachers' first duty is to the pupils—a responsibility which it places above the dollars it might win by strikes.

Teachers are entitled to professional status. They have it on educational requirements, but not on salaries. The lowest yearly salary paid by the Federal Government to a professional employe is $650 higher than the approximately $2,000 average salary of Allegany county teachers. The janitors in many schools in other cities get more than elementary teachers.

Results of our neglect are becoming tragically apparent, because of the increasing number of unqualified teachers that must be engaged to keep the schools open. Worse still, as Miss Lillian Compton, president of Frostburg State Teachers College, points out, is the fact that enrollment in such institutions has sunk to a dangerous low. She cited the possibility that there will be need for approximately 100 teachers in Allegany, Garrett and Washington counties at the beginning of the next school year, with only sixteen qualified graduates from the Frostburg College prepared to accept any of the positions.

It is necessary that the state and county be aroused to their responsibility in making necessary plans for correcting the injustice to teachers which we all certainly must agree exists.

Whither are we drifting? Some government experts say inflation is continuing, and others contend deflation has started.

Americans Have Reason To Be Startled Over Spitsbergen

Americans have reason to be startled by the revelation that Russia made a secret attempt in wartime to obtain special privileges in Spitsbergen from the Norwegian government. But, aside from the secrecy surrounding the request, Russia's interest in this strategic Arctic archipelago is attuned to Russian expansionist plans in all directions from the Russian steppes. Apologists for Russia and communism will say that what the Soviet Union was trying to do differs little from the attempt of the United States to negotiate a treaty which would have given this country the right to maintain an air base permanently in Iceland.

These Arctic lands have attained a new importance in the age of air. The great circle routes, which lead over the frozen north, are, as every schoolboy knows, the shortest distance between East and West. Just as it would be enormously advantageous to the United States to have a base in Iceland, so Spitsbergen would be useful to the Russians as the jumping off place for an attack.

The United States may, and probably will, oppose the transfer of any special privileges in Spitsbergen to Russia. But the fact that Moscow approached Norway secretly—in the midst of the war and at a time when America was pouring billions in lend-lease aid into Russia—while Washington conducted its negotiations with Iceland openly, has an ominous sound.

The 1920 agreement, which placed Spitsbergen under Norwegian sovereignty, contains a clause which bars any change in the military status of the region without the consent of the signatory powers, which include Britain, France, the British Dominions, Holland, Denmark, Sweden and Norway as well as the United States.

Regardless of whether some of these countries will feel compelled to bow to Russian demands, Moscow can hardly expect the United States to be sympathetic considering violent objections which the communists raised to the idea of an American base in Iceland.

THE EXTREMITIES ARE SUSCEPTIBLE TO FROSTBITE

WE all know that Jack Frost can "nip your nose and bite your toes." It is difficult to protect the extremities particularly from the antics of this little rascal.

The hands and feet behave like automobile radiators so far as the weather is concerned. Instead of water, blood filters constantly thru the rich depot of capillaries near the surface. When we are hot, the tiny passageways dilate and the warm fluid is allowed to cool, thus helping to dissipate body energy. In a cold environment, the channels contract, leaving the area bloodless. This phenomenon holds in the heat and directs the circulation to the more vital inner structures.

The extremities, under such conditions, may be affected adversely. Since their "steam" is shut off, they are subject to freezing. The temperature of the parts can fall as low or lower than the surrounding atmosphere, tho the chest and trunk are warm. This explains why we survive frigid weather, even if the arms and legs are sacrificed thru frostbite.

To overcome the hazard, adequate protection is essential. For long exposure during cold weather, one or more pairs of woolen socks are recommended. They should be kept as dry as possible especially when the mercury falls below zero. Dampness from perspiration is usually negligible but precautions must be taken so that moisture cannot enter the shoes. Oil tanned or waterproofed boots are not advised because they do not "breathe" and the internal moisture (from perspiration and condensation) cannot leak out. Dry tanned leather, burlap, felt, or similar material is better. The armed forces in the polar region found the Eskimo mukluk most efficient. The footgear must be roomy as constriction interferes with much needed circulation and prevents movements of the feet, which induce warmth.

The hands may be more difficult to safeguard in subzero temperatures. By keeping the fingers in one compartment, as with mittens, less heat is lost. A loose-fitting pair underneath, topped by another made of windproof fabric, will afford a good armor. Should it be necessary to bare the fingers for certain types of work, it is well to cover the palms, backs of the hands, and wrists as much as possible. By lessening contact with metallic objects, snow, and ice less damage results. Moisture induces chilling and a change to dry mittens will have an immediate warming effect.

Earmuffs are invaluable. The neck and chin must also be shielded especially when the wind is strong. The top of the head has its own protection except in those who are bald but in general a hat, cap, or helmet will add to comfort.

Whenever tingling or numbness is noted, freezing should be suspected. The skin is usually white and occasionally mottled. Mild massage is helpful but rapid heating, immersion in cold water, and rubbing with snow or abrasive will do more harm than good. The victim of refrigerated toes should cup them in the hands or lie quietly in a warm room, not too near the stove. Frozen hands are restored by gentle massage or placing them in the armpits or on the abdomen.

This test is performed to determine whether an individual has ever contracted tuberculosis. As a rule, most of us become victims early in life, when the disease produces what is known as "the primary lesion." Thereafter, our reaction is positive even tho healing has occurred. Nevertheless, any one with a positive test should have the chest X-rayed to find out whether healing is complete.

Economist Airs Tariff Question Confronting U. S.

By SAMUEL B. PETTENGILL

In the 1928 campaign, Al Smith and the Democratic platform took the tariff question out of politics by practically conceding the Republican position. The one issue which had chiefly divided the parties for half a century was discarded.

The platform called for duties that would permit effective competition based on the difference in the cost of production at home and abroad.

Four years later President Roosevelt and Secretary Hull started to gradually level down tariff walls in the interest of freer world trade.

Now, however, the wheel turns again. The Secretaries of Agriculture of 13 southern states, the traditional home of opposition to the tariff, demand brakes against any further lowering of tariff walls.

They say the South is unable to compete with foreign producers using cheap labor and operating without minimum wage scales and social security taxes. They oppose any further reduction whatever on 1,350 items of commerce. Similar opposition is developing in the north headed by labor leaders themselves.

So, once more the wheel turns full cycle.

Based On Fundamental Assumption

The Hull program was based on a fundamental assumption. The assumption was that freer world trade would foster and promote free enterprise, world wide; that is, business privately owned and managed.

Since then we have had another world war. This war has weakened and in large areas destroyed the assumption upon which the Roosevelt-Hull program was founded. Government controls, instead of being taken off of commerce, are now fastened tighter than ever.

As one who favored the Roosevelt-Hull program, it strikes me that we must now review the situation in the light of these changed circumstances. This point is forcefully made in "By Vote Of The People," a book by Willis J. Ballinger, for many years the highly respected economic adviser to the Federal Trade Commission.

He says: "For the nations of the world to trade freely among themselves, certain conditions must be present. Within each nation trade must be free.

"But at present a large part of the earth is definitely committed against the whole idea of free trade . . . Russia has an authoritarian economic system . . . All economic activity in Russia is rigidly controlled by the government. To protect its arbitrary controls in the domestic market, it prohibits free trade at the custom house . . . It arbitrarily decides what goods it will admit from the outside and in what amounts. . . .

"Russia has already taken over neighboring economies by force . . . A very large part of the earth's surface is more than likely to become a totally unfree trade area . . . It will be glad to obtain from us goods that it needs. But in what kind of goods will we be paid? For a number of years no payment will be possible.

Repayment May Be Costly

"But as we repair the factories of these countries and add many new ones, as we provide the mechanized power for their agriculture and mines, as we rehabilitate their forests and their homes, a point will be reached when this area will be in a position to start repaying our loans . . . We will have to take payment in goods that we do not need—in fact goods that we shipped to this area to effect its rehabilitation . . . The prices of these goods can be manipulated to bankruptcy levels, since in an authoritarian economy the government can put any price it wants to on its exports. Certainly such goods will be priced low enough to successfully invade our domestic markets. The chances are that we would find repayment too costly; that we would permit our loans to go into default and eventually cancel them. If we do that we will in effect have given

THE WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Says DREW PEARSON

(Note—This is the second of Drew Pearson's columns on the secret conversations between Secretary of State Byrnes and the Russians which finally broke the USA-USSR deadlock.)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16—Climax of the bitter, long-drawn diplomatic battle between Russia and the United States came when the Yugoslavs walked out of the peace talks in New York, and then came round to Secretary Byrnes next day thinking they could horse-trade. They found, however, that the long-suffering Secretary of State was in no horse-trading mood.

He told them that the United States was reconciled to the fact that there would be no peace treaty and he didn't want to discuss the matter further. U. S. troops, he said, would remain in Trieste indefinitely.

This horrified the Yugoslavs. Also it worried the Russians. Apparently they thought the United States was so anxious to sign a peace treaty that Byrnes could be badgered and bullied indefinitely. So when Byrnes told Yugoslav Delegate Edvard Kardelj that American patience had reached the end of its rope, Molotov came to see him immediately.

In much more conciliatory mood, the Russian Foreign Minister asked what the trouble was.

"We've been here for days," replied Byrnes, "and in all that time the only things we can agree on are three minor provisions in the Italian treaty which involve the use of the word 'or' and the use of the words 'in particular.' On the other 49 provisions, there has been no agreement and no prospect of one; yet these provisions were passed by a two-thirds vote in Paris, as stipulated by Russia.

"We've adopted the Russian plan of procedure, but even so you won't come to an agreement," Byrnes continued. "So the United States simply cannot afford to wait. I, for one, am reconciled to not having a treaty. We'll just get along without one. I've been the man who has been pushing for treaties, but now I've changed my mind."

Molotov Reverses

Byrnes also proceeded to give Molotov some friendly but straight-from-the-shoulder advice on U. S.-USSR. relations.

"You don't seem to realize," he said, "that Russia has used up the tremendous reservoir of goodwill it had built up in this country. Most people had great admiration for Russia. But it's gone now. When you follow a consistent policy of calling us names, naturally you can't expect us to love you."

Byrnes also suggested that Molotov check with some of the heads of the Russian satellite nations who had close contacts among Czech-Americans and Yugoslav-Americans, regarding the sentiment of the American public toward Russia.

Molotov seemed shaken by Bryne's statement. Almost immediately he said he would agree to 15 important proviions in the Italian treaty. And in the regular treaty talks which followed, he began to make decisions and shell out favorable concessions as if he really meant business.

From that point on, there was smooth sailing. In the end, the Russians even accepted the important principle of arms inspection by the United Nations, including inspection on their own sovereign soil.

Molotov, of course, had received assurances from Byrnes that there was no danger of the United States changing its position on the veto for at least one year. These Politburo instructions were largely the result of the firm but friendly advice given Molotov by Byrnes during weeks of talking to each other in Paris and New York. Byrnes finally had won out.

A Free Press In Moscow

After the atmosphere cleared and the Russians suggested that they play host for the German-Austrian peace talks, Byrnes took the liberty of giving his Russian friend some additional advice.

"When you hold the Moscow Conference," he told Molotov, "my advice to you is to let the press come in and operate freely without any censorship. If you do that you will win more friends and build up more goodwill than you have any idea of.

"You should also permit radio broadcasts. The American public is used to radio. I get up in the morning and turn on the radio while I shave. And if you let radio and newsmen come in during the Moscow conference and operate freely, you will win more friends than by anything else I know."

Molotov agreed, in principle, though he still hasn't given the final green light on radio broadcasts.

British Bargain On Ruhr

Though they didn't leak out at the time, Byrnes also had some differences with the British, one of the most vigorous being over payment of the British deficit in its occupation zone in Germany.

The British zone, including the wealthy Ruhr industries, operated last year on a $400,000,000 deficit, while the less wealthy American zone, with a less dense population but more agriculture, operated on a $200,000,000 deficit.

Some American officials have resented the fact that the British grabbed off the prize part of Germany when they took over the Ruhr. For although badly battered now, it is the backbone of Germany. Ex-Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau is credited with giving the British this prize plum.

Under the U. S.-British plan of pooling the operation of the two zones, the United States has agreed to help pay the British deficits on a 50-50 basis. However, Foreign Minister Bevin, goaded by Chancellor of the Exchequer Hugh Dalton, approached Byrnes with the proposal that the United States pay not 50 but 60 per cent of the British deficit.

Bevin put up a sorrowful argument that the British had had to borrow heavily from the United States, that they wanted to buy U. S. goods, and that they couldn't afford to bear such a heavy burden in occupied Germany.

Byrnes listened carefully, finally countered:

"I'll tell you what we'll do. If you trade zones with us, we'll take over 60 per cent of the British deficit."

Byrnes has always resented the fact that Morgenthau, whom he doesn't particularly like, gave away the Ruhr.

Bevin replied that he couldn't do that without consulting his Cabinet.

"Well, call them up," shot back Byrnes, who believes in fast action. "I've got a direct phone to London right here."

Bevin hemmed and hawed. He knew what the reaction of the British Cabinet would be. Instead, he brought in a British financial position in more detail to the American Secretary of State.

Byrnes Outscotches Scots

"Whaley," said Byrnes, wanting to make the financial expert feel at home, "that's an interesting name. I have a friend named Whaley from South Carolina on the Court of Claims (Judge Richard S. Whaley of Charleston). He is a Scot. If you're a Scot, I'm sure you can drive a tight bargain."

Mr. Whaley proceeded to give Byrnes an even more woeful picture of the British financial situation than had Bevin. He put up a convincing argument. Finally Byrnes replied:

"Well, I'll tell you what I'll do. We'll just pretend Mr. Bevin isn't in the room, and I'll make you an offer. We'll pay 65 per cent of the British deficit—if you will trade zones. I offered Mr. Bevin 60 percent, but I'll offer you 65 per cent."

However, there was still no enthusiasm. Byrnes, of course, knew in advance that his offer would be turned down.

That is a brief glimpse at the inside of some of our most important diplomatic conversations; a glimpse also at the canny statesmanship and diplomatic charm of the man who weathered one of the roughest diplomatic periods in our history and left our foreign relations much better for his work.

Truman's First "Economic Report" Colored With Political Propaganda

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16—When the Congress passed the so-called "full employment" act and provided for a set of economic advisers to the President, it was assumed that at last the public would get an unbiased analysis of current economic happenings. But President Truman's first "economic report" is so plainly colored with political propaganda that the public cannot distinguish between economic analysis and arguments calculated to cover up and defend the administration's mistakes since V-J Day.

Thus, in the President economic report the phrase "wage adjustment" is used with a curious timidity that prevents the writers of the document from conceding that, when the cost of living goes down, wage costs ought also to go down. Likewise, while much space is given to the high cost of housing, not a line in the whole report discusses the wage rises which have made building costs almost prohibitive.

Only in one statistical table, buried in the appendix, does one find any clue to the difficulties of the American people with residential construction. The table reveals that gross weekly earnings of workers in private building construction went from $31.70 in 1940 to $59.20 in October, 1946. Also bituminous coal mining rates went from $24.71 per week in 1940 to $62.54 per week in October, 1946. In manufacturing, gross weekly earnings soared from $26.20 in 1940 to $45.68 in October, 1946.

Some Wages About Doubled

The wages in non-durable goods industries have about doubled since 1940. Yet, in spite of all these statistics, the paragraph devoted to "wages" in the President's economic report confines itself to what happened just prior to and immediately after July, 1946, when President Truman got himself into a jam with Congress in vetoing the price-control bill.

There is not a line in the report which states that the price rises have been in any way due to increases in wage costs to employers.

The report ignores the steady upward climb in wages since 1940 to October, 1946 and naively remarks: "Since July, 1946, there has been some further increase in wage rates, average hourly earnings, and average take-home pay, but less than the increase in prices. Thus real earnings have fallen."

Naturally, if one lifts out a brief period, there will be fluctuations but in any accurate comparison with pre-war wages it will be found that pay envelopes, despite all the hullaballo about take-home pay, are above pre-war in many instances and actually approximate what they were in wartime. Yet the volume of business done by the employers has necessarily been curtailed due to the drop in war contracts.

Some Portions Contradict Truman

It would be interesting if the Senate or House asked the President to transmit the actual wording of the economists' report undiluted and unchanged. For it is evident, in examining different parts of the report, that some of the economists did get past the political censors one or two statements that contradict the administration's defense of its reconversion policies.

After mentioning fears that purchasing power is being seriously reduced, the report gives this warning about future wage-increase demands:.

"It would be unrealistic to expect that this increase in real purchasing power of consumers could occur solely through a corresponding increase in money incomes. An attempt to raise income by the amount necessary would mean such large increases in money wages and salaries at certain points as to threaten curtailments of production or wage-price spirals. Further, there is no practical way to distribute such wage and salary increases throughout the whole population in such a manner as to effect the desired supports to the market. The groups of wage and salary earners whose purchasing power has been most reduced are the very ones who are likely to participate least in an increase of money earnings. Such concentration of pay increases within particular groups would make even more difficult the task of obtaining a sufficient total increase to sustain maximum employment, production, and purchasing power."

If this is good economic reasoning for the future, why, it might be asked, doesn't it apply equally well to the past—the period between January and April, 1946, when President Truman was urging industry generally to grant a flat 18 percent increase in wages? Now it turns out that a large number—though not all—of the 15,000,000 union workers imposed higher prices not only upon themselves but on the unorganized individuals who constitute the other 45,000,000 of the nation's workers. This imbalance is what is causing the present maladjustment and, if America experiences a depression in the next 18 months, it should be called "the Truman depression" because it came from White House encouragement, if not sponsorship, of a blanket wage increase at a time when production had not been resumed and price policy could not be stabilized.

It's too bad the President didn't have, in the early part of 1945 when he made his public statement urging an 18 per cent increase in wage scales, the following piece of advice for the future just given in the economic report: "But just as there can be no universal or uniform rule to govern price reductions, so there can be no uniform rule relating to wages. Both price adjustments and wage adjustments are necessary in the ensuing months. Wage adjustments, like price adjustments, need to be made with a discriminating regard for individual situations throughout the economy."

What does the economic report mean by adjustments"? When used with prices, it presumably means downward. Could it possibly mean downward on wages, too, or is "adjustments" a flexible word meant to cover up for the politicians what the economists do not venture to say plainly?

PITCHING HORSESHOES by Billy Rose

Shake hands with a dope. I turned down the chance to book "Street Scene" into my theatre.

The musical version of Elmer Rice's old Pulitzer Prize play is the town's new bust-in-the-nose hit. Atkinson of "The New York Times" called it "an evening of magnificence and glory," and used the word "superb" three times in his review. People are standing in cold today half way down the block to buy tickets.

Billy Rose

I didn't think it had a chance.

Producer Dwight Wiman sent me the script a few months ago. He wanted to present "Street Scene" at the Ziegfeld. I couldn't get excited about the libretto. Too sordid, I thought. A week later I was invited to hear Kurt Weill play his score. I only managed to stay awake by counting slowly to 10,000. I told the producer and composer the show wasn't my cup of tea. Out of professional politeness, I refrained from telling them I didn't think there was much entertainment in this opera of the tenements. I walked out of the apartment, smug in my belief that a six-dollar musical had to be as pretty and gay as a wedding cake.

"Street Scene" booked another theatre and went into rehearsal. Before it left for its out-of-town tryout, it had a run-through. Several wise guys who saw it called me up to tell me it was a dreary hodge-podge.

In Philadelphia, it got mixed notices. During its three-week engagement, theatre-goers acted as if there were Chicken-Pox signs hung on the doors.

The first week it grossed $4,750, when it needed almost $30,000 to break even. The second week it lost $18,000. The big New Year's week, another $16,000 went down the drain. One Wednesday matinee, it took in $217, which means there were 60 or 70 lonesome customers in a 1,600 seat house. I understand the ushers didn't bother to seat people—every ticket buyer had a row to himself.

"Variety," the show-wise trade paper, epitaphed it with the following lines: "Misses fire. Smacks of tired and discouraged Puccini. Definitely on the tedious side."

I got the word-of-mouth on it from three of the smartest cookies in the theatre, who caught it in Philly. Each of these sure-footed oldtimers is a Pulitzer Prize playwright. I give you their comments:

Pulitzer Prophet No. 1: "Sickmaking."

P. P. No. 2: "Don't ask."

P. P. No. 3: "Unfit for human consumption."

Producer Wiman's staff pleaded with him not to bring it to New York, told him that when the critics got through there'd be blood on the pavement in Shubert Alley. Dwight refused to let the wet blankets dampen his enthusiasm for the show.

The day before the Broadway opening, it was rumored around that one of the backers was willing to trade his 10 per cent for a Pullman reservation to Miami.

Eleanor, who loves to glad-rag it for an opening, didn't for this one. We went in our street clothes, and so did most of the audience. Instead of the usual first-night electricity, the evening had the feeling of a duty call at a thirty-second cousin's funeral.

And then the curtain went up.

Within ten minutes, the Broadway wolf-pack sensed it was in at the birth of something special. They were looking at a world of trapped and hungering people, people who reached out for something pretty and got their fingers stepped on. Kurt Weill's music and Langston Hughes' lyrics told their story with a kind of wistful passion. A stageful of nobody I-ever-heard-of sang better than any cast around here in 20 years. Charlie Friedman's direction, Jo Mielziner's set—only wonderful! It was one of those rare nights when a show catches lightning in a barrel. The applause was like a 21-gun salute going off in a phone booth.

When the final curtain dropped on a scene of murder and despair, I found myself weeping—and I don't weep easy.

The next morning, the critics dusted off the adjectives they keep in the vault. A thousand liars on the Big Midway told each other they knew it was going to be a hit all the time. But in my grift, I can't afford the luxury of lying to myself.

"Street Scene," which played mostly to echoes in Philadelphia, will probably play to better than $40,000 a week at the Adelphi Theatre for a long time. If I were half as smart as I think I am, it would be at the Ziegfeld. Next time I get to feeling I wrote the book, I'm going to walk around the corner and look at the mob fighting to get in to see the show I said didn't have a chance.

Injustice Of Salaries Paid Teachers Should Be Corrected

A drab picture, insofar as it pertains to the schools of Allegany county, has been drawn by Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of schools, and he sees no immediate hope for improvement until salaries to teachers are increased to a point that will halt resignations, and induce those who have seen fit to surrender their teaching positions for more lucrative employment, to return to the work for which they were educated and trained.

Mr. Kopp has termed the present situation "critical," and offers proof of his claim by citing that 92 elementary teachers and 51 high school instructors resigned during the 1945-46 school year. The situation was further emphasized by his declaration that during the present school term he has been forced to give appointments to persons who are not adequately trained to conduct classes or present the subjects they are teaching. At present, he points out, seventy teachers are conducting classes in Allegany county who are not eligible for full certification. But without those seventy persons many classrooms in Allegany county would have had to close.

Unquestionably, the state and county must find ways and means to pay these servants salaries approximately comparable to those they might earn outside of their profession. It is done to attract and retain capable personnel in other fields, and it should be recognized that the importance of personnel is nowhere greater than in our schools.

During the war years, and since, we have been saved the deplorable strikes that have marked demands of teachers in some sections of the nation for increased salaries. In these times, when so many employe relations are dominated by the doctrine of "pay us—or else," it is refreshing to find that Allegany county teachers have seen fit to follow the National Education Association, which fosters a more moderate approach toward correction of an outstanding injustice—meager salaries of teachers.

So, if any group is entitled to get tough about low pay, it is the teachers. Yet the National Education Association, oldest and largest teacher organization, re-affirms its no-strike policy and refuses to adopt a position that would array its teachers-members in an embittered class struggle. Instead, NEA embraces a program of "group action" in which teachers would stand united on salary standards but seek to attain their goal by co-operative organization with school administrators, board of education, tax authorities, parents and civic leaders.

NEA dissents from the labor-union position which, it says, does a disservice to the profession and to the cause of education by "placing classroom teachers and administrators in opposing groups." It holds that the teachers' first duty is to the pupils—a responsibility which it places above the dollars it might win by strikes.

Teachers are entitled to professional status. They have it on educational requirements, but not on salaries. The lowest yearly salary paid by the Federal Government to a professional employe is $650 higher than the approximately $2,000 average salary of Allegany county teachers. The janitors in many schools in other cities get more than elementary teachers.

Results of our neglect are becoming tragically apparent, because of the increasing number of unqualified teachers that must be engaged to keep the schools open. Worse still, as Miss Lillian Compton, president of Frostburg State Teachers College, points out, is the fact that enrollment in such institutions has sunk to a dangerous low. She cited the possibility that there will be need for approximately 100 teachers in Allegany, Garrett and Washington counties at the beginning of the next school year, with only sixteen qualified graduates from the Frostburg College prepared to accept any of the positions.

It is necessary that the state and county be aroused to their responsibility in making necessary plans for correcting the injustice to teachers which we all certainly must agree exists.

Whither are we drifting? Some government experts say inflation is continuing, and others contend deflation has started.

Americans Have Reason To Be Startled Over Spitsbergen

Americans have reason to be startled by the revelation that Russia made a secret attempt in wartime to obtain special privileges in Spitsbergen from the Norwegian government. But, aside from the secrecy surrounding the request, Russia's interest in this strategic Arctic archipelago is attuned to Russian expansionist plans in all directions from the Russian steppes. Apologists for Russia and communism will say that what the Soviet Union was trying to do differs little from the attempt of the United States to negotiate a treaty which would have given this country the right to maintain an air base permanently in Iceland.

These Arctic lands have attained a new importance in the age of air. The great circle routes, which lead over the frozen north, are, as every schoolboy knows, the shortest distance between East and West. Just as it would be enormously advantageous to the United States to have a base in Iceland, so Spitsbergen would be useful to the Russians as the jumping off place for an attack.

The United States may, and probably will, oppose the transfer of any special privileges in Spitsbergen to Russia. But the fact that Moscow approached Norway secretly—in the midst of the war and at a time when America was pouring billions in lend-lease aid into Russia—while Washington conducted its negotiations with Iceland openly, has an ominous sound.

The 1920 agreement, which placed Spitsbergen under Norwegian sovereignty, contains a clause which bars any change in the military status of the region without the consent of the signatory powers, which include Britain, France, the British Dominions, Holland, Denmark, Sweden and Norway as well as the United States.

Regardless of whether some of these countries will feel compelled to bow to Russian demands, Moscow can hardly expect the United States to be sympathetic considering violent objections which the communists raised to the idea of an American base in Iceland.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

THE EXTREMITIES ARE SUSCEPTIBLE TO FROSTBITE

WE all know that Jack Frost can "nip your nose and bite your toes." It is difficult to protect the extremities particularly from the antics of this little rascal.

The hands and feet behave like automobile radiators so far as the weather is concerned. Instead of water, blood filters constantly thru the rich depot of capillaries near the surface. When we are hot, the tiny passageways dilate and the warm fluid is allowed to cool, thus helping to dissipate body energy. In a cold environment, the channels contract, leaving the area bloodless. This phenomenon holds in the heat and directs the circulation to the more vital inner structures.

The extremities, under such conditions, may be affected adversely. Since their "steam" is shut off, they are subject to freezing. The temperature of the parts can fall as low or lower than the surrounding atmosphere, tho the chest and trunk are warm. This explains why we survive frigid weather, even if the arms and legs are sacrificed thru frostbite.

To overcome the hazard, adequate protection is essential. For long exposure during cold weather, one or more pairs of woolen socks are recommended. They should be kept as dry as possible especially when the mercury falls below zero. Dampness from perspiration is usually negligible but precautions must be taken so that moisture cannot enter the shoes. Oil tanned or waterproofed boots are not advised because they do not "breathe" and the internal moisture (from perspiration and condensation) cannot leak out. Dry tanned leather, burlap, felt, or similar material is better. The armed forces in the polar region found the Eskimo mukluk most efficient. The footgear must be roomy as constriction interferes with much needed circulation and prevents movements of the feet, which induce warmth.

The hands may be more difficult to safeguard in subzero temperatures. By keeping the fingers in one compartment, as with mittens, less heat is lost. A loose-fitting pair underneath, topped by another made of windproof fabric, will afford a good armor. Should it be necessary to bare the fingers for certain types of work, it is well to cover the palms, backs of the hands, and wrists as much as possible. By lessening contact with metallic objects, snow, and ice less damage results. Moisture induces chilling and a change to dry mittens will have an immediate warming effect.

Earmuffs are invaluable. The neck and chin must also be shielded especially when the wind is strong. The top of the head has its own protection except in those who are bald but in general a hat, cap, or helmet will add to comfort.

Whenever tingling or numbness is noted, freezing should be suspected. The skin is usually white and occasionally mottled. Mild massage is helpful but rapid heating, immersion in cold water, and rubbing with snow or abrasive will do more harm than good. The victim of refrigerated toes should cup them in the hands or lie quietly in a warm room, not too near the stove. Frozen hands are restored by gentle massage or placing them in the armpits or on the abdomen.

This test is performed to determine whether an individual has ever contracted tuberculosis. As a rule, most of us become victims early in life, when the disease produces what is known as "the primary lesion." Thereafter, our reaction is positive even tho healing has occurred. Nevertheless, any one with a positive test should have the chest X-rayed to find out whether healing is complete.

Economist Airs Tariff Question Confronting U. S.

By SAMUEL B. PETTENGILL

In the 1928 campaign, Al Smith and the Democratic platform took the tariff question out of politics by practically conceding the Republican position. The one issue which had chiefly divided the parties for half a century was discarded.

The platform called for duties that would permit effective competition based on the difference in the cost of production at home and abroad.

Four years later President Roosevelt and Secretary Hull started to gradually level down tariff walls in the interest of freer world trade.

Now, however, the wheel turns again. The Secretaries of Agriculture of 13 southern states, the traditional home of opposition to the tariff, demand brakes against any further lowering of tariff walls.

They say the South is unable to compete with foreign producers using cheap labor and operating without minimum wage scales and social security taxes. They oppose any further reduction whatever on 1,350 items of commerce. Similar opposition is developing in the north headed by labor leaders themselves.

So, once more the wheel turns full cycle.

Based On Fundamental Assumption

The Hull program was based on a fundamental assumption. The assumption was that freer world trade would foster and promote free enterprise, world wide; that is, business privately owned and managed.

Since then we have had another world war. This war has weakened and in large areas destroyed the assumption upon which the Roosevelt-Hull program was founded. Government controls, instead of being taken off of commerce, are now fastened tighter than ever.

As one who favored the Roosevelt-Hull program, it strikes me that we must now review the situation in the light of these changed circumstances. This point is forcefully made in "By Vote Of The People," a book by Willis J. Ballinger, for many years the highly respected economic adviser to the Federal Trade Commission.

He says: "For the nations of the world to trade freely among themselves, certain conditions must be present. Within each nation trade must be free.

"But at present a large part of the earth is definitely committed against the whole idea of free trade . . . Russia has an authoritarian economic system . . . All economic activity in Russia is rigidly controlled by the government. To protect its arbitrary controls in the domestic market, it prohibits free trade at the custom house . . . It arbitrarily decides what goods it will admit from the outside and in what amounts. . . .

"Russia has already taken over neighboring economies by force . . . A very large part of the earth's surface is more than likely to become a totally unfree trade area . . . It will be glad to obtain from us goods that it needs. But in what kind of goods will we be paid? For a number of years no payment will be possible.

Repayment May Be Costly

"But as we repair the factories of these countries and add many new ones, as we provide the mechanized power for their agriculture and mines, as we rehabilitate their forests and their homes, a point will be reached when this area will be in a position to start repaying our loans . . . We will have to take payment in goods that we do not need—in fact goods that we shipped to this area to effect its rehabilitation . . . The prices of these goods can be manipulated to bankruptcy levels, since in an authoritarian economy the government can put any price it wants to on its exports. Certainly such goods will be priced low enough to successfully invade our domestic markets. The chances are that we would find repayment too costly; that we would permit our loans to go into default and eventually cancel them. If we do that we will in effect have given

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Says DREW PEARSON

(Note—This is the second of Drew Pearson's columns on the secret conversations between Secretary of State Byrnes and the Russians which finally broke the USA-USSR deadlock.)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16—Climax of the bitter, long-drawn diplomatic battle between Russia and the United States came when the Yugoslavs walked out of the peace talks in New York, and then came round to Secretary Byrnes next day thinking they could horse-trade. They found, however, that the long-suffering Secretary of State was in no horse-trading mood.

He told them that the United States was reconciled to the fact that there would be no peace treaty and he didn't want to discuss the matter further. U. S. troops, he said, would remain in Trieste indefinitely.

This horrified the Yugoslavs. Also it worried the Russians. Apparently they thought the United States was so anxious to sign a peace treaty that Byrnes could be badgered and bullied indefinitely. So when Byrnes told Yugoslav Delegate Edvard Kardelj that American patience had reached the end of its rope, Molotov came to see him immediately.

In much more conciliatory mood, the Russian Foreign Minister asked what the trouble was.

"We've been here for days," replied Byrnes, "and in all that time the only things we can agree on are three minor provisions in the Italian treaty which involve the use of the word 'or' and the use of the words 'in particular.' On the other 49 provisions, there has been no agreement and no prospect of one; yet these provisions were passed by a two-thirds vote in Paris, as stipulated by Russia.

"We've adopted the Russian plan of procedure, but even so you won't come to an agreement," Byrnes continued. "So the United States simply cannot afford to wait. I, for one, am reconciled to not having a treaty. We'll just get along without one. I've been the man who has been pushing for treaties, but now I've changed my mind."

Molotov Reverses

Byrnes also proceeded to give Molotov some friendly but straight-from-the-shoulder advice on U. S.-USSR. relations.

"You don't seem to realize," he said, "that Russia has used up the tremendous reservoir of goodwill it had built up in this country. Most people had great admiration for Russia. But it's gone now. When you follow a consistent policy of calling us names, naturally you can't expect us to love you."

Byrnes also suggested that Molotov check with some of the heads of the Russian satellite nations who had close contacts among Czech-Americans and Yugoslav-Americans, regarding the sentiment of the American public toward Russia.

Molotov seemed shaken by Bryne's statement. Almost immediately he said he would agree to 15 important provisions in the Italian treaty. And in the regular treaty talks which followed, he began to make decisions and shell out favorable concessions as if he really meant business.

From that point on, there was smooth sailing. In the end, the Russians even accepted the important principle of arms inspection by the United Nations, including inspection on their own sovereign soil.

Molotov, of course, had received assurances from Byrnes that there was no danger of the United States changing its position on the veto for at least one year. These Politburo instructions were largely the result of the firm but friendly advice given Molotov by Byrnes during weeks of talking to each other in Paris and New York. Byrnes finally had won out.

A Free Press In Moscow

After the atmosphere cleared and the Russians suggested that they play host for the German-Austrian peace talks, Byrnes took the liberty of giving his Russian friend some additional advice.

"When you hold the Moscow Conference," he told Molotov, "my advice to you is to let the press come in and operate freely without any censorship. If you do that you will win more friends and build up more goodwill than you have any idea of.

"You should also permit radio broadcasts. The American public is used to radio. I get up in the morning and turn on the radio while I shave. And if you let radio and newsmen come in during the Moscow conference and operate freely, you will win more friends than by anything else I know."

Molotov agreed, in principle, though he still hasn't given the final green light on radio broadcasts.

British Bargain On Ruhr

Though they didn't leak out at the time, Byrnes also had some differences with the British, one of the most vigorous being over payment of the British deficit in its occupation zone in Germany.

The British zone, including the wealthy Ruhr industries, operated last year on a $400,000,000 deficit, while the less wealthy American zone, with a less dense population but more agriculture, operated on a $200,000,000 deficit.

Some American officials have resented the fact that the British grabbed off the prize part of Germany when they took over the Ruhr. For although badly battered now, it is the backbone of Germany. Ex-Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau is credited with giving the British this prize plum.

Under the U. S.-British plan of pooling the operation of the two zones, the United States has agreed to help pay the British deficits on a 50-50 basis. However, Foreign Minister Bevin, goaded by Chancellor of the Exchequer Hugh Dalton, approached Byrnes with the proposal that the United States pay not 50 but 60 per cent of the British deficit.

Bevin put up a sorrowful argument that the British had had to borrow heavily from the United States, that they wanted to buy U. S. goods, and that they couldn't afford to bear such a heavy burden in occupied Germany.

Byrnes listened carefully, finally countered:

"I'll tell you what we'll do. If you trade zones with us, we'll take over 60 per cent of the British deficit."

Byrnes has always resented the fact that Morgenthau, whom he doesn't particularly like, gave away the Ruhr.

Bevin replied that he couldn't do that without consulting his Cabinet.

"Well, call them up," shot back Byrnes, who believes in fast action. "I've got a direct phone to London right here."

Bevin hemmed and hawed. He knew what the reaction of the British Cabinet would be. Instead, he brought in a British financial position in more detail to the American Secretary of State.

Byrnes Outscotches Scots

"Whaley," said Byrnes, wanting to make the financial expert feel at home, "that's an interesting name. I have a friend named Whaley from South Carolina on the Court of Claims (Judge Richard S. Whaley of Charleston). He is a Scot. If you're a Scot, I'm sure you can drive a tight bargain."

Mr. Whaley proceeded to give Byrnes an even more woeful picture of the British financial situation than had Bevin. He put up a convincing argument. Finally Byrnes replied:

"Well, I'll tell you what I'll do. We'll just pretend Mr. Bevin isn't in the room, and I'll make you an offer. We'll pay 65 per cent of the British deficit—if you will trade zones. I offered Mr. Bevin 60 percent, but I'll offer you 65 per cent."

However, there was still no enthusiasm. Byrnes, of course, knew in advance that his offer would be turned down.

That is a brief glimpse at the inside of some of our most important diplomatic conversations; a glimpse also at the canny statesmanship and diplomatic charm of the man who weathered one of the roughest diplomatic periods in our history and left our foreign relations much better for his work.

Truman's First "Economic Report" Colored With Political Propaganda

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16—When the Congress passed the so-called "full employment" act and provided for a set of economic advisers to the President, it was assumed that at last the public would get an unbiased analysis of current economic happenings. But President Truman's first "economic report" is so plainly colored with political propaganda that the public cannot distinguish between economic analysis and arguments calculated to cover up and defend the administration's mistakes since V-J Day.

Thus, in the President economic report the phrase "wage adjustment" is used with a curious timidity that prevents the writers of the document from conceding that, when the cost of living goes down, wage costs ought also to go down. Likewise, while much space is given to the high cost of housing, not a line in the whole report discusses the wage rises which have made building costs almost prohibitive.

Only in one statistical table, buried in the appendix, does one find any clue to the difficulties of the American people with residential construction. The table reveals that gross weekly earnings of workers in private building construction went from $31.70 in 1940 to $59.20 in October, 1946. Also bituminous coal mining rates went from $24.71 per week in 1940 to $62.54 per week in October, 1946. In manufacturing, gross weekly earnings soared from $26.20 in 1940 to $45.68 in October, 1946.

Some Wages About Doubled

The wages in non-durable goods industries have about doubled since 1940. Yet, in spite of all these statistics, the paragraph devoted to "wages" in the President's economic report confines itself to what happened just prior to and immediately after July, 1946, when President Truman got himself into a jam with Congress in vetoing the price-control bill.

There is not a line in the report which states that the price rises have been in any way due to increases in wage costs to employers.

The report ignores the steady upward climb in wages since 1940 to October, 1946 and naively remarks: "Since July, 1946, there has been some further increase in wage rates, average hourly earnings, and average take-home pay, but less than the increase in prices. Thus real earnings have fallen."

Naturally, if one lifts out a brief period, there will be fluctuations but in any accurate comparison with pre-war wages it will be found that pay envelopes, despite all the hullaballo about take-home pay, are above pre-war in many instances and actually approximate what they were in wartime. Yet the volume of business done by the employers has necessarily been curtailed due to the drop in war contracts.

Some Portions Contradict Truman

It would be interesting if the Senate or House asked the President to transmit the actual wording of the economists' report undiluted and unchanged. For it is evident, in examining different parts of the report, that some of the economists did get past the political censors one or two statements that contradict the administration's defense of its reconversion policies.

After mentioning fears that purchasing power is being seriously reduced, the report gives this warning about future wage-increase demands:.

"It would be unrealistic to expect that this increase in real purchasing power of consumers could occur solely through a corresponding increase in money incomes. An attempt to raise income by the amount necessary would mean such large increases in money wages and salaries at certain points as to threaten curtailments of production or wage-price spirals. Further, there is no practical way to distribute such wage and salary increases throughout the whole population in such a manner as to effect the desired supports to the market. The groups of wage and salary earners whose purchasing power has been most reduced are the very ones who are likely to participate least in an increase of money earnings. Such concentration of pay increases within particular groups would make even more difficult the task of obtaining a sufficient total increase to sustain maximum employment, production, and purchasing power."

If this is good economic reasoning for the future, why, it might be asked, doesn't it apply equally well to the past—the period between January and April, 1946, when President Truman was urging industry generally to grant a flat 18 percent increase in wages? Now it turns out that a large number—though not all—of the 15,000,000 union workers imposed higher prices not only upon themselves but on the unorganized individuals who constitute the other 45,000,000 of the nation's workers. This imbalance is what is causing the present maladjustment and, if America experiences a depression in the next 18 months, it should be called "the Truman depression" because it came from White House encouragement, if not sponsorship, of a blanket wage increase at a time when production had not been resumed and price policy could not be stabilized.

It's too bad the President didn't have, in the early part of 1945 when he made his public statement urging an 18 per cent increase in wage scales, the following piece of advice for the future just given in the economic report: "But just as there can be no universal or uniform rule to govern price reductions, so there can be no uniform rule relating to wages. Both price adjustments and wage adjustments are necessary in the ensuing months. Wage adjustments, like price adjustments, need to be made with a discriminating regard for individual situations throughout the economy."

What does the economic report mean by adjustments"? When used with prices, it presumably means downward. Could it possibly mean downward on wages, too, or is "adjustments" a flexible word meant to cover up for the politicians what the economists do not venture to say plainly?

People are standing in cold today half way down the block to buy tickets.

Billy Rose

I didn't think it had a chance.

Producer Dwight Wiman sent me the script a few months ago. He wanted to present "Street Scene" at the Ziegfeld. I couldn't get excited about the libretto. Too sordid, I thought. A week later I was invited to hear Kurt Weill play his score. I only managed to stay awake by counting slowly to 10,000. I told the producer and composer the show wasn't my cup of tea. Out of professional politeness, I refrained from telling them I didn't think there was much entertainment in this opera of the tenements. I walked out of the apartment, smug in my belief that a six-dollar musical had to be as pretty and gay as a wedding cake.

"Street Scene" booked another theatre and went into rehearsal. Before it left for its out-of-town tryout, it had a run-through. Several wise guys who saw it called me up to tell me it was a dreary hodge-podge.

In Philadelphia, it got mixed notices. During its three-week engagement, theatre-goers acted as if there were Chicken-Pox signs hung on the doors.

The first week it grossed $4,750, when it needed almost $30,000 to break even. The second week it lost $18,000. The big New Year's week, another $16,000 went down the drain. One Wednesday matinee, it took in $217, which means there were 60 or 70 lonesome customers in a 1,600 seat house. I understand the ushers didn't bother to seat people—every ticket buyer had a row to himself.

"Variety," the show-wise trade paper, epitaphed it with the following lines: "Misses fire. Smacks of tired and discouraged Puccini. Definitely on the tedious side."

I got the word-of-mouth on it from three of the smartest cookies in the theatre, who caught it in Philly. Each of these sure-footed oldtimers is a Pulitzer Prize playwright. I give you their comments:

Pulitzer Prophet No. 1: "Sickmaking."

P. P. No. 2: "Don't ask."

P. P. No. 3: "Unfit for human consumption."

Producer Wiman's staff pleaded with him not to bring it to New York, told him that when the critics got through there'd be blood on the pavement in Shubert Alley. Dwight refused to let the wet blankets dampen his enthusiasm for the show.

The day before the Broadway opening, it was rumored around that one of the backers was willing to trade his 10 per cent for a Pullman reservation to Miami.

Eleanor, who loves to glad-rag it for an opening, didn't for this one. We went in our street clothes, and so did most of the audience. Instead of the usual first-night electricity, the evening had the feeling of a duty call at a thirty-second cousin's funeral.

And then the curtain went up.

Within ten minutes, the Broadway wolf-pack sensed it was in at the birth of something special. They were looking at a world of trapped and hungering people, people who reached out for something pretty and got their fingers stepped on. Kurt Weill's music and Langston Hughes' lyrics told their story with a kind of wistful passion. A stageful of nobody I-ever-heard-of sang better than any cast around here in 20 years. Charlie Friedman's direction, Jo Mielziner's set—only wonderful! It was one of those rare nights when a show catches lightning in a barrel. The applause was like a 21-gun salute going off in a phone booth.

When the final curtain dropped on a scene of murder and despair, I found myself weeping—and I don't weep easy.

The next morning, the critics dusted off the adjectives they keep in the vault. A thousand liars on the Big Midway told each other they knew it was going to be a hit all the time. But in my grift, I can't afford the luxury of lying to myself.

"Street Scene," which played mostly to echoes in Philadelphia, will probably play to better than $40,000 a week at the Adelphi Theatre for a long time. If I were half as smart as I think I am, it would be at the Ziegfeld. Next time I get to feeling I wrote the book, I'm going to walk around the corner and look at the mob fighting to get in to see the show I said didn't have a chance.

Shake hands with a dope.

NEW CORPORATIONS

Bob Feller, star mound boy of the Cleveland Indians, has become so interested in big business that he actualy started the firm, Bob Feller corporation. Yessir, if Bob puts on a little weight now he can truthfully say it's just part of the corporation.

This can have amusing results if it catches on among other athletes, I can just see Glenn Davis incorporated tossing a fifty-five yard pass to Doc Blanchard ltd.

And the water boys won't run out at the half with buckets—they'll carry ticker tape.

Naturally there will no longer be a scoreboard at the far end of the field—only a blackboard with the latest stock market quotations.

And before a team can carry out a play it will have to call time out while the players go through the stand and get approval from the stockholders.

Of course, in a game like tennis there would be confusion when the players start speaking of "net for the year."

And in ice hockey, where there's plenty of rough stuff, things will be simplified if the players go commercial. When one man trips another the victim will merely give the dirty player the business.

And when players get too old to continue in the game, they won't retire—they'll just file a notice of bankruptcy.

ON KNITTING WORDS

In one of Rumer Godden's delightful books, "Gypsy Gypsie" she used an expression, referring to one of her characters, as "endlessly knitting, knitting, knitting kind foolish words." It made me think of many ladies who I have seen knitting, almost without thought, in trains and in cars—just repeating, over and over, the weaving of one design. Like the talk that goes on in so many places—just talk, "knitting, knitting, knitting kind foolish words."

And then I have sat and watched others knitting, carefully, and expertly working out beautiful designs, in figures, flowers, and intricate formations. Like so many conversationalists, like the late Bob Davis, whose words fell from his lips like a waterfall, or a bubbling stream, and writers like Kay Boyle, W. H. Hudson, and Rumer Godden, and poets like Robert Frost. Beautiful, deathless knitters of living, undying words.

In many novels that I have read this sense of knitting into words is so evident. In Tolstoi's "War and Peace" and Victor Hugo's "Les Miserables" for example—great written fabrics, masterpieces of woven words. And what a perfect composition of knitted words is Abraham Lincoln's Speech at Gettysburg! And some of the poems by Robert Burns and Edgar Allan Poe are like delicate woven bits of lace.

The very thoughts we think are knitted into words before they are expressed. Wendell Phillips never wrote a lecture, yet each published one that I have read is perfect in arrangement and logical sequence. It was fascinating and thrilling to listen to the late President Wilson, and to hear the words that flowed from that marvelous mind in such fine form—for he had an orderly mind. He knew what he wanted to say, and people listened rapturously.

One of the greatest of all writers of English prose was Lafcadio Hearn. He knitted his words in exquisite fashion, producing effects that were ethereal, elf-like at times, in their delicacy of arrangement. Sometimes they sing softly, and are musical, like the subdued tones of an orchestra, and sometimes they just whisper!

Lt. Rosalie O'Neil To Be Bride Of R. E. McWhorter

Ceremony To Be Held Jan. 18 In Fort Belvoir

Lt. Rosalie O'Neil, daughter of Mrs. Thomas E. O'Neil, 150 Polk street, will become the bride of Warrent Officer Robert E. McWhorter, son of Mr. and Mrs. John R. McWhorter, Clearmont, Orlando, Fla., tomorrow.

The nuptial mass will be read at 7:30 in the station chapel at Fort Belvoir, Va., and the marriage will be solemnized at 4 o'clock with Rev. Father Draw, Catholic chaplain at the station, officiating.

The bride will be given in marriage by Col. Roger J. Darnall, commander in chief of the post. Lt. Virginia Morrison will be maid of honor and only attendant and Capt. Robert E. Holt, Jr., will serve as Mr. McWhorter's best man. Capt. Dave Hoover will be the vocal soloist.

The bride-elect attended St. Patrick's School and graduated from Catholic Girls Central High School and Children's Hospital School of Nursing, Washington, D. C. She served as a member of the Red Cross Reserves a year before being sent overseas and spent the time at Walter Reed hospital. Leaving the states, March 1, 1942, she served in the Pacific theater for three years. The latest of her five ribbons, the Army Commendation ribbon, she received at Newton Baker General Hospital, Martinsburg, W. Va.

Mr. McWhorter, a senior grade warrant officer in the army, is also stationed at Fort Belvoir. He entered the service in 1941 and served in the European Theater, being among the first troops in Africa, and also participated in the Italian campaign. He has been stationed at Belvoir for about two years.

Following the ceremony the chief nurse at the hospital will entertain with a wedding reception, in honor of the bride and her wedding party, at the nurses' recreation room after which Mr. McWhorter and his bride will leave for a tour of the south and will visit his parents in Florida.

Mrs. O'Neil will leave today for Belvoir and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Felton, brother-in-law and sister of the bride, will leave tomorrow.

First robin has already been reported. A NEWS reader is willing to bet that it was just a sparrow wearing red woolens.

Church Women To Hear National President, May 22

The Cumberland Council of Church Women will have Mrs. Sibley, national president of the Council of Church Women, as guest speaker at the annual luncheon meeting, May 22.

The announcement was made by Mrs. John Zimmerman, chairman, at the regular meeting of the council yesterday in the lecture room of the First Presbyterian Church, with Mrs. Robert LeRoy Critchfield presiding. She also reported that the May luncheon is expected to be the most important and largest meeting the local organization has ever held. Church women from Keyser, Lonaconing, Barton, Frostburg and all near by towns will be invited to attend. The place for the meeting will be announced later.

Mrs. John S. Cook, chairman of the World Day of Prayer, reported that she and her co-chairman, Mrs. Ralph Isiminger, are planning to have the observance conducted in seven different churches, February 21. The principal session will be held at approximately 2 o'clock, in the First Presbyterian Church. The other six meetings will be held in outlying districts, probably in the evening.

The "New Windsor" project, conducted under the auspices of the First Presbyterian Church and the Evangelical and United Brethren Church, was discussed by Mrs. William A. Eisenberger. She explained that clothes, candles and various articles are collected for use in war devastated Europe. Since a truck will come up from New Windsor, in the near future Mrs. Eisenberger urged that donations be made as soon as possible. The two local churches are depots for contributions.

Mrs. Critchfield opened the meeting with a hymn and prayer and the devotionals were conducted by Mrs. Arthur Scrogum. She centered it around, "Pressing On Toward the High Calling," theme for the New Year.

Following a box luncheon Mrs. A. E. Kesecker, Mrs. Cook and Mrs. Zimmerman reported the highlights of the national assembly they held in Grand Rapids, at which time all nations were represented and the speakers included missionaries from 18 countries. They concluded their report with a playlet, "Sense and NonSense About Races." Mrs. Critchfield and Mrs. Cook spoke of the executive meeting held in Baltimore earlier in the week.

LOCAL BANKERS WILL ATTEND DINNER

Representatives of local banking institutions have been invited to attend the annual banquet of the Baltimore Chapter of the American Institute of Banking in the Calvert Room of Lord Baltimore Hotel at Baltimore tomorrow evening, according to Howard M. Proudfoot, chapter president.

Among those from Cumberland who expect to attend are Charles A. Piper, John J. Robinson, Thomas L. Keech and Thomas McNamee of the Liberty Trust Company; and Joseph M. Naughton and John H. Mosner of the Second National Bank. Representatives of other banks said they received invitations but have other engagements and cannot attend.

The principal speaker at the affair will be George Dixon, newspaper columnist. Dr. William A. Irwin, national educational director of the A. I. B. and economist of the American Bankers Association also is scheduled for an address.

President of A. I. B. chapters in New York, Philadelphia, Washington, Richmond, Norfolk, Winston-Salem and other cities are expected to attend and over 800 Eastern bankers are invited.

Governor William Preston Lane Jr., Senators Millard E. Tydings and Herbert R. O'Conor and Mayor Theodore R. McKeldin also plan to attend.

Woman's Civic Club Contributes To YMCA

Dr. Dorothy Howard Discusses Literature

Members of the Woman's Civic Club voted a five year sustaining membership to Central YMCA at the meeting yesterday afternoon in Emmanuel Episcopal parish house, with Mrs. Arthur C. Bright presiding.

Various committee reports featured the business session. Miss Elizabeth L. Lowndes reported that the American Home Group will meet next Thursday at the home of Mrs. Nellie Wilson Footer and requested that members bring old jewelry for the exhibit.

Mrs. Harold Smith, Legislative chairman, explained the Sherbow Report and mentioned that the local City Council is seeking an enabling act to issue a $100,000 bond issue for a recreation program.

New members taken into the club in November and not announced before, due to the fact that there was no business session at the Christmas party, were Mrs. Clarence E. Gehr, Sr., Mrs. E. S. Fox, Mrs. T. Bailey Hunter, Mrs. Joseph F. Mason, Mrs. John A. Parks and Mrs. Dudley M. Browne.

Dr. Dorothy Howard, Frostburg State Teachers College, guest speaker, chose as her topic, "Best Seller Fiction in American Literature." She declared that "The literature among the best sellers has reflected the changing manners and morals of the people." The factors which make a book a best seller Dr. Howard listed as author's reputation; literary excellence; Book of the Month selection; good reviews; timeliness; erotic passages; book store recommendation and publishers advertisements.

The speaker first told of the books that sold well in the 19th century, namely, "Uncle Tom's Cabin," and "St. Elmo." The latter was written in a very stilted manner, she explained.

From the Civil War I most popular literature was the Pollyanna type and also the historical novel became popular. She said the first mystery story, "Hound of Baskerville," was a best seller around 1902.

During the World War I period, Zane Grey, with his escape romantic literature, was much read. Then following the "debunking" period with Sinclair Lewis' "All Quiet on the Western Front." Social forces played a greater part in literature in the 1930's when "Grapes of Wrath" and "Gone with the Wind," became popular. However, she declared, the best seller of all times has been the Bible.

The Civic section met at the close of the general session to discuss it's various projects and Mrs. A. M. Lichtenstein chairman, appointed Mrs. Arthur Warfield, Mrs. Robert R. Henderson and Mrs. Douglas Smith a committee to select, replace and mark the Doub memorial tree between the Public Library and the annex. The group also submitted names, from the club, to the Mayor and City Council for membership on the library board, suggesting the club be represented on the board. They also considered the study of city ordinances to acquaint the women with them especially on lights and collection of garbage.

Woman's Civic Club Contributes To YMCA

Dr. Dorothy Howard Discusses Literature

Members of the Woman's Civic Club voted a five year sustaining membership to Central YMCA at the meeting yesterday afternoon in Emmanuel Episcopal parish house, with Mrs. Arthur C. Bright presiding.

Various committee reports featured the business session. Miss Elizabeth L. Lowndes reported that the American Home Group will meet next Thursday at the home of Mrs. Nellie Wilson Footer and requested that members bring old jewelry for the exhibit.

Mrs. Harold Smith, Legislative chairman, explained the Sherbow Report and mentioned that the local City Council is seeking an enabling act to issue a $100,000 bond issue for a recreation program.

New members taken into the club in November and not announced before, due to the fact that there was no business session at the Christmas party, were Mrs. Clarence E. Gehr, Sr., Mrs. E. S. Fox, Mrs. T. Bailey Hunter, Mrs. Joseph F. Mason, Mrs. John A. Parks and Mrs. Dudley M. Browne.

Dr. Dorothy Howard, Frostburg State Teachers College, guest speaker, chose as her topic, "Best Seller Fiction in American Literature." She declared that "The literature among the best sellers has reflected the changing manners and morals of the people." The factors which make a book a best seller Dr. Howard listed as author's reputation; literary excellence; Book of the Month selection; good reviews; timeliness; erotic passages; book store recommendation and publishers advertisements.

The speaker first told of the books that sold well in the 19th century, namely, "Uncle Tom's Cabin," and "St. Elmo." The latter was written in a very stilted manner, she explained.

From the Civil War I most popular literature was the Pollyanna type and also the historical novel became popular. She said the first mystery story, "Hound of Baskerville," was a best seller around 1902.

During the World War I period, Zane Grey, with his escape romantic literature, was much read. Then following the "debunking" period with Sinclair Lewis' "All Quiet on the Western Front." Social forces played a greater part in literature in the 1930's when "Grapes of Wrath" and "Gone with the Wind," became popular. However, she declared, the best seller of all times has been the Bible.

The Civic section met at the close of the general session to discuss it's various projects and Mrs. A. M. Lichtenstein chairman, appointed Mrs. Arthur Warfield, Mrs. Robert R. Henderson and Mrs. Douglas Smith a committee to select, replace and mark the Doub memorial tree between the Public Library and the annex. The group also submitted names, from the club, to the Mayor and City Council for membership on the library board, suggesting the club be represented on the board. They also considered the study of city ordinances to acquaint the women with them especially on lights and collection of garbage.

Ali Ghan Temple Holds Ladies Night

Three selections by the Lions Glee Club also were included on the program.

Following the program a buffet supper was served to 475 guests. Favors of rosebuds were presented to each of the ladies and prizes were awarded.

Salisbury, Jan. 16—A drive against illegal slot machines on the Lower Eastern Shore spread to another county today with a sharp warning to operators of the devices tha Wicomico county enforcement officers were ready to prosecute violators of the gambling laws.

Less than 24 hours after officials in adjacent Somerset county issued their warning that "one-arm bandits" would be seized, Wicomico County State's Attorney Rex A. Taylor, Sheriff Jesse M. Pollitt and Salisbury Police Commissioner James A. Taylor went into action.

A joint statement said:

"In view of the warning issued by Somerset county law enforcemen authorities for the removal of al slot machines from all establishments in that county by Monday, let it be understood here and now that if such operators entertain the thought of moving their machines to Wicomico county, they will not find favor in Salisbury or any other part of the county.

"It is mutually agreed by Commissioner Taylor, State's Attorney Taylor and Sheriff Pollitt that if any slot machines are found to be operated they will be confiscated and the violators will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law. There will be no further warning."

Announcement of the anti-gambling drive in Somerset county came within a week after its Republican member of the Maryland House of Delegates publicly denounced widespread display of gambling machines in his county.

Late Demand For Rails Steadies Market Following Midday Selloff

NEW YORK, Jan. 16 (AP)—Late demand for rails steadied most sections of the stock market today after a relatively sharp midday selloff had put leaders down fractions to a point or more.

Dealings tapered appreciably as cautious bidding arrived but extreme losses were reduced or converted into advances of as much as two points or so in the final hour. Transfers expanded to 1,040,000 shares compared with 770,000 Wednesday.

Santa Fe added 2⅞ at 91¼, New York Central one at 18, Union Pacific one at 128, Chrysler 1¼ at 88¼, Transcontinental and Western Air three-eighths at 18⅝ and Twentieth Century-Fox one-half at 32⅝. Best and Company common was up one at 32 in the wake of a boosted dividend.

Du Pont was off one at 181¼, Eastman Kodak one at 216, Gimbel one at 25 and Owens-Illinois 2¼ at 73¼. Backward also were Bethlehem, Goodrich, Montgomery Ward, International Harvester, Douglas Aircraft, Western Union "A", Anaconda, International Nickel, International Paper, Schenley, Pepsi-Cola, Loew's and Texas Company.

Higher in the Curb were Northern States Power 'A", Electric Bond and Share, Cities Service, Middle West Corporation and Pantepec. Among casualties were American Gas, American Republics and National Bellas Hess. Turnover here was 280,000 shares versus 230,000 yesterday.

Total transactions of $5,390,000, compared with $3,670,000 Wednesday.

United States governments were steady in quiet over-the-counter dealings with the Victory Loan December 2½s of '67-'72 up 1/16 at 102 30/32 bid.

Costly!

When last summer's polio outbreak added name after name to the list of infantile paralysis victims, funds from the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis' March of Dimes were on hand to pay for the best of medical care and treatment. So costly was this vital service that besides millons spent by National Foundation chapters, National Headquarters sent more than $5,000,000 in supplementary March of Dimes money to replenish depleted chapter treasuries.

Your dimes and dollars given to the March of Dimes are the sole source of National Foundation revenue. What you give today will be on hand for tomorrow's battle — when polio strikes.

Is your favorite brand going up in price?

IF YOU—like millions of discerning people—have selected one of these whiskies as your favorite, you'll be glad to hear that, as far as we are concerned, the answer on higher prices is . . . NO!

There has not been one penny increase in the price to the trade on Four Roses, Paul Jones, or Hunter.

The prices on these famous brands are exactly the same today as they were before the removal of OPA price ceilings.

We are sure, too, that it is good news to our wholesalers, retail stores, and to those who serve our brands in bars and taverns. For it means that they do not have to raise their prices on any of these brands—either by the bottle or by the drink.

When you go to your package store . . . or step up to your favorite bar . . . you may expect to find Four Roses, Paul Jones, or Hunter at the same price as it was under OPA ceilings. For we are asking all retailers—in fairness to you—not to increase their prices, since we are not increasing ours.

Late Demand For Rails Steadies Market Following Midday Selloff

NEW YORK, Jan. 16 (AP)—Late demand for rails steadied most sections of the stock market today after a relatively sharp midday selloff had put leaders down fractions to a point or more.

Dealings tapered appreciably as cautious bidding arrived but extreme losses were reduced or converted into advances of as much as two points or so in the final hour. Transfers expanded to 1,040,000 shares compared with 770,000 Wednesday.

Santa Fe added 2¾ at 91¼, New York Central one at 18, Union Pacific one at 128, Chrysler 1¼ at 88¼, Transcontinental and Western Air three-eighths at 18¾ and Twentieth Century-Fox one-half at 32⅝. Best and Company common was up one at 32 in the wake of a boosted dividend.

Du Pont was off one at 181¼, Eastman Kodak one at 216, Gimbel one at 25 and Owens-Illinois 2¼ at 73¼. Backward also were Bethlehem, Goodrich, Montgomery Ward, International Harvester, Douglas Aircraft, Western Union "A", Anaconda, International Nickel, International Paper, Schenley, Pepsi-Cola, Loew's and Texas Company.

Higher in the Curb were Northern States Power "A", Electric Bond and Share, Cities Service, Middle West Corporation and Pantepec. Among casualties were American Gas, American Republics and National Bellas Hess. Turnover here was 280,000 shares versus 230,000 yesterday.

The bond market was irregularly lower today with medium and low priced rail issues backing up in the face of modest offerings.

Costly!

When last summer's polio outbreak added name after name to the list of infantile paralysis victims, funds from the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis' March of Dimes were on hand to pay for the best of medical care and treatment. So costly was this vital service that besides millions spent by National Foundation chapters, National Headquarters sent more than $5,000,000 in supplementary March of Dimes money to replenish depleted chapter treasuries.

Your dimes and dollars given to the March of Dimes are the sole source of National Foundation revenue. What you give today will be on hand for tomorrow's battle — when polio strikes.

Commissioners Set New Garrett Tax Rate At $2.10

By GEORGE H. HANST

OAKLAND, Jan. 16 — The County Commissioners in completing the annual levy this week fixed the county tax rate at $2.10 per each $100 of assessable property, an increase of 60 cents. For the past two years the rate had been $1.50.

Included in the figures for the year were the increase to $46,290 to supplement salaries of school teachers, and a debt of $32,057.69 in the county roads department.

There were some increases in a few of the other departments, including over $3,000 in the appropriation for the county welfare department.

Welfare Items Listed

The County Welfare Board will receive $49,144.56, over $3,000 more than last year. This includes aid to dependent children, $1,960; board for children, $3,200; general public assistance, $20,442.24; old age assistance, $17,801.88; aid to blind, $982.47, and administration, $4,757.97. Other items for welfare include $8,000 for hospital care of needy and $13,000 for almshouse and asylum, which do not come under the welfare board.

The Commissioners levied $73,488.84 for equipment, repairs, and labor for the county roads department, and $32,057.69 to take care of a debt in that department, making $105,506.53.

Other regular items were about the same as previous years. The Commissioners provided $2,000 for a garage for the jail, an item that grand juries for several years have been recommending. An item of $4,000 was also levied to purchase filing equipment for the office of the clerk of the Circuit Court.

Expected Revenue Cited

The county will operate on an expected revenue of $508,982.20, and of this amount $439,829.92 will come from the county tax rate of $2.10 on a taxable basis of $20,944,282. The tax basis on real and personal property is $14,644,282; automobiles, $300,000, and returns from the state tax commission, which include the Pennsylvania Electric Company and other corporations, are based on a tax basis of $6,000,000.

Other estimated income includes $6,000 from state hospital fund, $42,000 from beer licenses and tax, $1,500 from magistrates, $1,400 from State Forestry Department. $100 from franchise tax, $1,000 from income tax, $750 from motor vehicle fines, and $2,000 from miscellaneous items. Cash on hand was listed at $14,402.28.

The school system of the county will receive $178,088.56. The 56-cent basis will bring $117,079.02. Additional items include $5,500 for agricultural and industrial arts teachers, $4,188.54 for library fund, $250 for rent at Kitzmiller High School, $1,742 for under payment in 1945 on the 51-cent requirement, $105 for wiring Red Oak School, $78 for wiring New Germany School, $250 for digging well at Johnson School, $450 for chairs at Friendsville, $1,720 for boiler in Oakland High School, $436 for boiler sections at Kitzmiller School, and $46,290 for supplementing salaries of teachers. In addition there is an item of $30,000 required by the acts of 1945 for the school building fund.

Treasurer's Report Given

Over 91 per cent of the county's taxes for 1946 were collected last year, in addition to other taxes due since 1942, it was revealed from a report of J. Edward Helbig, who was county treasurer until the first of the year. The report was presented to the Board of County Commissioners.

Taxes to be collected during 1946 amounted to $298,069.87 and the amount collected was $272,155.14, leaving a balance of $25,914.73 or less than nine per cent of the total.

Commissioners Set New Garrett Tax Rate At $2.10

By GEORGE H. HANST

OAKLAND, Jan. 16 — The County Commissioners in completing the annual levy this week fixed the county tax rate at $2.10 per each $100 of assessable property, an increase of 60 cents. For the past two years the rate had been $1.50.

Included in the figures for the year were the increase to $46,290 to supplement salaries of school teachers, and a debt of $32,057.69 in the county roads department. There were some increases in a few of the other departments, including over $3,000 in the appropriation for the county welfare department.

Welfare Items Listed

The County Welfare Board will receive $49,144.56, over $3,000 more than last year. This includes aid to dependent children, $1,960; board for children, $3,200; general public assistance, $20,442.24; old age assistance, $17,801.88; aid to blind, $982.47, and administration, $4,757.97. Other items for welfare include $8,000 for hospital care of needy and $13,000 for almshouse and asylum, which do not come under the welfare board.

The Commissioners levied $73,488.84 for equipment, repairs, and labor for the county roads department, and $32,057.69 to take care of a debt in that department, making $105,506.53.

Other regular items were about the same as previous years. The Commissioners provided $2,000 for a garage for the jail, an item that grand juries for several years have been recommending. An item of $4,000 was also levied to purchase filing equipment for the office of the clerk of the Circuit Court.

Expected Revenue Cited

The county will operate on an expected revenue of $508,982.20, and of this amount $439,829.92 will come from the county tax rate of $2.10 on a taxable basis of $20,944,282. The tax basis on real and personal property is $14,644,282; automobiles, $300,000, and returns from the state tax commission, which include the Pennsylvania Electric Company and other corporations, are based on a tax basis of $6,000,000.

Other estimated income includes $6,000 from state hospital fund, $42,000 from beer licenses and tax, $1,500 from magistrates, $1,400 from State Forestry Department. $100 from franchise tax, $1,000 from income tax, $750 from motor vehicle fines, and $2,000 from miscellaneous items. Cash on hand was listed at $14,402.28.

The school system of the county will receive $178,088.56. The 56-cent basis will bring $117,079.02. Additional items include $5,500 for agricultural and industrial arts teachers, $4,188.54 for library fund, $250 for rent at Kitzmiller High School, $1,742 for underpayment in 1945 on the 51-cent requirement, $105 for wiring Red Oak School, $78 for wiring New Germany School, $250 for digging well at Johnson School, $450 for chairs at Friendsville, $1,720 for boiler in Oakland High School, $436 for boiler sections at Kitzmiller School, and $46,290 for supplementing salaries of teachers. In addition there is an item of $30,000 required by the acts of 1945 for the school building fund.

By ELSIE ROBINSON

Warden Clinton Duffy, famous for his humanitarian treatment of convicts, has introduced another innovation in San Quentin.

Every month certain convicts who have a good record are promised release on a certain date. After release they are under strict parole. . . a parole which, in unwise hands, might amount to cruel persecution.

But Warden Duffy thinks he has found a better technique than to release a broken spirited man to face the ruthlessness of a world which does not understand him. So he has instituted the "honor block" idea.

The "honor block" is an intermediate step between strict imprisonment and perilous freedom.

For weeks before these prison branded men are set loose by parole, they move into cells with a vastly different treatment. The cells are unlocked. The hours for amusement and intermingling with other convicts are greatly expanded. A man no longer exists as a number. He has become a person. He is put on his honor. He is allowed to write letters as he will, to read, play games, or just sit and talk with his friends without the suspicious guardianship of trustees.

And so, before the ex-convict leaves the deadening darkness of his prison cell, he has learned to be a citizen again. He has learned the healing power of faith. He has regained his self respect. He is armored against the intolerance of a suspicious world.

What a pity it is that we, in the free world, cannot follow Warden Duffy's honor system in our treatment of the weak. What a vile and unchristian thing it is that we cannot prepare those who have fallen for the difficult task of walking upright. What cruel shame that we cannot use our tolerance to lessen the shock of the inevitable fight ahead.

Yet how seldom do we extend such tolerance even to our own children. If a small boy is naughty, we hold his naughtiness against him until, by bitter struggle, he proves himself trustworthy. If a man or woman has succumbed to temptation, we hold that record against them until they purge themselves. We will believe in them only when they have thoroughly proven themselves worthy of belief. For them there is no gentle understanding period of preparation for the cruel tests which human beings set up for their less stalwart brothers.

Tolerance which can only believe in another after the battle is won is no tolerance at all.

The mercy which can extend no forgiveness until mercy is no longer needed is not mercy.

If you cannot believe in a man when he is still shackled to his past, your belief isn't worth a tinker's dam. It's only another and more poignant form of punishment.

Past Grand Chancellor O. M. Brotemarkle, Cumberland, will have charge of the degree team which will confer the rank of page. All members of the team will be past grand lodge officers.

Frostburg City Lodge also completed plans last evening for a special meeting for Wednesday evening, January 29, when a program will be presented, including showing motion pictures of local interest by Harold C. Carl.

County Ranks First In GI Loans Made

Allegany county had the highest number of GI loans and total amount of loan value in Western Maryland for the period between June 1, 1946 to December 31, 1946, according to Lewis Schnebly, loan guaranty representative for the subregional office of the Veterans' Administration at Hagerstown.

Three hundred and sixty-one loans were written in Allegany county compared to 154 in Washington county, 138 in Frederick county and 52 in Garrett county, Schnebly reported. Total loan value in Allegany county was $1,817,060 compared to $771,907 in Washington, $698,966 in Frederick and $169,551 in Garrett, he added.

Types of loans in Allegany county were divided into 342 home loans, 17 farm loans and two business loans. Schnebly said that loan requests from service men and women continued fairly steady despite material scarcities and the uncertain economic status of many veterans.

Funeral Rites Are Held In Salisbury For Mrs. Martz

Committee Of Barton Residents Named To Aid In Locating Doctor

They are Mrs. Mary Mowbray, Mrs. Louise Lamberson, Alfred H. Benna, Robert Dawson and Harmon Gannon. The committee will assist a group to be named by Joseph Davis, commander of the Legion post, to make further plans for obtaining a resident physician.

Communications Noted

Paul Davis, post adjutant and chairman of the Barton Civic Improvement Committee, presided at the public meeting, held in the Firemen's Armory, South Eutah street. He said he had received several communications from doctors, requesting information in regarding to coming here.

One of the physicians, Dr. David Rees, Hyndman, Pa., said his parents formerly resided in Barton, and expressed his interest in practicing here.

Dr. Joseph P. Franklin, city and county health officer, told the 100 persons attending the meeting that the Health Department will do everything possible to aid Barton in securing a community doctor.

Miss Anne Sloan, Lonaconing, veteran child welfare worker, advised the group to give all applicants full consideration rather than work a hasty decision as to the choice of an applicant.

Legion Praised

Beverly Howard Wins World Title For Stunt Flying

Appeared At Air Show Here Last Summer

Beverly Howard, Orangeburg, S. C., stunt flier and aerobatic pilot, who appeared here on last summer's Air Show at the Cumberland Airport, won the world's championship in aerobatics before 90,000 spectators at the 15th All-American Air Maneuvers now being held at Miami, Fla.

Brax Dodson, chairman of the Junior Association of Commerce aviation committee which sponsored the local Air Show, said last night this is the second consecutive time Howard has won this title.

Competing against six other internationally known aviators, including "Woody" Edmundson of Lynchburg, Va., who also appeared here last summer, Howard flew a recently purchased German made Brucker-Jungmeister plane in the competition. The ship, formerly owned by Alex Pontamo, Rumanian air ace, was used in Germany to train pilots in advanced aerobatics.

Howard did all the fast flying stunts seen here last summer in the competition, and flew the ship upside down at a record pace for seven minutes, completing his performance with two close outside loops. Judges of the CAA judged the meet, and awarded him the world's championship title for the second time.

Dodson said last night that both Howard and Edmundson are already under contract for this year's local Air Show sponsored by the Jaycees and Howard will bring both his new Brucker-Jungmeister and his clipped wing Cub here for the June show.

Turnpike Hotel Plans Are Denied

A rumor that a large hotel, to be located at Midway on the Pennsylvania Turnpike, near Bedford, Pa., is being planned, was termed false last night by T. J. Evans, president of the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission.

Evans declared that the commission is more interested in extending the highway into Ohio, at the present time than it is erecting hotels.

However, he declared if any one were considering a hotel on the turnpike, the commission would be one of the first groups to hear of it, "and we definitely have had no report of such activity."

Varied Program Is Given By Kiwanians

An address by John L. Dunkle, former president of State Teachers College, Frostburg, on "Conception of Happiness"; a brief report by O. J. Hale, lieutenant governor of the First Division of the Capital District, on the Mid-Year conference held in Richmond, Va., Sunday and Monday; and introduction of two former members were highlights of the Kiwanis meeting in the Central YMCA yesterday at noon.

W. Earle Cobey, president, welcomed back to the club as members, Trial Magistrate Frank Perdew and Albert Carlson, of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company.

A feature of the club singing was a solo by Dr. Royce Hodges.

Packard Agency Sold By Lashley

Sale of the Packard automobile agency, located at 361 Frederick street, to three Clarksburg, W. Va., men, was announced yesterday afternoon by Ralph Lashley, trading as Fort Cumberland Motors.

Lashley, who has operated the business since 1939, said the sale was effective as of yesterday, and that the new owners assumed charge yesterday morning.

The new owners are C. A. Kimball, Paul Pringle and V. D. Pringle. The business has been incorporated under the name of Fort Cumberland Motors, Inc., with Kimble as president; Paul Pringle as secretary and V. D. Pringle as treasurer. Kimball will manage the concern.

The Pringles operate the Pringle Motor Service in Clarksburg and Kimball was with the concern for 11 years as manager. Prior to that he was with General Motors for five years. Kimball is a native of Clarksburg and said he and Mrs. Kimball will move to Cumberland to make their home as soon as he can locate a house.

Kimball announced last night that his firm will remodel the building, build a new show room and install modern equipment in the service department. He added that $6,000 worth of modern general service equipment has been purchased and he hopes to have it installed by Feb. 15.

The transaction includes only the automobile agency and not the building which is owned by Mr. Lashley's father.

Twigg Found Guilty Of Reckless Driving

Charged with reckless driving, as a result of an accident on Twiggtown Road December 23, Earl Twigg, Route 4, this city, was fined $11.45 yesterday in Trial Magistrates Court. Norman F. Funkhouser, Spring Gap, the other driver, was acquitted.

Twigg entered a plea of "not guilty," but Magistrate Frank A. Perdew ruled he was to blame for colliding with the car operated by Funkhouser about one mile off Oldtown Road.

State Trooper William F. Baker said he was told that Twigg reached in front of his wife, Mrs. Ethel Pearl Twigg, 45, to wind up a window and that when he looked back to the road he found himself driving in the center of the 14-foot thoroughfare with Funkhouser's car headed toward him.

Following the crash, Mrs. Twigg was admitted to Memorial Hospital for treatment of severe lacerations of the face, forehead, scalp and right leg. Both drivers were treated for minor injuries.

William Henry Shepard, 1015 Grape Alley, forfeited $6.45 bond for permitting an unlicensed driver to operate a motor vehicle. He was arrested January 7 on Route 40 by Trooper Baker.

Ray T. Moats, 215 Pearl street, forfeited $6.45 for passing another car near the crest of a hill on Baltimore Pike, and Raymond E. Jones, 722 Sylvan avenue, forfeited $2.45 for driving without a muffler on Route 51 Sunday. Tropper Robert D. Henline made the arrest.

Smoke Conditions At Railroad Shops Reported Improved

Stating that smoke conditions at the South End shops and roundhouse of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad have improved approximately 90 per cent in the past few months, James J. Conner, Jr., instructor in fuel economy for the railroad, said yesterday that in a comparatively short time it is anticipated that steps will be taken to reduce smoke at the Bolt and Forge shop.

At the conference with Mayor Thomas S. Post, Conner said that the railroad is making every effort to improve its operations here and that "by spring we hope to have things where we want them."

The fuel instructor said he divided his time between the shops and the Queen City Station. He attempts to see that the locomotives are fired properly when they leave the roundhouse and then checks at the station before and as trains pull out.

For several months engineer and firemen offenders have been noted on a report sheet. The report covers the date of offense, time and place, names of the engineer and fireman, engine number, whether it was standing or moving, if a blower was being used, if a smoke consumer was used, density of smoke noted and general remarks.

For the first offense the men are called for a conference with the road foreman of engines. The second offense brings a conference with the superintendent.

Conner related that air jets have been installed at the shops and roundhouse and have also been placed on 75 percent of the locomotives operating out of Cumberland. He said installation for each engine costs $500 and that the jets being used are like those advocated in the smoke control ordinance which was introduced here some months ago.

Mayor Post expressed gratification that so much progress has been made without a compelling ordinance, and asked Conner to make further reports from time to time.

Advice To The Lovelorn

Should A Husband Who Is Repentent Be Given Another Chance

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

Some weeks ago a letter was printed in this colmun from a husband who had made life a hell for his wife for many years. Finally, in desperation, she left him.

Something—perhaps this decisive action of hers—shocked him into a realization of what he had done, and made him see the situation as it was, for the first time. He thought everything out, with all the intelligence and honesty he could bring to it, and as a result was able to put a finger on those things in himself which had been largely responsible for the catastrophe. Armed with this new self-knowledge, and a great and sincere desire to make amends to his wife and child, he sought a reconciliation, in which the wife declined to co-operate.

In commenting on his letter, I said I thought this man deserved another chance, and that I hoped he would get it. My feeling was that the manner in which he had gone about searching in himself for the things that were wrong, and his success in analyzing his mistakes, augured well for a happier future. For not too many people, whether man or woman, who want another chance, have the insight into the causes of their previous failures that this man showed, and when someone does have such insight it seems to me he should have one more opportunity to make good on it.

Not everybody agreed with me in this, however, I soon discovered. Many women feel that no man who makes his wife wretchedly unhappy over a period of years should be given any further chance.

One such woman, who said she had had this type of experience with her own husband, wrote as follows:

"The part of your column that really made my blood boil was your 'Good luck to you. You deserve another chance, "Repentant."'

"Why does he deserve another chance? Because he's been a miserable cad for 16 years? Because he cowed a woman into submission? Because he evidently disgraced her before people with his criticism, nagging, disrepect? Because he did not cherish in sickness and in health? Because he broke every man-made law of decency toward his own selected mate?

"Here's a man who probably left his wife in a reduced state of health, shattered nerves and illusions, feeling very let-down and abandoned, perhaps not abandoned financially but physically, spiritually, which is by far the most heart-breaking status for a wife to find herself in.

"Dear 'Repentant' sounds so good—on paper. Yes, he's been a bad boy. He paints a pretty nice picture of a God-fearing, repentant soul. A little late, isn't it? Sixteen years of torturing a woman—his wife—his child's mother. And now that her strength is snapped, he is sorry. Would you want to bet that his wife spent many pleading hour with him predicting the eventual outcome of his continued behavior? Did not her 16 years of loyalty prove that she was trying, hoping, praying, forgiving? And for what? . . .

"I do not believe he can win the wife back. If they make up, it will be only temporary, or for convenience, but I believe the wife is so full of resentment that she can't forgive. . . .

"No, a thousand time, 'Repentant' does not deserve another chance, though I don't hope that he won't get it. If he should get it, he should spend the rest of his years trying to erase the bitter memories of his wife, and perhaps his child.

"With me, 16 years of being a doormat, humiliated, abused, nagged, criticized, neglected, deprived, has convinced me that another chance will not be forthcoming."

I have printed this letter because I want to make one comment on it. It is this:

Any wife whose husband asks for another chance should search her own conscience very carefully before she turns him down. She should do this in order to be very certain that, if she refuses him, it is because she honestly believes he would not be any different, and not because, as the writer of this letter gives herself away in saying, she is "so full of resentment that she can't forgive."

In the first case, she is justified in her decision; in the second, she is merely demonstrating that hers is one of those poverty-stricken souls which finds more gratification in wreaking revenge than in seeking happiness for themselves and others.

Wiley Ford Company May Get Certificate

The newly organized Wiley Ford Water Company will be granted a certificate of convenience and necessity to enable it to operate, John B. Smith, a member of the West Virginia Public Service Company, indicated Wednesday at a hearing held in Clarksburg, W. Va.

Smith was said to be impressed with the need for water service in Wiley Ford and indicated the certificate would be granted upon presentation of further data about the financial condition of the company, proposed methods of operations and rates.

Howard A. Henderson, company president, and J. H. Simmons, who represented the company at the hearing, said the necessary material will be forwarded to the commission by the end of January.

The Loyal Order of Moose, 750,000 members, has an auxiliary, The Women of the Moose, with more than 140,000 members.

Food

Here's A Menu From High Over The Waves

By CHARLOTTE ADAMS
Associated Press Food Editor

As you may have heard, extraordinarily fine food is served to passengers on the trans-Atlantic clippers. From Flight Chef Maurice LaBarre of Pan American we've had the luck to obtain some recipes for dishes served at their dinners. First we'll give you a typical menu, and then some of those same recipes, which will taste pretty fine at home, even if you can't have the thrill of eating them far above the ocean's waves!

CHEF LABARRE carves his Braised Fresh Ham Bigarade.

Clipper Menu

Hearts of Celery — Olives
Radish Roses
Crabmeat Cocktail
Consomme Royal
Filet Mignon with Madeira Sauce and Mushrooms
String Beans au Beurre
Potatoes Noisette
Hearts of Lettuce, Russian Dressing
Mocha Cake
Tea — Coffee
After-Dinner Mints

Filet Mignon with Madeira Sauce and Mushrooms

4 slices filet mignon
12 small mushrooms
1 shallot, chopped
1 glass Madeira
1 half cup Brown Sauce
3 tablespoons butter

Season the slices of filet on both sides with salt and pepper and saute on both sides in good fat for five mins., if desired, 6 to 7 mins., for medium, and 10 to 12 mins. for well done. Place in hot serving dish.

Remove the fat from the gravy and add two tablespoons of butter and the mushrooms sliced. Cook until golden brown, add the shallot and the Madeira. Add the Brown Sauce and another tablespoon of butter. When well heated, correct the seasoning and pour sauce over filet mignon.

Braised Fresh Ham Bigarade

1 18-pound fresh ham
Salt and pepper
1 glass currant jelly
3 glasses white wine
½ quart brown gravy
2 ounces curacao
5 oranges

Trim the ham and salt and pepper it. Roast 3½ to 4 hours in 400 degree oven. Cover with the following sauce:

Sauce: Dissolve currant jelly in white wine. Cook until reduced to half quantity. Add brown gravy and curacao. Shred the skins of the oranges very thin and blanch in a small quantity of water until the water disappears. Add to the sauce. Pour sauce over ham and garnish the platter with parsley, olives, flower-cut apples and orange sections.

Carbonnade of Beef

12 slices lean round beef
4 onions, sliced
½ cup tomato sauce
1 cup gravy
1 tablespoon salt
A little pepper
2 tablespoons butter
1 bottle beer
1 faggot made of 3 sprigs parsley, 2 stalks celery, 1 bay leaf
Dash of thyme

Brown the onions in butter. Season the slices of beef with salt and pepper and fry in another pan with good fat. Remove from pan and place on the onions. Pour off fat from pan in which beef was cooked and add the beer. Cook until reduced to one-third the original quantity and add the gravy and tomato sauce. Bring to a boil and put in the meat, onions and faggot. Cook slowly for 1½ to 2 hours, or until meat is well done. Remove the faggot and serve meat with boiled potatoes. The sauce may be strained, if desired.

Food

Here's A Menu From High Over The Waves

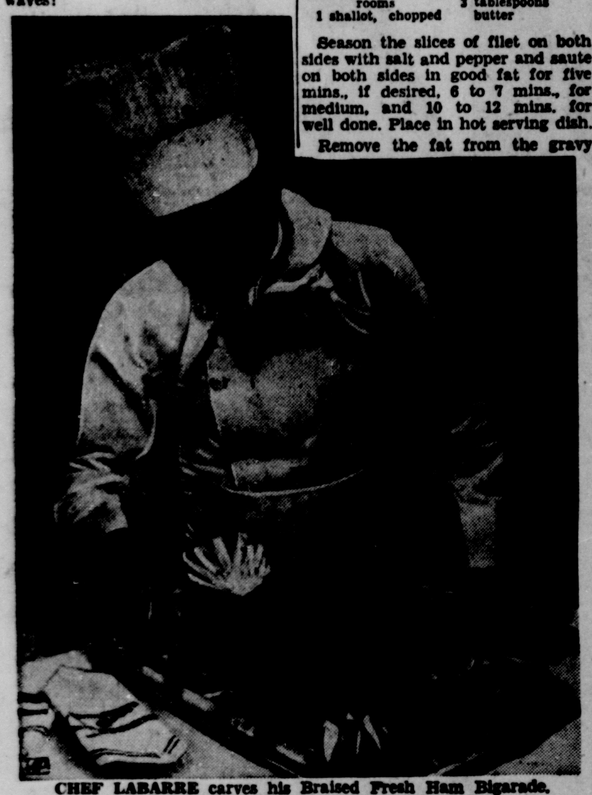
Associated Press Food Editor

As you may have heard, extraordinarily fine food is served to passengers on the trans-Atlantic clippers. From Flight Chef Maurice LaBarre of Pan American we've had the luck to obtain some recipes for dishes served at their dinners. First we'll give you a typical menu, and then some of those same recipes, which will taste pretty fine at home, even if you can't have the thrill of eating them far above the ocean's waves!



CHEF LABARRE carves his Braised Fresh Ham Bigarade.

Clipper Menu

Radish Roses
Crabmeat Cocktail
Consomme Royal
Filet Mignon with Madeira Sauce and Mushrooms
String Beans au Beurre
Hearts of Lettuce, Russian Dressing
Mocha Cake
Tea Coffee
After-Dinner Mints

Filet Mignon with Madeira Sauce and Mushrooms

4 slices filet mignon
12 small mushrooms
1 shallot, chopped
1 glass Madeira
1 half cup Brown Sauce
2 tablespoons butter

Season the slices of filet on both sides with salt and pepper and saute on both sides in good fat for five mins., if desired, 6 to 7 mins., for medium, and 10 to 12 mins. for well done. Place in hot serving dish.

Remove the fat from the gravy and add two tablespoons of butter and the mushrooms sliced. Cook until golden brown, add the shallot and the Madeira. Add the Brown Sauce and another tablespoon of butter. When well heated, correct the seasoning and pour sauce over filet mignon.

Braised Fresh Ham Bigarade

1 16-pound fresh ham
Salt and pepper
1 glass currant jelly
3 glasses white wine
½ quart brown gravy
2 ounces curacao
5 oranges

Trim the ham and salt and pepper it. Roast 3½ to 4 hours in 400 degree oven. Cover with the following sauce:

Sauce: Dissolve currant jelly in white wine. Cook until reduced to half quantity. Add brown gravy and curacao. Shred the skins of the oranges very thin and blanch in a small quantity of water until the water disappears. Add to the sauce. Pour sauce over ham and garnish the platter with parsley, olives, flower-cut apples and orange sections.

Carbonnade of Beef

12 slices lean round beef
4 onions, sliced
⅓ cup tomato sauce
1 cup gravy
1 tablespoon salt
A little pepper
2 tablespoons butter
1 bottle beer
1 faggot made of 3 sprigs parsley, 2 stalks celery, 1 bay leaf
Dash of thyme

Brown the onions in butter. Season the slices of beef with salt and pepper and fry in another pan with good fat. Remove from pan and place on the onions. Pour off fat from pan in which beef was cooked and add the beer. Cook until reduced to one-third the original quantity and add the gravy and tomato sauce. Bring to a boil and put in the meat, onions and faggot. Cook slowly for 1½ to 2 hours, or until meat is well done. Remove the faggot and serve meat with boiled potatoes. The sauce may be strained, if desired.

Reports U. S. Making New Atom Explosive

LONDON, Thursday, Jan. 16—(AP)—The Daily Express said today that United States scientists were producing a new secret atomic explosive—uranium 233—from thorium and asserted that samples of the new substance had been turned over to Russia by Dr. Alan Nunn May.

Well, Jean Arthur isn't going to star in "Voice of the Turtle." When they were all ready to meet with her, Steve Trilling of Warners, Alfred De Liagre, and John Van Druten, Jean got one of her spells of shyness and didn't show up.

The Music Corporation of America, which represents her, could do nothing with their client. It's heartbreaking that Jean is so indifferent to her career. I don't believe she'll do the George Stevens picture, with Jimmie Stewart, either.

I'm afraid, like Garbo, she'll be among the missing, and that's too bad for all those who love her on the screen.

Marlene Dietrich, who has probably heard all about her good friend Jean Gabin's marriage to Maria Mauban, French actress, on January 5th by now, has a piece of news much pleasanter for her.

Mitch Leisen plans to go to Paris to make another picture with Dietrich. He's selected "The Red Rose," the story about a countess who is not as much count as she should be. As I understand it, it's sort of a French "Forever Amber." That I must see.

Mitch has been very lucky for Marlene. He brought her back to a new career in America in "Gold Earrings."

Chatter in Hollywood: In exactly five days Lana Turner will be heading for Mexico City to see—why, Tyrone Power, of course.

Lana, who is frankness itself, told me that as soon as she finishes "Green Dolphin Street" she takes a vacation in Mexico. I never like to flatly say Lana is in love with anyone because, as sure as I do, the very next week she's out with someone else.

But she really likes Ty (who doesn't). He likes her and studio notwithstanding these two are going to see each other.

Sigrid Gurie, who made "Marco Polo" for Sam Goldwyn a long time ago and then didn't do anything much afterward, is back from Norway where she made a picture.

Sigrid, who was born in the United States but spent most of her life in her parent's native Norway, was first publicized as a Norwegian star, a silly hoax she had no heart or part in. But that's all in the past.

Before the death of Damon Runyon, he had an agreement with Alex Korda whereby he would write an oringinal story for $100,000. Damon was never well enough to fulfill his contract. The Photoplay dinner will go down in history as an example of what all award dinners should be—no long-winded speeches, just a merry, gay affair and fun. Danny Kaye, the master of ceremonies, was in marvelous form. He sang a lullaby dedicated to his new daughter. Dan was determined that no one speak, and no one did. Bing Crosby, who won an award, sang as only he can sing. And what a humorist our Bing has turned out to be, the way he answered Kaye and his quips. . . . Heirs To Fortune Sought In State

Chicago, Ill., Jan. 16.—An $8,800 "orphan fortune" estate, is searching back some 80 years in Maryland for clues to the descendants of William T. McIntosh and his wife, Hannah, nee Walters, or of their brothers and sisters who obviously never heard of the money but who may legally adopt it as the heirs.

This was revealed here today when Walter C. Cox, probate genealogist, 208 South LaSalle street, Chicago, took charge of the hunt with only scant clues on which to proceed. Mr. Cox specializes in tracing missing relatives to settle estates.

"William T. McIntosh and Hannah Walters are known to have been married 'somewhere in Maryland' where they both grew up, in about 1867," Mr. Cox said. "They are also known to have had at least three children, James, Lily and Rose, but these are now dead without having left descendants.

"Other children or their descendants would have first claim to the money if living. However, there is reason to believe there were no such other descendants, and if not, then the inheritance reverts to descendants, probably children or grandchildren, of Mr. and Mrs. McIntosh's brothers and sisters.

"William T. McIntosh is known to have died in about 1876, nine years after marrying Hannah Walters, as the result of having been stabbed in an altercation."

Heirs To Fortune Sought In State

Chicago, Ill., Jan. 16.—An $8,800 "orphan fortune" estate, is searching back some 80 years in Maryland for clues to the descendants of William T. McIntosh and his wife, Hannah, nee Walters, or of their brothers and sisters who obviously never heard of the money but who may legally adopt it as the heirs.

This was revealed here today when Walter C. Cox, probate genealogist, 208 South LaSalle street, Chicago, took charge of the hunt with only scant clues on which to proceed. Mr. Cox specializes in tracing missing relatives to settle estates.

"William T. McIntosh and Hannah Walters are known to have been married 'somewhere in Maryland' where they both grew up, in about 1867," Mr. Cox said. "They are also known to have had at least three children, James, Lily and Rose, but these are now dead without having left descendants.

"Other children or their descendants would have first claim to the money if living. However, there is reason to believe there were no such other descendants, and if not, then the inheritance reverts to descendants, probably children or grandchildren, of Mr. and Mrs. McIntosh's brothers and sisters.

"William T. McIntosh is known to have died in about 1876, nine years after marrying Hannah Walters, as the result of having been stabbed in an altercation."

Keyser Is Winner Over Fort Hill, 36-32

900 Persons See Golden Tornado Cop 9th In Row

Kenny See's Play Highlights Battle

By JOHN L. BORCHERT

The Keyser High Golden Tornado came from behind like true champions in the final period to stop the Fort Hill Sentinels 36-32 before a packed gymnasium of 900 screaming fans at Keyser high last night. The victory was the ninth in a row for Fred "Tack" Clark's undefeated Tornado and ended the eight game scholastic streak of John J. "Bobby" Cavanaugh's Scarlet and White five.

It was Kenny See who led the Keyser team to victory. He broke up the Fort Hill offense on more than one occasion and also broke the Sentinel hopes as he scored on sleeper plays and stole the ball to dribble the length of the court and tally on two different occasions. The Keyser team, controlling the rebounds throughout the game, led the major part of the last half, but had to overtake a 26-25 lead by Fort Hill in the last stanza to win.

Fred Blamer broke the ice at 6:20 with a charity toss for Keyser. Mel Dean came back to tie the score a minute later with one of two foul conversions but Keyser took a 2-1 lead as big Tom Quinn sank the second of two gift tosses. Jimmy Manges got the first basket of the game at 4:40 and Dean followed with a free throw as Fort Hill led 4-2. Blamer's basket and Manges' foul toss kept Fort Hill ahead (5-4) but Kenny See got two points on a lay-up shot and Quinn followed with a gift throw to give Keyser a 7-5 quartertime lead.

Half Time Score Is 17-17

After a minute of play Keyser took an 11-5 lead in the second period as See scored on a one-handed fielder and a sleeper play for two more points. Charlie Lattimer and Quinn traded baskets and then Dean cashed in on a set shot from the corner and Elmer Freeland stole the ball to dribble all the way down and push two more points through the rim as Fort Hill trailed by two points at 13-11. See converted twice from the foul line and Lattimer duplicated his feat as Keyser maintained a 15-13 advantage. With 1:30 to go Fort Hill came to life as Dean and Manges sandwiched foul tosses around "Buddy" Cage's basket to send Fort Hill ahead 17-15. See tied the score with thirty seconds to go as he took the leather from a Sentinel and went down the court to tally a fielder. The half ended with the two clubs deadlocked at 17-all.

Manges opened the third period with a foul toss and basket to send Fort Hill ahead 20-17 but the Hilltoppers went limp as Keyser scored eight consecutive points to take a 25-20 lead. Don Cline's two foul tosses, baskets by Blamer and Quinn, and See's sleeper goal gave the Tornado its five point margin. With 1:40 left Fort Hill struck back as Lattimer converted twice from the charity line and Dean connected with the net for a fielder to make the score 25-24, Keyser as the final period began.

Quinn Clinches Game

With 6:50 left Lattimer scored a basket on a pivot shot to send Fort Hill ahead at 26-25. Quinn drove back down the court and scored on a one-handed shot to send the Tornado ahead at 27-26 and they stayed there the rest of the game. Blamer's basket and foul toss sent the Keyser lead to 30-26 with 5:40 left. Freeland and See traded foul conversions and then Freeland scored a goal from in front of the basket and tallied a charity toss a minute later to bring the crowd to its feet with the score 31-30, Keyser, with 2:40 to go. A minute later the crowd went wild as Quinn pushed two points through the rim from under the basket to clinch the game. With a minute left Don Horner scored a basket on a sleeper play and Quinn made a charity toss before Lattimer closed the scoring with a basket to make the final score 36-32, Keyser.

Charlie Lattimer stood out for Fort Hill. The Sentinels didn't look any too good last night but Lattimer's all-around play and his ten points kept the Hilltoppers in the ball game. Kenny See led Keyser with 13-points.

Fort Hill Reserves Win

In the preliminary the Fort Hill Reserves tripped the Keyser Reserves in a 26-21 thriller. John Alderton led the FHR with ten points while Nelson had seven markers for Keyser. Fort Hill led 17-13 at the half and 26-14 at the end of the third period after trailing 10-6 in the first period. The lineups:

Terps Beat Generals At Foul Line, 65-60

West Virginia Will Release Rabbits, Quail

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Jan. 16—(AP)—Conservation Director Jack K. Shipman reported today the distribution of 6,000 cottontail rabbits throughout the state is now under way and the commission expects to purchase a like number for further restocking in 1947.

At the same time, Shipman announced the commission proposes to distribute 13,100 quail in West Virginia woodlands during the year. Of these, 6,000 will be procured at the Huttonsville Quail Farm, while 7,100 will be Arkansas birds.

The birds from Huttonsville are the first to become available from the farm, established in 1943 with an annual capacity of 10,000 quail.

Maryland Early Squirrel Season May Be Reduced

Commission Proposes 15 Instead Of 30 Days

BALTIMORE, Jan. 16 (AP) — The State Game and Inland Fish Commission decided today to present five proposals—three of which would affect duck hunting—before the 1947 General Assembly.

The commission, at its semi-annual session here, voted to ask the legislature to enact laws which would:

1—Permit the use of sneak boats by residents of Maryland in open water not less than 1,000 yards in width and not nearer than 500 yards to a licensed duck blind.

2—Establish a penalty of $25 for each person caught hunting in an unlicensed duck blind.

3—Increase the penalty for "unlawfully erecting, maintaining or operating" a trap for the taking of wild water fowl to a minimum of $100 and a maximum of $200 with provision for a 60-day jail sentence for non-payment of the fine. The present penalty is a fine of from $50 to $100.

4—Shorten the early squirrel season by 15 days, making it extend from Sept. 15 to Sept. 30, instead of from Sept. 15-Oct. 15.

5—Reduce the compulsory retirement age for enforcement officers of the game and fish commission, the department of tidewater fisheries and the state department of forests and parks from 70 to 62 years.

The commission also approved plans for a training school for field personnel. The program will be in charge of George B. Shields, chief deputy game warden, and it has been decided tentatively to conduct two courses of 10 days each in March and April.

The school probably will be conducted in the Catoctin area of Frederick County.

Clippers Offer Grid Contract To Former Allegany Countian

WESTERNPORT, Jan. 16—Clyde Jeffrey, formerly of Westernport, has been offered a contract by the San Francisco Clippers of the Pacific Coast Football League, according to word received here by friends of the family. He recently turned down an offer to manage a football team on the west coast at a salary of $250 a week.

Jeffrey, son of the Rev. George A. Jeffrey, former pastor of the Assembly of God Church here, now resides at Riverside, Cal. He stepped into the national spotlight on March 16, 1940 when he ran 100 yards in 9.4 seconds at Long Beach, Cal., to tie the world record shared by Frank Wyckoff and Jesse Owens.

Jeffrey played football under Clark Shaughnessy at Stanford when the Indians defeated Nebraska in the Rose Bowl game of 1941 by the score of 21-13 before 91,500 persons. He later played with the powerful Fort Pierce Navy team. Teammates of the Riverside athlete on the service grid team included Bill Daley, former All-American at Minnesota and Marshall Goldberg, another All-American from the University of Pittsburgh.

Marshall Accepts Orange Bowl Game

To Play Seton Hall Or Vols At Miami

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Jan. 16 (AP)—Marshall College's undefeated basketball team has accepted an invitation to play in one half of a double-header program at the Orange Bowl in Miami, Fla., Feb. 12, and will meet either the University of Tennessee or Seton Hall, acting graduate manager Twenty Lantz announced tonight.

Lantz said the Big Green had received approval from the faculty athletic committee to make the trip and a tentative schedule calls for the team to leave by plane from Cincinnati, O., Feb. 11

The graduate manager plans to confer with F. D. Feinberg, promoter of the Orange Bowl cage contests, tomorrow concerning details of the game.

Undefeated in 12 contests this season, the Big Green quintet will play 10 more games before the Orange Bowl date.

Either of their two prospective opponents would mean a bang-up game. Seton Hall is leading the nation with 14 victories and no defeats while Tennessee has won seven and lost only to Long Island University.

Cincinnati Signs John Vander Meer

CINCINNATI, Jan. 16 — (AP) — Pitcher Johnny Vander Meer today became the first Cincinnati Reds player to sign a contract for the 1947 season.

After receiving a report that the ankle condition was not believed serious. Vander Meer signed his contract after a conference with Warren Giles, president of the club. Terms were not disclosed.

Vander Meer, who made baseball history with two consecutive no-hit no-run games in 1938, won 10 and lost 12 for the Reds last season.

Lloyd Mangrum's Record Tying 64 Leads Open Field

152 Vie In Tourney For $10,000 Prizes

RICHMOND, Calif., Jan. 16. (AP)—U. S. Open Champion Lloyd Mangrum, the man with the mustache and stylish swing, racked up a course-record tying 64 today to move into the lead in the first round of the 72-hole, $10,000 Richmond Open Golf Tournament.

Only two-thirds of the field of 152 starters had checked in when the slim ball-belter posted his 34-30 to tie the competitive mark set up here two years ago by Harold "Jug" McSpaden of Sanford, Maine.

Mangrum bagged eight birdies, five on the back nine, by poking down putts ranging from four to 18 feet. His only slip was on the sixth where he three-putted from the front of the green.

Par out:	434	545 344—36
Mangrum out:	424	536 334—34
Par in:	443	444 345—35—71

Mangrum, who also holds the Argentine Open title won last October snatched first place away from Bill Fritz, Colma, California, assistant pro, by his spectacular round. Fritz previously had gone to the front with a 32-33—65.

Defending champion Toney Penna of Cincinnati, carded a 33-33—66 for his opening effort, a feat duplicated by George Schoux, young pro from San Bruno, California.

Ed Oiver, Wilmington, Del. 34-33—67
Lew Worsham, Wash., D. C. 35-33—68

OWEN FILES BREACH OF CONTRACT SUIT AGAINST PASQUEL

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Jan. 14 (AP) — Arnold (Mickey) Owen, who managed the Veracruz team of the Mexican Baseball League for a part of last season, has filed a counter suit for breach of contract against Jorge Pasquel in U. S. District Court here.

Owen's suit asked $93,908.56 of the Mexican millionaire sportsman who earlier had filed a breach of contract suit against the former Brooklyn Dodger catcher. Owen "jumped" the Mexican League last August.

E. C. Curtis, attorney for Owen, demanded trial by jury. District court officials said it was unlikely either suit would be heard before the April term.

Owen's counter claim charges that Pasquel breached his contract by removing him as manager of the Veracruz team about July 5 and failed to fulfill other promises.

Keyser Is Winner Over Fort Hill, 36-32

900 Persons See Golden Tornado Cop 9th In Row

By JOHN L. BORCHERT

The Keyser High Golden Tornado came from behind like true champions in the final period to stop the Fort Hill Sentinels 36-32 before a packed gymnasium of 900 screaming fans at Keyser high last night. The victory was the ninth in a row for Fred "Tack" Clark's undefeated Tornado and ended the eight game scholastic streak of John J. "Bobby" Cavanaugh's Scarlet and White five.

It was Kenny See who led the Keyser team to victory. He broke up the Fort Hill offense on more than one occasion and also broke the Sentinel hopes as he scored on sleeper plays and stole the ball to dribble the length of the court and tally on two different occasions. The Keyser team, controlling the rebounds throughout the game, led the major part of the last half, but had to overtake a 26-25 lead by Fort Hill in the last stanza to win.

Fred Blamer broke the ice at 6:20 with a charity toss for Keyser. Mel Dean came back to tie the score a minute later with one of two foul conversions but Keyser took a 2-1 lead as big Tom Quinn sank the second of two gift tosses. Jimmy Manges got the first basket of the game at 4:40 and Dean followed with a free throw as Fort Hill led 4-2. Blamer's basket and Manges' foul toss kept Fort Hill ahead (5-4) but Kenny See got two points on a lay-up shot and Quinn followed with a gift throw to give Keyser a 7-5 quartertime lead.

Half Time Score Is 17-17

After a minute of play Keyser took an 11-5 lead in the second period as See scored on a one-handed fielder and a sleeper play for two more points. Charlie Lattimer and Quinn traded baskets and then Dean cashed in on a set shot from the corner and Elmer Freeland stole the ball to dribble all the way down and push two more points through the rim as Fort Hill trailed by two points at 13-11. See converted twice from the foul line and Lattimer duplicated his feat as Keyser maintained a 15-13 advantage. With 1:30 to go Fort Hill came to life as Dean and Manges sandwiched foul tosses around "Buddy" Cage's basket to send Fort Hill ahead 17-15. See tied the score with thirty seconds to go as he took the leather from a Sentinel and went down the court to tally a fielder. The half ended with the two clubs deadlocked at 17-all.

Manges opened the third period with a foul toss and basket to send Fort Hill ahead 20-17 but the Hilltoppers went limp as Keyser scored eight consecutive points to take a 25-20 lead. Don Cline's two foul tosses, baskets by Blamer and Quinn, and See's sleeper goal gave the Tornado its five point margin. With 1:40 left Fort Hill struck back as Lattimer converted twice from the charity line and Dean connected with the net for a fielder to make the score 25-24, Keyser as the final period began.

Quinn Clinches Game

With 6:50 left Lattimer scored a basket on a pivot shot to send Fort Hill ahead at 26-25. Quinn drove back down the court and scored on a one-handed shot to send the Tornado ahead at 27-26 and they stayed there the rest of the game. Blamer's basket and foul toss sent the Keyser lead to 30-26 with 5:40 left. Freeland and See traded foul conversions and then Freeland scored a goal from in front of the basket and tallied a charity toss a minute later to bring the crowd to its feet with the score 31-30, Keyser, with 2:40 to go. A minute later the crowd went wild as Quinn pushed two points through the rim from under the basket to clinch the game. With a minute left Don Horner scored a basket on a sleeper play and Quinn made a charity toss before Lattimer closed the scoring with a basket to make the final score 36-32, Keyser.

Charlie Lattimer stood out for Fort Hill. The Sentinels didn't look any too good last night but Lattimer's all-around play and his ten points kept the Hilltoppers in the ball game. Kenny See led Keyser with 13-points.

Fort Hill Reserves Win

In the preliminary the Fort Hill Reserves tripped the Keyser Reserves in a 26-21 thriller. John Alderton led the FHR with ten points while Nelson had seven markers for Keyser. Fort Hill led 17-13 at the half and 26-14 at the end of the third period after trailing 10-6 in the first period. The lineups:

West Virginia Will Release Rabbits, Quail

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Jan. 16—(AP)—Conservation Director Jack K. Shipman reported today the distribution of 6,000 cottontail rabbits throughout the state is now under way and the commission expects to purchase a like number for further restocking in 1947.

At the same time, Shipman announced the commission proposes to distribute 13,100 quail in West Virginia woodlands during the year. Of these, 6,000 will be procured at the Huttonsville Quail Farm, while 7,100 will be Arkansas birds.

The birds from Huttonsville are the first to become available from the farm, established in 1943 with an annual capacity of 10,000 quail.

Maryland Early Squirrel Season May Be Reduced

Commission Proposes 15 Instead Of 30 Days

BALTIMORE, Jan. 16 (AP) — The State Game and Inland Fish Commission decided today to present five proposals—three of which would affect duck hunting—before the 1947 General Assembly.

The commission, at its semi-annual session here, voted to ask the legislature to enact laws which would:

1—Permit the use of sneak boats by residents of Maryland in open water not less than 1,000 yards in width and not nearer than 500 yards to a licensed duck blind.

2—Establish a penalty of $25 for each person caught hunting in an unlicensed duck blind.

3—Increase the penalty for "unlawfully erecting, maintaining or operating" a trap for the taking of wild water fowl to a minimum of $100 and a maximum of $200 with provision for a 60-day jail sentence for non-payment of the fine. The present penalty is a fine of from $50 to $100.

4—Shorten the early squirrel season by 15 days, making it extend from Sept. 15 to Sept. 30, instead of from Sept. 15-Oct. 15.

5—Reduce the compulsory retirement age for enforcement officers of the game and fish commission, the department of tidewater fisheries and the state department of forests and parks from 70 to 62 years.

The commission also approved plans for a training school for field personnel. The program will be in charge of George B. Shields, chief deputy game warden, and it has been decided tentatively to conduct two courses of 10 days each in March and April.

The school probably will be conducted in the Catoctin area of Frederick County.

Clippers Offer Grid Contract To Former Allegany Countian

WESTERNPORT, Jan. 16—Clyde Jeffrey, formerly of Westernport, has been offered a contract by the San Francisco Clippers of the Pacific Coast Football League, according to word received here by friends of the family. He recently turned down an offer to manage a football team on the west coast at a salary of $250 a week.

Jeffrey, son of the Rev. George A. Jeffrey, former pastor of the Assembly of God Church here, now resides at Riverside, Cal. He stepped into the national spotlight on March 16, 1940 when he ran 100 yards in 9.4 seconds at Long Beach, Cal., to tie the world record shared by Frank Wyckoff and Jesse Owens.

Jeffrey played football under Clark Shaughnessy at Stanford when the Indians defeated Nebraska in the Rose Bowl game of 1941 by the score of 21-13 before 91,500 persons. He later played with the powerful Fort Pierce Navy team. Teammates of the Riverside athlete on the service grid team included Bill Daley, former All-American at Minnesota and Marshall Goldberg, another All-American from the University of Pittsburgh.

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Jan. 16 (AP)—Marshall College's undefeated basketball team has accepted an invitation to play in one half of a double-header program at the Orange Bowl in Miami, Fla., Feb. 12, and will meet either the University of Tennessee or Seton Hall, acting graduate manager Twenty Lantz announced tonight.

Lantz said the Big Green had received approval from the faculty athletic committee to make the trip and a tentative schedule calls for the team to leave by plane from Cincinnati, O., Feb. 11

The graduate manager plans to confer with F. D. Feinberg, promoter of the Orange Bowl cage contests, tomorrow concerning details of the game.

Undefeated in 12 contests this season, the Big Green quintet will play 10 more games before the Orange Bowl date.

Either of their two prospective oppenents would mean a bang-up game. Seton Hall is leading the nation with 14 victories and no defeats while Tennessee has won seven and lost only to Long Island University.

Collecting thirty field goals and converting 12 of 17 free throws, the basketball team of James P. Love Post, American Legion, of Lonaconing, won the first half championship of the Interstate League last night by runninug roughshod over the Cumberland Knights of Columbus in the opening game of a league doubleheader on SS. Peter and Paul court. The score was 72 to 32.

The victory gave the Lonaconing team a record of 13 wins and one loss on the final day of the first half race. Counting all games played this season, Coach Johnny Thomas' club has won 15 out of 16. Last season the Coney legionnaires won 18 out of 20 and their two-year mark now stands at 33 triumphs and three setbacks.

Bob Johnson paced the champions by registering nine field goals and a total of 19 points. Dundas Orr contributed 14 and Gus Frizsell racked up 11. Ted and John Rowan accounted for 19 of the 32 points made by the Caseys.

Lonaconing led at the close of each period 25-9, 43-18 and 61-22.

At Paw Paw, the Cumberland Amvets crushed the Paw Paw American Legion, 74 to 41.

Paul Oberhaus scored 22 points for the winners, including 10 field goals. Larkin marked up 19 for the losers.

The second half race will get under way next Monday. In a twin bill on SS. Peter and Paul court, the Amvets and Moose will clash at 7 o'clock and Fulton Myers will meet the K. of C. at 8 o'clock. On the same evening, Paw Paw will play at Mt. Savage and Lonaconing Legion will play host to the Cumberland Legion. Lineups:

Pirates-Amvets Meet 4th Time

Moose Quints To Play Prelim Sunday Night

Loyal Order of Moose teams from Romney and Cumberland will meet in the preliminary to the Pittsburgh Pirates-Cumberland Amvets professional basketball game on Sunday night on SS. Peter and Paul court.

The fourth meeting of the Pirates and Amvets this season is set for 9 o'clock. The prelim will get under way at 8 o'clock.

Pittsburgh holds two decisions over the Amvets, winning in the Smoky City to the tune of 53-41 and repeating here in a 56-55 thriller. The third game of the series is set for Saturday night in Pittsburgh.

In their last battle here on December 8, the Buccaneers won in the closing seconds of play on Freddie Crum's foul goal after the lead had changed hands 16 times and the score was deadlocked on five occasions.

The Pirates' lineup will include Matt Vaniel, Joe Urso, Ed Janicki, Freddie Crum and Johnny Stephens, all of whom played here six weeks ago.

Cincinnati Signs John Vander Meer

The big southpaw, who has been a first-line Redleg hurler for 10 seasons, came here for an examination of his sore ankle by Dr. Reed Shank, club physician. After receiving a report that the ankle condition was not believed serious, Vander Meer signed his contract after a conference with Warren Giles, president of the club. Terms were not disclosed.

Vander Meer, who made baseball history with two consecutive no-hit no-run games in 1938, won 10 and lost 12 for the Reds last season.

Joe Tinker Improved

Lloyd Mangrum's Record Tying 64 Leads Open Field

152 Vie In Tourney For $10,000 Prizes

RICHMOND, Calif., Jan. 16. (AP)—U. S. Open Champion Lloyd Mangrum, the man with the mustache and stylish swing, racked up a course-record tying 64 today to move into the lead in the first round of the 72-hole, $10,000 Richmond Open Golf Tournament.

Only two-thirds of the field of 152 starters had checked in when the slim ball-belter posted his 34-30 to tie the competitive mark set up here two years ago by Harold "Jug" McSpaden of Sanford, Maine.

Mangrum bagged eight birdies, five on the back nine, by peking down putts ranging from four to 18 feet. His only slip was on the sixth where he three-putted from the front of the green.

Par out:	434	545	344—36
Mangrum out:	434	536	334—34
Par in:	443	444	345—35—71
Mangrum in:	343	434	334—30—64

Mangrum, who also holds the Argentine Open title won last October snatched first place away from Bill Fritz, Colma, California, assistant pro, by his spectacular round. Frits previously had gone to the front with a 32-33—65.

Defending champion Toney Penna of Cincinnati, carded a 33-33—66 for his opening effort, a feat duplicated by George Schoux, young pro from San Bruno, California.

Ed Oliver, Wilmington, Del. 34-33—67
Lew Worsham, Wash., D. C. 35-33—68

OWEN FILES BREACH OF CONTRACT SUIT AGAINST PASQUEL

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Jan. 16 (AP) — Arnold (Mickey) Owen, who managed the Veracrus team of the Mexican Baseball League for a part of last season, has filed a counter suit for breach of contract against Jorge Pasquel in U. S. District Court here.

Owen's suit asked $93,908.56 of the Mexican millionaire sportsman who earlier had filed a breach of contract suit against the former Brooklyn Dodger catcher. Owen "jumped" the Mexican League last August.

E. C. Curtis, attorney for Owen, demanded trial by jury. District court officials said it was unlikely either suit would be heard before the April term.

Tripp Spurns Yankees' $100,000 Offer

Chicago Cards To Sign Georgia's Star Halfback

May Play Baseball With Chicago Cubs

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK, Jan. 16 (AP)—Charley Trippi slipped past the clutching arms of the over-confident football Yankees today, stiff-armed their baseball secondary and wound up with the Chicago Cardinals for what is known in the gridiron parlance as "pay dirt"—great, big gobs of it.

The All-America halfback from Georgia University, the year's most sought-after athlete, was heading for Chicago when last seen, where he will sign a contract for just under $100,000 to play with the Cardinals of the National Professional League for the next four seasons.

To Sign In Chicago

He and Charley Bidwell, wealthy owner of the Cardinals, who saw everything the Yankees had to offer and then tossed a few more blue chips on the pile, were leaving on the Twentieth Century Limited early tonight for Chicago. Bidwell said the contract—highest ever offered in professional football—would be signed there either tomorrow or Saturday.

The document will leave Trippi free to deal for his baseball services, and Bidwell, who is very close to the dark, young man, said he would recommend to Charley that he accept an offer to hook up with the Chicago Cubs' organization, passing up other urgent and lucrative bids from the Boston Red Sox, Boston Braves, Atlanta and Birmingham of the Southern Association, and perhaps other clubs.

The Cubs, Bidwell disclosed, would give Trippi a $10,000 bonus to play with their Los Angeles team of the Pacific Coast League next season, and then, if he proved himself a big leaguer and went up to the Cubs the following year, would dig down for another $20,000. They thus would match the $30,000 cash bonus dangled before the Georgia Flash by the Red Sox.

The ornate, skyscraper office of the Yankees on Fifth Avenue was steeped on gloom. Trippi's decision to go along with Bidwill, his close friend of several years, came as a stunning surprise, especially to the football side of the powerful two-sport combine.

In a lengthy conference yesterday the Yankees offered the Pittston, Pa., product a total in salary and bonuses of $105,000 to play five years of football and two years of baseball, with the stipulation that after two years he would have to choose between the sports, dropping one or the other.

Charley Reverses Field

So confident were the Yankees of closing the deal early today that they called a press conference for noon and invited the photographers. But long before that hour arrived Charley had reversed his field and advised the Associated Press he would sign with Bidwill for "the biggest salary in the history of pro football — even more than Red Grange got."

Among other things, Bidwill's victory was an important one for the National Professional League over its deadly new rival, the All-America Football Conference. The Yankees, members of the new organization, had counted strongly upon their baseball tie-up to lure Trippi into the fold. They figured he would prove a tremendous gate attraction in a football suit next fall.

Bidwill indicated he already was in full agreement with the Chicago baseball Cubs as to how they could split up Trippi's services in the event Charley signed with the Wrigley clan.

"I told them we would want him to report for football early the first year, in mid-August, but that after that they could count on his finishing out of the baseball season," he said. "Actually, I don't know how good a baseball player he is, and neither does Charley. I think, though, that his heart is in football."

Barons Make Offer

Trippi, earlier in the day, he said he was "seriously considering" playing baseball with the Birmingham Barons, who had offered him a $10,000 bonus, $400 a month salary and 50 per cent of his sale price to the big league. Bidwill said he told Trippi he didn't consider that much of an offer.

TRIPPI HONORED—Charley Trippi, football's "man of the year," is shown as he was given the Maxwell Memorial Award in Philadelphia by Bert Bell, commissioner of the National Professional League. Trippi will sign a contract today or tomorrow for about $100,000 with the Chicago Cardinals of the National League.

Joe Fulks May Hang Up New Cage Scoring Mark

Philly Player Makes 239 Goals, 673 Points

By HERB ALTSCHULL

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 16 (AP) —Joe Fulks, the long, lean lad from Kentucky who makes basket tossing look as easy as eating strawberry shortcake, today ranks as probably the greatest field goal scorer in cage history.

Records of professional basketball are skimpy and not too well preserved but research disclosed that Willie Kummer of the Connellsville (Pa) Club in the old Central League scored 1,404 point in 62 games in 1911-12, giving him claim to the world's scoring record.

But at that time one player did all the shooting from the foul line and Kummer had more than 900 free throws. His basket total was 233.

Fulks, scoring ace of the Philadelphia Warriors entry in the Basketball Association of America, rimmed 41 points against Toronto last Tuesday to set a loop record. This brought his field goal total to 239 in 28 games, six higher than Kummer's total.

Fulks, with a 200-point edge in league scoring, rolled to 673 points with 32 games yet to play. If he continues running up 30, 35 and 40 points per game as usual, he would be able to wipe out Kummer's mark.

The 24-year-old Kuttawa, Ky., lad, who played at Murray State Teachers before joining the Warriors, ironically enough may be the reason why the Philadelphians are no higher than third in the association's eastern division.

"The way I see it," one veteran observer remarked, "the Warriors are always feeding Fulks, even at the expense of missing layups of their own. They just think Joe is terrific and that he can't miss anything."

He doesn't take too many shots but he makes most of them. With his soft-handed shots, virtually everything he tosses hits the rim and one of three drops through the hoop.

A dispatch came out of Detroit last week that, the Detroit club beat the Warriors by bottling up Fulks. A look at the box showed Fulks scored only—20 points.

SCHOOLBOY ROWE FAILS TO SIGN CONTRACT

The veteran righthander, who won 11 games last year and had an earned run average of 2.12 said he was not a holdout but that salary negotiations had reached an impasse.

Change Golf Dates

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 16 (AP) — Fred Corcoran, tournament bureau manager of the Professional Golfers Association, announced today new dates on Feb. 20 to 23 inclusive had been assigned to the $10,000 New Orleans Open event. The tournament originally was scheduled for Feb. 13-16 but was postponed by the request of tournament officials in the southern cities.

Owners, Trainers Will Take Horses To Post

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 16 (AP) —Nearly 250 horse race owners and trainers voted today to take their own horses to the post if a strike of grooms and exercise boys materializes at the opening of Hialeah Park tomorrow.

The dispute developed over Hialeah's decision to discontinue bonus awards of $20 each to the groom and exercise boy of a winner, and $10 each of these workers whose horses place or show.

Allen To Take Rest

LAWRENCE, Kas., Jan. 16 (AP) — Dr. F. G. (Phog) Allen, basketball coach at the University of Kansas, has been granted an indefinite vacation, probably for the rest of this season, to regain his health, Athletic Director E. C. Quigley said today.

Allen was released from the University of Kansas hospitals in Kansas City, Kas., last Tuesday after undergoing a physical checkup. At that time, his physician said he was suffering from a run-down condition resulting from overwork and that he had advised Allen to take a vacation.

Big Bill Tilden Sentenced To Jail For Nine Months

Net Star Pleads Guilty To Delinquency Charge

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 17 (AP)—William T. (Big Bill) Tilden, former world tennis champion, was sentenced today to nine months in the county jail after pleading guilty of contributing to the delinquency of a 14-year-old junior high school boy.

Ordering Tilden to see a psychiatrist after his release, Superior Judge A. A. Scott denied Tilden's plea for immediate probation and stay of execution.

"It comes as a great shock to all, particularly sport fans, that you should admit to such practices," Judge Scott said.

After serving his time, the court ruled, Tilden will be on probation for five years and "must never be in the company of either male or female juveniles unaccompanied by their parents."

"You have been an idol to thousands of youngsters and admired by millions of adults throughout the world because of your prowess as a tennis player," Judge Scott said.

"Your admitted practice is a thing we do not expect from great athletes. Also let this be an object lesson to parents so they might more closely supervise their growing children."

Trippi Spurns Yankees' $100,000 Offer

Chicago Cards To Sign Georgia's Star Halfback

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK, Jan. 16 (AP)—Charley Trippi slipped past the clutching arms of the over-confident football Yankees today, stiff-armed their baseball secondary and wound up with the Chicago Cardinals for what is known in the gridiron parlance as "pay dirt"—great, big gobs of it.

The All-America halfback from Georgia University, the year's most sought-after athlete, was heading for Chicago when last seen, where he will sign a contract for just under $100,000 to play with the Cardinals of the National Professional League for the next four seasons.

To Sign In Chicago

He and Charley Bidwell, wealthy owner of the Cardinals, who saw everything the Yankees had to offer and then tossed a few more blue chips on the pile, were leaving on the Twentieth Century Limited early tonight for Chicago. Bidwell said the contract—highest ever offered in professional football—would be signed there either tomorrow or Saturday.

The document will leave Trippi free to deal for his baseball services, and Bidwell, who is very close to the dark, young man, said he would recommend to Charley that he accept an offer to hook up with the Chicago Cubs' organization, passing up other urgent and lucrative bids from the Boston Red Sox, Boston Braves, Atlanta and Birmingham of the Southern Association, and perhaps other clubs.

The Cubs, Bidwell disclosed, would give Trippi a $10,000 bonus to play with their Los Angeles team of the Pacific Coast League next season, and then, if he proved himself a big leaguer and went up to the Cubs the following year, would dig down for another $20,000. They thus would match the $30,000 cash bonus dangled before the Georgia Flash by the Red Sox.

The ornate, skyscraper office of the Yankees on Fifth Avenue was steeped on gloom. Trippi's decision to go along with Bidwell, his close friend of several years, came as a stunning surprise, especially to the football side of the powerful two-sport combine.

In a lengthy conference yesterday the Yankees offered the Pittston, Pa., product a total in salary and bonuses of $105,000 to play five years of football and two years of baseball, with the stipulation that after two years he would have to choose between the sports, dropping one or the other.

Charley Reverses Field

So confident were the Yankees of closing the deal early today that they called a press conference for noon and invited the photographers. But long before that hour arrived Charley had reversed his field and advised the Associated Press he would sign with Bidwill for "the biggest salary in the history of pro football — even more than Red Grange got."

Among other things, Bidwill's victory was an important one for the National Professional League over its deadly new rival, the All-America Football Conference. The Yankees, members of the new organization, had counted strongly upon their baseball tie-up to lure Trippi into the fold. They figured he would prove a tremendous gate attraction in a football suit next fall.

Bidwill indicated he already was in full agreement with the Chicago baseball Cubs as to how they could split up Trippi's services in the event Charley signed with the Wrigley clan.

"I told them we would want him to report for football early the first year, in mid-August, but that after that they could count on his finishing out of the baseball season," he said. "Actually, I don't know how good a baseball player he is, and neither does Charley. I think, though, that his heart is in football."

Barons Make Offer

Trippi, earlier in the day, he said he was "seriously considering" playing baseball with the Birmingham Barons, who had offered him a $10,000 bonus, $400 a month salary and 50 per cent of his sale price to the big league. Bidwill said he told Trippi he didn't consider that much of an offer.

TRIPPI HONORED—Charley Trippi, football's "man of the year," is shown as he was given the Maxwell Memorial Award in Philadelphia by Bert Bell, commissioner of the National Professional League. Trippi will sign a contract today or tomorrow for about $100,000 with the Chicago Cardinals of the National League.

Joe Fulks May Hang Up New Cage Scoring Mark

Philly Player Makes 239 Goals, 673 Points

By HERB ALTSCHULL

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 16 (AP)—Joe Fulks, the long, lean lad from Kentucky who makes basket tossing look as easy as eating strawberry shortcake, today ranks as probably the greatest field goal scorer in cage history.

Records of professional basketball are skimpy and not too well preserved but research disclosed that Willie Kummer of the Connellsville (Pa) Club in the old Central League scored 1,404 point in 62 games in 1911-12, giving him claim to the world's scoring record.

But at that time one player did all the shooting from the foul line and Kummer had more than 900 free throws. His basket total was 233.

Fulks, scoring ace of the Philadelphia Warriors entry in the Basketball Association of America, rimmed 41 points against Toronto last Tuesday to set a loop record. This brought his field goal total to 239 in 28 games, six higher than Kummer's total.

Fulks, with a 200-point edge in league scoring, rolled to 673 points with 32 games yet to play. If he continues running up 30, 35 and 40 points per game as usual, he would be able to wipe out Kummer's mark.

The 24-year-old Kuttawa, Ky., lad, who played at Murray State Teachers before joining the Warriors, ironically enough may be the reason why the Philadelphians are no higher than third in the association's eastern division.

"The way I see it," one veteran observer remarked, "the Warriors are always feeding Fulks, even at the expense of missing layups of their own. They just think Joe is terrific and that he can't miss anything."

But it isn't that Fulks is point-happy. The lean, six-foot-fiver is an expert at handling the ball and particularly in controlling rebounds.

He doesn't take too many shots but he makes most of them. With his soft-handed shots, virtually everything he tosses hits the rim and one of three drops through the hoop.

A dispatch came out of Detroit last week that, the Detroit club beat the Warriors by bottling up Fulks. A look at the box showed Fulks scored only—20 points.

SCHOOLBOY ROWE FAILS TO SIGN CONTRACT

The veteran righthander, who won 11 games last year and had an earned run average of 2.12 said he was not a holdout but that salary negotiations had reached an impasse.

Change Golf Dates

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 16 (AP)—Fred Corcoran, tournament bureau manager of the Professional Golfers Association, announced today new dates on Feb. 20 to 23 inclusive had been assigned to the $10,000 New Orleans Open event. The tournament originally was scheduled for Feb. 13-16 but was postponed by the request of tournament officials in the southern cities.

Owners, Trainers Will Take Horses To Post

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 16 (AP)—Nearly 250 horse race owners and trainers voted today to take their own horses to the post if a strike of grooms and exercise boys materializes at the opening of Hialeah Park tomorrow.

Jockeys, too, will assume additional duties—they voted to exercise the horses if the strike takes place.

Frostburg Teachers Lose To Rider, 61-46

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 16—Rider College's basketball team defeated Frostburg State Teachers College, of Frostburg, Md., here last night by the score of 61 to 46.

Rider piled up a 16-7 lead at the quarter and was on top all the way. The halftime score was 35-19.

Cottrill, of Rider, was high scorer with 15 points. Korngut, of Rider, and Lynch, Cueva and Menges, of Frostburg, registered 13 points each. Lineups:

Allen To Take Rest

LAWRENCE, Kas., Jan. 16 (AP)—Dr. F. C. (Phog) Allen, basketball coach at the University of Kansas, has been granted an indefinite vacation, probably for the rest of this season, to regain his health, Athletic Director E. C. Quigley said today.

Allen was released from the University of Kansas hospitals in Kansas City, Kas., last Tuesday after undergoing a physical checkup. At that time, his physician said he was suffering from a run-down condition resulting from overwork and that he had advised Allen to take a vacation.

PLEADS GUILTY—William T. (Big Bill) Tilden, former world tennis champion, pleaded guilty of contributing to the delinquency of a 14-year-old junior high school boy yesterday at Los Angeles and was sentenced to nine months in the county jail by Superior Judge A. A. Scott.

Big Bill Tilden Sentenced To Jail For Nine Months

Net Star Pleads Guilty To Delinquency Charge

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 17 (AP)—William T. (Big Bill) Tilden, former world tennis champion, was sentenced today to nine months in the county jail after pleading guilty of contributing to the delinquency of a 14-year-old junior high school boy.

Ordering Tilden to see a psychiatrist after his release, Superior Judge A. A. Scott denied Tilden's plea for immediate probation and stay of execution.

"It comes as a great shock to all, particularly sport fans, that you should admit to such practices," Judge Scott said.

After serving his time, the court ruled, Tilden will be on probation for five years and "must never be in the company of either male or female juveniles unaccompanied by their parents."

The tennis pro was arrested last November in his automobile in company with the youngster.

"You have been an idol to thousands of youngsters and admired by millions of adults throughout the world because of your prowess as a tennis player," Judge Scott said.

"Your admitted practice is a thing we do not expect from great athletes. Also let this be an object lesson to parents so they might more closely supervise their growing children."

Tilden's only comment was, "I'm very sorry. I deeply regret the incident."

Kate Smith Will Pinch-Hit Tonight On IgnoranceShow

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, Jan. 16—Aunt Jenny, daytime sketch series of CBS at 12:15, is celebrating on Friday. Then the program becomes ten years old, and in connection with the occasion, Singing Jessica Dragonette, also a veteran in broadcasting, is to drop around as the guest.

In its 3,000 scripts, the program deals with life in a typical American town of 6,500 persons.

With Lulu McConnell off the program for the next two weeks while in the hospital for an operation to her eyes, Kate Smith is filling in for her in It Pays to Be Ignorant, as run by Tom Howard on CBS at 10. This is a sort of return favor to It Pays for the various times the program staff has been guests of Kate's show. As a matter of fact it was Kate who introduced this feature on CBS.

James A. Farley, former postmaster general and former chairman of Democratic national committee, will be the answering guest of Meet the Press on MBS at 10:30.

Clare Boothe Luce and others are joining in a 1 p. m. discussion on NBC of "Women Today in World Affairs." . . . Another NBC talker is Sam Morris of Houston, Tex., at 10:45 p. m., his theme to be "Repeal Has Failed—Prohibition is Coming Back."

Ruggiero Ricco is bringing his violin to the Paul LaValle Melody of NBC at 8 so that he can provide some guest music. . . Sam Salop young AAF veteran who has lost both arms, is to display his qualificiations as a singer for the Meredith Willson time of CBS at 7:30.

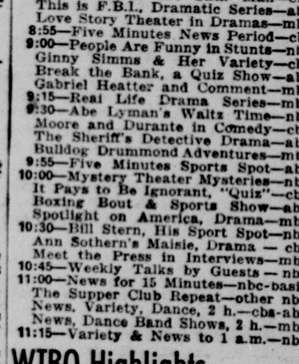
SALLY'S SALLIES



"Please, Arthur, if you can't say something nice about a person, don't say it!"

RADIO IN REVIEW

By JOHN CROSBY

The King's English

After too many sessions with the stainless steel, highly abbreviated dialogue in the hard-boiled school of detective drama, you'll find it a healthful change of diet to turn to "The New Adventures of Sherlock Holmes" (ABC 8:30 p. m. Mondays), where, in spite of that word "new," the conversation is as leisurely as it was forty years ago. The estimable Holmes and the good Watson still address each other in sonorous prose decorated with precise and crusty verbs, each as carefully turned as the gingerbread on a Victorian chair.

John Crosby

The other night Sherlock and Watson got mixed up, more or less against their will, in a little mystery called "The Devil's Foot" or, to put it in Watson's terms, they were "precipitated into the middle of gruesome and nerve - wracking events," a phrase that would never occur to Dashiell Hammett.

Mr. Holmes had a visitor, man by the name of Tregenis, who had just had a grievious experience. He had discovered his sister dead and his two brothers stark mad in the "libr'y." "They were beside the fire, the candles quite guttered out," said Mr. Tregenis, who, despite his agitation, never omitted a comma in his recital of the unfortunate affair. "It's uncanny, that's what it is! Something came into that room and killed my deah sistah and dawshed the light of reason from the minds of my two brothahs. It's devilish, that's what it is." Strong words, particularly that last adjective, but, of course, it was an unsettling experience.

To the average American, steeped in the dialogue of Dick Tracy, this manner of discussing a rather serious breach of the law may seem redundant and even a little heartless. Just the same it adds a touch of surprise to even the most routine detective story talk. For instance at one point, Holmes asked a question which has resounded through virtually every mystery ever written. "What time was it?" he inquired.

"The clock on the steeple was just chiming twelve," said Tregenis, a man of the old school who has probably not yet recognized the word "midnight."

Anyhow, Holmes informed Tregenis that he'd let him know if any ideas occurred to him, only he didn't say it like that. "Should anything occur to me, Mr. Tregenis, I shall communicate with you." Holmes, I decided after this remark, would make an excellent writer of memoranda to the troops, an opinion that was confirmed a few moments later when he boasted: "I have every hope of bringing this affair to a satisfactory termination."

Another great difference between Holmes and the deadpan school of American mystery is that it is not considered bad form to betray excitement, providing, of course, it's put in suitable English. Even Holmes, normally an exceptionally cool customer, will ejaculate in moments of deep stress something like: "Great Scott!" Watson, a less stable personality, goes much further. "Ghahstly! Ghahstly!" he exclaimed at one point and later he emitted what sounded in phonetic English like "Haddible!"

Frankly, I like this grave, rounded talk. It gives homicide a degree of dignity notably lacking in the American production. Tom Conway of the movies has taken over the Holmes role from Basil Rathbone. He's had a lot of prior experience solving things as the Saint and the Falcon in the movies. Conway isn't as urbane as Rathbone but then virtually no one else is. Nigel Bruce has been playing Watson for years and still is.

Speaking of mystery stuff, there's a transcribed program called "Murder At Midnight" heard in New York on WJZ, Monday nights and widely distributed in other cities. Two things troubled me the other night about "Murder At Midnight." First, it came on at 10:30 p. m., not at midnight; second, there wasn't a murder in the thing. Apart from that it's an apt title.

The name of this particular episode was "The House That Time Forgot" and a very nice little horror story it was. I readily accepted the premise of this story which involved a young couple stepping seven years backwards in time the moment they crossed the threshold of the house. However, my credulity was severely strained at another point. The young couple was just on the verge of purchasing the house when the real estate agent warned them there were several things the matter with it.

"I just thought it fair to tell you all about it before you bought it," said the real estate agent.

Modern Weapons Rattle Rattlers

COLUMBIA, S. C. —(AP) — Bus driver Leonard Mooneyham bagged a rattlesnake near here with a tear gas gun. He stopped his vehicle at sight of a huge rattler snaking across the highway, gave the reptile a blast from the 20-gauge tear gas gun carried on buses to handle hold-ups or other troubles, then killed the gas-stunned rattler with a blow.

Kate Smith Will Pinch-Hit Tonight On Ignorance Show

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, Jan. 16—Aunt Jenny, daytime sketch series of CBS at 12:15, is celebrating on Friday. Then the program becomes ten years old, and in connection with the occasion, Singing Jessica Dragonette, also a veteran in broadcasting, is to drop around as the guest.

In its 3,000 scripts, the program deals with life in a typical American town of 6,500 persons.

With Lulu McConnell off the program for the next two weeks while in the hospital for an operation to her eyes, Kate Smith is filling in for her in It Pays to Be Ignorant, as run by Tom Howard on CBS at 10. This is a sort of return favor to It Pays for the various times the program staff has been guests of Kate's show. As a matter of fact it was Kate who introduced this feature on CBS.

James A. Farley, former postmaster general and former chairman of Democratic national committee, will be the answering guest of Meet the Press on MBS at 10:30.

Clare Boothe Luce and others are joining in a 1 p. m. discussion on NBC of "Women Today in World Affairs." . . . Another NBC talker is Sam Morris of Houston, Tex., at 10:45 p. m., his theme to be "Repeal Has Failed—Prohibition is Coming Back."

Ruggiero Ricco is bringing his violin to the Paul LaValle Melody of NBC at 8 so that he can provide some guest music. . . Sam Salop young AAF veteran who has lost both arms, is to display his qualifications as a singer for the Meredith Willson time of CBS at 7:30.

SALLY'S SALLIES

"Please, Arthur, if you can't say something nice about a person, don't say it!"

Radio in Review

By JOHN CROSBY

The King's English

John Crosby

After too many sessions with the stainless steel, highly abbreviated dialogue in the hard-boiled school of detective drama, you'll find it a healthful change of diet to turn to "The New Adventures of Sherlock Holmes" (ABC 8:30 p. m. Mondays), where, in spite of that word "new," the conversation is as leisurely as it was forty years ago. The estimable Holmes and the good Watson still address each other in sonorous prose decorated with precise and crusty verbs, each as carefully turned as the gingerbread on a Victorian chair.

The other night Sherlock and Watson got mixed up, more or less against their will, in a little mystery called "The Devil's Foot" or, to put it in Watson's terms, they were "precipitated into the middle of gruesome and nerve - wracking events," a phrase that would never occur to Dashiell Hammett.

Mr. Holmes had a visitor, man by the name of Tregenis, who had just had a grievious experience. He had discovered his sister dead and his two brothers stark mad in the "libr'y." "They were beside the fire, the candles quite guttered out," said Mr. Tregenis, who, despite his agitation, never omitted a comma in his recital of the unfortunate affair. "It's uncanny, that's what it is! Something came into that room and killed my deah sistah and dawshed the light of reason from the minds of my two brothahs. It's devilish, that's what it is." Strong words, particularly that last adjective, but, of course, it was an unsettling experience.

To the average American, steeped in the dialogue of Dick Tracy, this manner of discussing a rather serious breach of the law may seem redundant and even a little heartless. Just the same it adds a touch of surprise to even the most routine detective story talk. For instance at one point, Holmes asked a question which has resounded through virtually every mystery ever written. "What time was it?" he inquired.

"The clock on the steeple was just chiming twelve," said Tregenis, a man of the old school who has probably not yet recognised the word "midnight."

Anyhow, Holmes informed Tregenis that he'd let him know if any ideas occurred to him, only he didn't say it like that. "Should anything occur to me, Mr. Tregenis, I shall communicate with you." Holmes, I decided after this remark, would make an excellent writer of memoranda to the troops, an opinion that was confirmed a few moments later when he boasted: "I have every hope of bringing this affair to a satisfactory termination."

Another great difference between Holmes and the deadpan school of American mystery is that it is not considered bad form to betray excitement, providing, of course, it's put in suitable English. Even Holmes, normally an exceptionally cool customer, will ejaculate in moments of deep stress something like: "Great Scott!" Watson, a less stable personality, goes much further. "Ghahstly! Ghahstly!" he exclaimed at one point and later he emitted what sounded in phonetic English like "Haddible!"

Frankly, I like this grave, rounded talk. It gives homicide a degree of dignity notably lacking in the American production. Tom Conway of the movies has taken over the Holmes role from Basil Rathbone. He's had a lot of prior experience solving things as the Saint and the Falcon in the movies. Conway isn't as urbane as Rathbone but then virtually no one else is. Nigel Bruce has been playing Watson for years and still is.

Speaking of mystery stuff, there's a transcribed program called "Murder At Midnight" heard in New York on WJZ, Monday nights and widely distributed in other cities. Two things troubled me the other night about "Murder At Midnight." First, it came on at 10:30 p. m., not at midnight; second, there wasn't a murder in the thing. Apart from that it's an apt title.

The name of this particular episode was "The House That Time Forgot" and a very nice little horror story it was. I readily accepted the premise of this story which involved a young couple stepping seven years backwards in time the moment they crossed the threshold of the house. However, my credulity was severely strained at another point. The young couple was just on the verge of purchasing the house when the real estate agent warned them there were several things the matter with it.

"I just thought it fair to tell you all about it before you bought it," said the real estate agent.

Modern Weapons Rattle Rattlers

COLUMBIA, S. C. —(AP) — Bus driver Leonard Mooneyham bagged a rattlesnake near here with a tear gas gun. He stopped his vehicle at sight of a huge rattler snaking across the highway, gave the reptile a blast from the 20-gauge tear gas gun carried on buses to handle holdups or other troubles, then killed the gas-stunned rattler with a blow.

Attempted Attack On Woman Is Laid To Loartown Man

Victim Identifies Nude Assailant

State Police yesterday afternoon took into custody John A. Broadwater, 24, Loartown, near Vale Summit, and said he attempted to criminally assault Mrs. Paddy Thomas, about 35, of Hoffman, yesterday morning.

Broadwater, police said, admitted he disrobed completely, hid in bushes along the Cumberland and Pennsylvania Railroad right of way between Hoffman and Eckhart and assaulted Mrs. Thomas when she passed, about 10:30 a. m. yesterday.

The admission was made by Broadwater after he was positively identified by Mrs. Thomas as the man who struggled with her and tried to force her into the woods with him, according to State Trooper Harry Holsinger who, with Charles Seifarth, Barracks C communications officer, made the arrest on the Loartown road about 1:30 p. m. yesterday.

Saw Man Ahead

Mrs. Thomas, wife of a former middleweight boxer in this section, was taking a short cut by way of the C. and P. tracks from her home to Pilsinger's store at Eckhart.

She told State Police, they said, that she observed a man walking ahead of her in the same direction on the other side of the tracks, but that after a train passed the man had disappeared from view.

After she walked about a quarter of a mile a man, entirely nude, jumped out of the bushes and grabbed her, State Police said Mrs. Thomas told them.

She declared that the man tried to force her into the bushes, but that she fought him off and ran, State Police reported.

Broadwater pursued her and overtook her several times, but each time she struggled and broke away until at last she was able to run to Pilsinger's store, operated by Joseph Condry, for protection, Trooper Holsinger said.

Bruised, crying and hysterical when she reached the store, Mrs. Thomas finally was able to describe her plight to Condry. When the two of them walked to the highway from the store, she pointed to a man walking up a hill on Route 40.

Going To Frostburg

Mrs. Thomas and Condry got into his truck and they drove alongside the man who had turned off to another road. When Condry called to the pedestrian, "Where are you going?" he replied, "I'm going to Frostburg to get a part for my car." Condry said Mrs. Thomas recognized Broadwater as the man who assaulted her.

Informed of this after Mrs. Thomas husband reported the alleged assault, Trooper Holsinger checked Frostburg garages until he received a description of a man from one of them that tallied with a description given by Mrs. Thomas. Then State Police began a general search for the suspect.

Holsinger and Seifarth spotted Broadwater walking along the edge of the Loartown road about 1:30 p. m., pulled up behind him in a black automobile he apparently hadn't heard and took him into custody.

Broadwater denied the charges, demanded to see warrants for his arrest and balked at getting into the state police car, telling officers, they said, that he had taken the 10:30 bus from Clarysville to Frostburg.

Identified By Mrs. Thomas

However, Broadwater was taken to the Thomas home and when he was identified by Mrs. Thomas as "That's the man," confessed to the attempted attack, Trooper Holsinger said.

The admission was made in the presence of Sgt. W. E. O'Hara, Trooper A. M. Spioch, Holsinger and Seifarth, Holsinger stated.

He added that Broadwater was taken to the County Jail and will be questioned at 9:30 a. m. today in the office of the State's Attorney.

Broadwater, authorities said, is now on parole of the Circuit Court, having been found guilty in October, 1945, of manslaughter in the death of Glenn Merrbaugh, 16, Moscow, September 15, 1945. The Merrbaugh boy was found dead near the old tram line on Jackson Mountain with a rifle bullet in his brain. Broadwater maintained at his trial that he mistook the boy's hat for a squirrel.

Court Dismisses Petit Jury Until Monday Morning

Auto Damage Case Tried Before Court

There were no cases tried in Circuit Court yesterday before a jury and only one small damage suit was heard by the Court. Chief Judge William A. Huster and Associate Judge George Henderson dismissed the petit jury until Monday at 9:15 a. m.

A damage claim of $285.88, as the result of an auto mishap on Union street, Frostburg, August 6, was taken under advisement by the court.

The case was brought by Ralph Ravenscraft, owner of the 1936 Chevrolet driven August 6 by his son, Ralph Ravenscraft, Jr., 18, who said he ran into a parked car owned by Foster Clark when two approaching cars drove him far to the right on the street while he was traveling west.

Ravenscraft said he was driving on Union street with five passengers, Raymond Clise and Jack Blair and three young ladies, when one of two approaching cars coming east endeavored to pass the other and forced him far over on his side of the street.

Ravenscraft said he was traveling 20 miles an hour when Clark's parked car, without lights, loomed up in front of him and he ran into it. Damages to his father's car included a smashed radiator and fenders, he said.

Clark, represented by the firm of Capper and Jenkins, contended that Ravenscraft must have been going faster than he indicated and discounted the testimony of Clise and Blair in view of the fact that each had a young woman in the rear seat with them.

Appeal Case Settled

Announcement was made yesterday that the appeal of William Hunter, 60, from a decision by the State Accident Commission, scheduled to be heard Thursday had been settled out of court.

Testimony taken at the hearing before the commission shows that Fair caught his hand between the vertical bar and roll mill which resulted in injuries to his first, second and third fingers.

Terms of the settlement made by attorneys in the case were not divulged.

Settlement Reported

Attorneys have announced that a damage action resulting from a traffic accident on a local street has been listed on the January docket of Circuit Court as "passed for settlement." Details of the settlement have not been completed.

George W. Keller, of this city, filed the suit against the Cumberland and Allegheny Gas Company and Brace E. Lee, alleging that he was crossing the street when he was hit by a motor vehicle owned by the company and operated by Lee. Estel C. Kelley and D. Lindley Sloan are attorneys for Keller, while the defendants are represented by Walter C. Capper, William S. Jenkins, W. Earle Cobey and James Alfred Avirett.

C Of C Will Try To Bring Summer Conventions Here

A study to determine Cumberland's facilities for handling convention crowds is under way, and efforts will be made to attract organizational meetings here this summer and in 1948, Harold W. Smith, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, said yesterday.

The C. of C. Convention committee met yesterday and made initial plans to study the tri-state area with emphasis on suitable lodging and eating places, particularly those prepared to serve convention banquets.

The committee expects to prepare data on the possibilities offered in this area, and assemble it in pamphlet form to be distributed to interested groups, which may be attracted to Cumberland, for future meetings.

Statistics already gathered here show that the weekends offer the most favorable conditions for handling large crowds that would be attracted to a convention, John L. Towler, committee chairman, declared.

During the early part of the week, most of the hotels are crowded with business men, but they usually leave the city toward the end of each week, he said.

The committee in its early study also discovered that the war time congestion in this area seems to have passed, and Cumberland and surrounding towns, are once more capable of handling large gatherings.

In seeking the conventions, the committee decided, that most effort would be placed on those meetings that are already being held in Maryland. This, they explained, would be about the size gathering that the city could handle.

Another meeting will be held early next month to complete the study and make definite plans to bring the information to the attention of groups that will most likely take advantage of the area's offerings.

Local Butter Prices Drop 6 Cents Per Pound During Past Five Days

More Drastic Cuts Expected Shortly

A skid in butter prices of as much as six cents a pound in the past five days, with more drastic reductions expected in the next few weeks, was reported by managers of local grocery, and chain stores last night.

The superintendent of one chain store corporation operating in this city, declared Grade AA butter that was selling for 80 cents a pound Saturday is now retailing for 75 cents a pound.

Independent dealers said that prices have dropped six cents since the close of business last week when top grade butter was selling for 85 cents a pound.

Reflects Market

George F. Garlitz, president of the Western Maryland Independent Retail Grocers Association, said the price drop is a direct reflection of market conditions, and predicted butter would skid another five cents during next week.

"It is not only butter," Garlitz said, "merchants can feel the bottom slipping in almost all commodities." Explaining his statement, the grocery president declared that it is impossible to put a finger on any one thing, but declared items are dropping a penny at a time.

Both retail and chain dealers said they felt sure that butter prices would continue on the down trend until it reaches about 50 cents a pound, or approximately one half of the $1 per pound price that followed shortly after OPA was abandoned.

The drop in butter prices is beginning in a month when it should be reaching peak cost, Garlitz said, for January is considered an off month for all dairy products.

Egg Priced Down

Egg prices too, were reported falling by the chain store managers, who said a 14 cent reduction has been noted in the past two months, but retail grocerymen declared that egg prices have been holding firm during the past couple of weeks.

One item that is proving an exception to the downward trend is pork, Garlitz declared. The price of the pig has gone up from one to two cents in live weight, he explained, and of course, it is reflecting in all cuts of pork as they are retailed.

Another item that appeared to be dropping in price slightly was cigarets. During the past week a few of the tobacco chain stores have been selling cigarets two packs for 29 cents, a drop of a half cent per pack. However, most places were continuing to get a straight 17 cents a pack.

Textile Workers Ratify 13 Cent Wage Increase

Arbitration Hearing Is Scheduled Today

Members of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, CIO, at meetings Wednesday night and yesterday morning, unanimously concurred in a recommendation of the negotiating committee to accept a 13 cent wage increase for some 9,000 workers of the Amcelle plant of the Celanese Corporation of America, William Boyd Coleman, union president, reported yesterday.

Coleman said the 13 cent increase, when added to the eight cent boost last May and 10 cents in September, 1945, makes a total of 31 cents since V-J day.

The above increases, he added, were gained without resort to strikes. He termed the agreement another step forward in union relationships and praised the co-operation between the membership and the committee which led the wage drive.

Joseph J. Barley, business manager, said the "negotiations prove again that differences between unions and management can be adjusted to the satisfaction of all parties without resorting to either work stoppages or oppressive labor legislation."

The eight-cent increase of last May, coupled with the 13 cents which is retroactive to December 17, 1946, amounts to $8.40 weekly or an additional $436.80 yearly for each Celanese worker, Coleman stated. The average wage in the plant will be around $1.15, he said.

Union officers said approximately 7,000 claims have been filed locally and pointed out it is still possible to file during regular office hours at Textile Hall.

An uptwist-downtwist arbitration hearing with Sidney A. Wolff as arbitrator is scheduled for the Court House at 9:30 p. m. today. Herbert W. Payne, synthetic yarn director for the TWUA, will be counsel for the union.

Teachers Pay Will Be Aired By Ridgeley Legion

Campaign Underway To Raise Salaries

An extensive statewide campaign is being launched in West Virginia to arouse interest in the plight of school teachers and the public education system generally, according to members of Knobley Mountain Post No. 136 American Ridgeley, W. Va. Members of the post plan to give the situation an airing at their regular meeting Tuesday night, and indications are, the post will endorse a program for more pay for teachers without increasing taxes.

Post Adjutant William L. Dailey has a letter from the Mineral County Education Association, signed by Edwin F. Baldwin, for the Mineral County Education Association's Legislative Committee and Charles N. Wimer, vice-president of the Association, outlining plans for more pay for teachers.

Veterans Are Interested

The letter explains that West Virginia ranks 47th in the 48 states in teachers' pay and public education. It calls attention to the fact that neighboring states including Maryland, Virginia, Pennsylvania, and Ohio are forging ahead in education and pay for teachers, and West Virginia should at least keep pace.

The Education Association has engaged, the letter continues, the best legal, tax and legislative experts, and will have these representatives in Charleston during the session of W. Va., State Legislature, to attempt to get bills passed aiding schools and teachers.

Dailey said the question is of considerable interest to veterans in Ridgeley as most of them have children and the Legion is interested in everything for the good of the community and the country. He stated that he and the post commander, Jack Murrell have studied the situation and he revealed some interesting figures on the question of teacher salaries.

Among several cases, he cited one of a commercial teacher in the Ridgeley High School. This teacher has been teaching for 10 years and is paid a total of $177 per month, less $14 per month for retirement fund and taxes. He is paid the year-round as they are in Maryland and most other states. This makes his total annual takehome pay $1,467, or an average of $122.50 per month, Dailey explained.

Dailey declared, "this seems like a shame when you figure teachers are being paid less than common laborers, despite the fact that the majority of them go through college and have spent considerable time and education preparing for their professions."

Graduated Scale Proposed

Under the proposal to increase the pay of teachers, a graduated scale has been set up which would provide more money for teachers, but many people believe this proposed increase is still below a normal living standard. However, teachers have agreed generally that this basis will provide them some assurance of a decent living. Some of the figures follow:

	Masters Degree Pay Now	Masters Degree Proposed
5 years	1,620	2,270
10 years	1,755	2,540
15 years	1,890	2,810

A.B. Degree Pay Now	A.B. Degree Proposed	Second Class Pay Now	Second Class Proposed
$1,350	$1,800	$1,260	$1,530
1,485	2,070	1,395	1,800
1,620	2,340	1,530	2,070

Third grade certificate teachers start now at $1,215 per year and it is proposed to increase their pay to $1,485. After five years they can earn $1,350 under present scale and $1,755 is proposed.

Dailey said yesterday American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars posts, the West Virginia State Federation of Labor, Loyal Order of Moose, Women's Clubs and the State Parent-Teacher Association are all supporting the move for more pay for teachers, and are placing emphasis on the fact that money for this increase must come from the state's two percent sales tax and not from increased levy on farms and real estate.

Attempted Attack On Woman Is Laid To Loartown Man

Victim Identifies Nude Assailant

State Police yesterday afternoon took into custody John A. Broadwater, 24, Loartown, near Vale Summit, and said he attempted to criminally assault Mrs. Paddy Thomas, about 35, of Hoffman, yesterday morning.

Broadwater, police said, admitted he disrobed completely, hid in bushes along the Cumberland and Pennsylvania Railroad right of way between Hoffman and Eckhart and assaulted Mrs. Thomas when she passed, about 10:30 a. m. yesterday.

The admission was made by Broadwater after he was positively identified by Mrs. Thomas as the man who struggled with her and tried to force her into the woods with him, according to State Trooper Harry Holsinger who, with Charles Seifarth, Barracks C communications officer, made the arrest on the Loartown road about 1:30 p. m. yesterday.

Saw Man Ahead

Mrs. Thomas, wife of a former middleweight boxer in this section, was taking a short cut by way of the C. and P. tracks from her home to Filsinger's store at Eckhart.

She told State Police, they said, that she observed a man walking ahead of her in the same direction on the other side of the tracks, but that after a train passed the man had disappeared from view.

After she walked about a quarter of a mile a man, entirely nude, jumped out of the bushes and grabbed her, State Police said Mrs. Thomas told them.

She declared that the man tried to force her into the bushes, but that she fought him off and ran, State Police reported.

Broadwater pursued her and overtook her several times, but each time she struggled and broke away until at last she was able to run to Filsinger's store, operated by Joseph Condry, for protection, Trooper Holsinger said.

Bruised, crying and hysterical when she reached the store, Mrs. Thomas finally was able to describe her plight to Condry. When the two of them walked to the highway from the store, she pointed to a man walking up a hill on Route 40.

Going To Frostburg

Mrs. Thomas and Condry got into his truck and they drove alongside the man who had turned off to another road. When Condry called to the pedestrian, "Where are you going?" he replied, "I'm going to Frostburg to get a part for my car." Condry said Mrs. Thomas recognized Broadwater as the man who assaulted her.

Informed of this after Mrs. Thomas husband reported the alleged assault, Trooper Holsinger checked Frostburg garages until he received a description of a man from one of them that tallied with a description given by Mrs. Thomas. Then State Police began a general search for the suspect.

Holsinger and Seifarth spotted Broadwater walking along the edge of the Loartown road about 1:30 p. m., pulled up behind him in a black automobile he apparently had-n't heard and took him into custody.

Broadwater denied the charges, demanded to see warrants for his arrest and balked at getting into the state police car, telling officers, they said, that he had taken the 10:30 bus from Clarysville to Frostburg.

Identified By Mrs. Thomas

However, Broadwater was taken to the Thomas home and when he was identified by Mrs. Thomas as "That's the man," confessed to the attempted attack, Trooper Holsinger said.

The admission was made in the presence of Sgt. W. E. O'Hara, Trooper A. M. Spioch, Holsinger and Seifarth, Holsinger stated.

He added that Broadwater was taken to the County Jail and will be questioned at 9:30 a. m. today in the office of the State's Attorney.

Broadwater, authorities said, is now on parole of the Circuit Court, having been found guilty in October, 1945, of manslaughter in the death of Glenn Merrbaugh, 16, Moscow, September 15, 1945. The Merrbaugh boy was found dead near the old tram line on Jackson Mountain with a rifle bullet in his brain. Broadwater maintained at his trial that he mistook the boy's hat for a squirrel.

Court Dismisses Petit Jury Until Monday Morning

Auto Damage Case Tried Before Court

There were no cases tried in Circuit Court yesterday before a jury and only one small damage suit was heard by the Court. Chief Judge William A. Huster and Associate Judge George Henderson dismissed the petit jury until Monday at 9:15 a. m.

A damage claim of $285.88, as the result of an auto mishap on Union street, Frostburg, August 6, was taken under advisement by the court.

The case was brought by Ralph Ravenscraft, owner of the 1936 Chevrolet driven August 6 by his son, Ralph Ravenscraft, Jr., 18, who said he ran into a parked car owned by Foster Clark when two approaching cars drove him far to the right on the street while he was traveling west.

Ravenscraft said he was driving on Union street with five passengers, Raymond Clise and Jack Blair and three young ladies, when one of two approaching cars coming east endeavored to pass the other and forced him far over on his side of the street.

Ravenscraft said he was traveling 20 miles an hour when Clark's parked car, without lights, loomed up in front of him and he ran into it. Damages to his father's car included a smashed radiator and fenders, he said.

Clark, represented by the firm of Capper and Jenkins, contended that Ravenscraft must have been going faster than he indicated and discounted the testimony of Clise and Blair in view of the fact that each had a young woman in the rear seat with them.

"It's doubtful if they were paying much attention to Ravenscraft's driving," Jenkins observed.

Appeal Case Settled

Announcement was made yesterday that the appeal of William Hunter, 60, from a decision by the State Accident Commission, scheduled to be heard Thursday had been settled out of court.

Hunter, who injured his left hand while operating a strip mill at the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company on January 23 of last year, was represented by Edward J. Ryan. The firm was represented by Capper and Jenkins.

Testimony taken at the hearing before the commission shows that Fair caught his hand between the vertical bar and roll mill which resulted in injuries to his first, second and third fingers.

Terms of the settlement made by attorneys in the case were not divulged.

Settlement Reported

Attorneys have announced that a damage action resulting from a traffic accident on a local street has been listed on the January docket of Circuit Court as "passed for settlement." Details of the settlement have not been completed.

George W. Keller, of this city, filed the suit against the Cumberland and Allegheny Gas Company and Brace E. Lee, alleging that he was crossing the street when he was hit by a motor vehicle owned by the company and operated by Lee. Estel C. Kelley and D. Lindley Sloan are attorneys for Keller, while the defendants are represented by Walter C. Capper, William S. Jenkins, W. Earle Cobey and James Alfred Avirett.

Brass Clock Presented Mayor Post To Mark Recommissioning Of Ship

Tanker Was Renamed For Cumberland

A ship's brass electric clock was presented to Mayor Thomas S. Post, yesterday, by W. H. St. Clair, Baltimore, assistant manager of Delaware, Maryland, and District of Columbia, for the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, as a token of the recommissioning of the tanker ESSO CUMBERLAND, at Norfolk, Va., last November.

The presentation was made at a dinner held at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club which was arranged by Robert B. MacBeth, district manager of the Standard Company here, attended by other officials of the company and a few local residents.

In making the presentation Mr. St. Clair said his company is pleased to have one of its ships named for Cumberland, and had been delighted to have Mayor Post and Henry W. Price, president of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce, represent Cumberland at the recommissioning of the vessel. He added that the company wanted Mayor Post to have the clock as a remembrance of the trip.

Mayor Post thanked Mr. St. Clair and the company for honoring Cumberland, adding that the citizens of Cumberland were proud the city had been so honored. He expressed his appreciation in being invited to participate in the recommissioning of the ship, and thanked the company for the clock, but added that he did not need a gift to remind him of the trip because it was one of the most interesting he ever took.

Mr. St. Clair presented both the Mayor and Mr. Price with portfolios containing a series of photographs taken when the ship was recommissioned.

To Honorable Mayor Thomas S. Post
Commemorating the recommissioning of the

Nov. 23, 1946

C Of C Will Try To Bring Summer Conventions Here

A study to determine Cumberland's facilities for handling convention crowds is under way, and efforts will be made to attract organizational meetings here this summer and in 1948, Harold W. Smith, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, said yesterday.

The C. of C. Convention committee met yesterday and made initial plans to study the tri-state area with emphasis on suitable lodging and eating places, particularly those prepared to serve convention banquets.

The committee expects to prepare data on the possibilities offered in this area, and assemble it in pamphlet form to be distributed to interested groups, which may be attracted to Cumberland, for future meetings.

Statistics already gathered here show that the weekends offer the most favorable conditions for handling large crowds that would be attracted to a convention, John L. Towler, committee chairman, declared.

During the early part of the week, most of the hotels are crowded with business men, but they usually leave the city toward the end of each week, he said.

The committee in its early study also discovered that the war time congestion in this area seems to have passed, and Cumberland and surrounding towns, are once more capable of handling large gatherings.

In seeking the conventions, the committee decided, that most effort would be placed on those meetings that are already being held in Maryland. This, they explained, would be about the size gathering that the city could handle.

Another meeting will be held early next month to complete the study and make definite plans to bring the information to the attention of groups that will most likely take advantage of the area's offerings.

Local Butter Prices Drop 6 Cents Per Pound During Past Five Days

More Drastic Cuts Expected Shortly

A skid in butter prices of as much as six cents a pound in the past five days, with more drastic reductions expected in the next few weeks, was reported by managers of local grocery, and chain stores last night.

The superintendent of one chain store corporation operating in this city, declared Grade AA butter that was selling for 80 cents a pound Saturday is now retailing for 75 cents a pound.

Independent dealers said that prices have dropped six cents since the close of business last week when top grade butter was selling for 85 cents a pound.

Reflects Market

George F. Garlitz, president of the Western Maryland Independent Retail Grocers Association, said the price drop is a direct reflection of market conditions, and predicted butter would skid another five cents during next week.

"It is not only butter," Garlitz said, "merchants can feel the bottom slipping in almost all commodities." Explaining his statement, the grocery president declared that it is impossible to put a finger on any one thing, but declared items are dropping a penny at a time.

Both retail and chain dealers said they felt sure that butter prices would continue on the down trend until it reaches about 50 cents a pound, or approximately one half of the $1 per pound price that followed shortly after OPA was abandoned.

The drop in butter prices is beginning in a month when it should be reaching peak cost, Garlitz said, for January is considered an off month for all dairy products.

Egg Priced Down

Egg prices too, were reported falling by the chain store managers, who said a 14 cent reduction has been noted in the past two months, but retail grocerymen declared that egg prices have been holding firm during the past couple of weeks.

One item that is proving an exception to the downward trend is pork, Garlitz declared. The price of the pig has gone up from one to two cents in live weight, he explained, and of course, it is reflecting in all cuts of pork as they are retailed.

Another item that appeared to be dropping in price slightly was cigarets. During the past week a few of the tobacco chain stores have been selling cigarets two packs for 29 cents, a drop of a half cent per pack. However, most places were continuing to get a straight 17 cents a pack.

Textile Workers Ratify 13 Cent Wage Increase

Arbitration Hearing Is Scheduled Today

Members of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, CIO, at meetings Wednesday night and yesterday morning, unanimously concurred in a recommendation of the negotiating committee to accept a 13 cent wage increase for some 9,000 workers of the Amcelle plant of the Celanese Corporation of America, William Boyd Coleman, union president, reported yesterday.

Coleman said the 13 cent increase, when added to the eight cent boost last May and 10 cents in September, 1945, makes a total of 31 cents since V-J day.

The above increases, he added, were gained without resort to strikes. He termed the agreement another step forward in union relationships and praised the co-operation between the membership and the committee which led the wage drive.

Joseph J. Barley, business manager, said the "negotiations prove again that differences between unions and management can be adjusted to the satisfaction of all parties without resorting to either work stoppages or oppressive labor legislation."

The eight-cent increase of last May, coupled with the 13 cents which is retroactive to December 17, 1946, amounts to $8.40 weekly or an additional $436.80 yearly for each Celanese worker, Coleman stated. The average wage in the plant will be around $1.15, he said.

Earl Snyder, vice president, and Arthur Schusterman, recording secretary, of Local 1874, are scheduled to testify before a Senate committee in Washington today regarding portal-to-portal legislation.

Union officers said approximately 7,000 claims have been filed locally and pointed out it is still possible to file during regular office hours at Textile Hall.

An uptwist-downtwist arbitration hearing with Sidney A. Wolff as arbitrator is scheduled for the Court House at 9:30 p. m. today. Herbert W. Payne, synthetic yarn director for the TWUA, will be counsel for the union.

Teachers Pay Will Be Aired By Ridgeley Legion

Campaign Underway To Raise Salaries

An extensive statewide campaign is being launched in West Virginia to arouse interest in the plight of school teachers and the public education system generally, according to members of Knobley Mountain Post No. 136 American Ridgeley, W. Va. Members of the post plan to give the situation an airing at their regular meeting Tuesday night, and indications are, the post will endorse a program for more pay for teachers without increasing taxes.

Post Adjutant William L. Dailey has a letter from the Mineral County Education Association, signed by Edwin F. Baldwin, for the Mineral County Education Association's Legislative Committee and Charles N. Wimer, vice-president of the Association, outlining plans for more pay for teachers.

Veterans Are Interested

The letter explains that West Virginia ranks 47th in the 48 states in teachers' pay and public education. It calls attention to the fact that neighboring states including Maryland, Virginia, Pennsylvania, and Ohio are forging ahead in education and pay for teachers, and West Virginia should at least keep pace.

The Education Association has engaged, the letter continues, the best legal, tax and legislative experts, and will have these representatives in Charleston during the session of W. Va., State Legislature, to attempt to get bills passed aiding schools and teachers.

Dailey said the question is of considerable interest to veterans in Ridgeley as most of them have children and the Legion is interested in everything for the good of the community and the country. He stated that he and the post commander, Jack Murrell have studied the situation and he revealed some interesting figures on the question of teacher salaries.

Among several cases, he cited one of a commercial teacher in the Ridgeley High School. This teacher has been teaching for 10 years and is paid a total of $177 per month, less $14 per month for retirement fund and taxes. He is paid the year-round as they are in Maryland and most other states. This makes his total annual takehome pay $1,467, or an average of $122.50 per month, Dailey explained.

Dailey declared, "this seems like a shame when you figure teachers are being paid less than common laborers, despite the fact that the majority of them go through college and have spent considerable time and education preparing for their professions."

Graduated Scale Proposed

Under the proposal to increase the pay of teachers, a graduated scale has been set up which would provide more money for teachers, but many people believe this proposed increase is still below a normal living standard. However, teachers have agreed generally that this basis will provide them some assurance of a decent living. Some of the figures follow:

	Masters Degree
	Pay Now	Proposed
Beginners	$1,485	$2,000
5 years	1,620	2,270
10 years	1,755	2,540
15 years	1,890	2,810

A.B. Degree		Second Class
Pay Now	Proposed	Pay Now	Proposed
$1,350	$1,800	$1,260	$1,530
1,485	2,070	1,395	1,800
1,620	2,340	1,530	2,070

Third grade certificate teachers start now at $1,215 per year and it is proposed to increase their pay to $1,485. After five years they can earn $1,350 under present scale and $1,755 is proposed.

Dailey said yesterday American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars posts, the West Virginia State Federation of Labor, Loyal Order of Moose, Women's Clubs and the State Parent-Teacher Association are all supporting the move for more pay for teachers, and are placing emphasis on the fact that money for this increase must come from the state's two percent sales tax and not from increased levy on farms and real estate.
